The LOVEJOY GENEALOGY
WITH BIOGRAPHIES AND HISTORY
1460–1930

Especially recording the American descendants and the English ancestry of John Lovejoy (1622-1690) of Andover, Mass., and of Joseph Lovejoy (1684-1748) of Prince George County, Md., but also embracing all known data on other persons bearing the Lovejoy name whether or not identified with the emigrant ancestors.

PREFACE

YEARS before the compiler of The Lovejoy Genealogy was born, and certainly long before he began his researches, a number of Lovejoys, collaterals and also unrelated outsiders contemplated a genealogy about this old family. This book, therefore, is the culmination of data gathering that has covered at least sixty years and probably longer.

Never before has a Lovejoy Genealogy been published although the plan and intent were in at least a score of minds during the past six decades. Some unforeseen barrier always, until now, halted the work. Some of those men and women, who started but never finished a Lovejoy Genealogy, died before their data could be printed. Others imagined early in their researches that the Lovejoy family was small and its numbers few, but as the responses to their questionnaires produced avalanche upon avalanche of newly discovered genealogical facts about Lovejoys, they found the task too huge. Except for a twenty-eight page sketch, prepared in 1917 of one sub-branch of the Lovejoy family in America, by Mrs. Annie Givin Jackson, then of Denver and now of Pittsburgh, and except for a series of four newspaper articles which appeared in the Andover (Mass.) Townsman thirty-three years ago, the Lovejoy family has been wholly without, until now, a family genealogy of any size. Literally hundreds of Lovejoys in America have hoped theirs could be a family having a complete historical genealogy, with biographies.

It seems timely and appropriate that at last the Lovejoy Genealogy is being published in this year of 1930 when, in New England, where most of us in America find our origins, a great tercentenary is this Summer being observed by "The Governor and Company of the Massachusetts Bay in New England." And nearly the identical span of 300 years since Massachusetts was settled covers the period in America of Lovejoys.

This Lovejoy Genealogy will be found painstakingly prepared, and, so far as the Compiler knows, it is complete and accurate. Hundreds of genealogies, town histories and other reference books have been examined and a vast correspondence engaged in. The Compiler is indebted to many libraries.

Perhaps the Compiler could have delved back behind the year 1460, which marks the earliest record of a Lovejoy in England; but, after all, isn't that going back far enough? The extreme limit was noted late in 1929 when a number of magazine supplements in a chain of Sunday newspapers carried a full-page story of an Ohio woman genealogist under the following caption, "She Traces Her Ancestry all the Way Back to Adam and Eve." Ending with herself and beginning with Adam,[1] then continuing through Seth,[2] Henos,[3] etc., she claims lineage of great dimensions. However, back of the sixteenth century she leaves much to the imagination. One gap is covered by the explanation, "ancient princes of Wales," the word, "princes" being plural. Several jumps further back she breaches another gap with "ancient kings of Wales." On back she goes, almost breathless. One reads about Geoffrey of Plantagenet. Even William the Conqueror is her ancestor. But another and another gap are encountered, one breached by "seven generations of kings of Scotland," another by "twelve generations of kings of Argylshire." Still anther gap is filled mysteriously but glibly when she enters in her family tree "fifteen generations of Irish kings." Then follow "thirty-seven generations of Irish kings," then "six generations of kings of Judah," and, finally, between Henos[3] and David,[34] she tucks in "thirty generations, male line, according to Luke, III."

Perhaps. But so far as the Compiler of the Lovejoy Genealogy knows, our family goes back to 1460 and not to the Garden of Eden, at least not easily.

It is no exaggeration to say that, during the period of more than sixty years since a Lovejoy Genealogy was first contemplated, a huge amount of work has been necessary. The Compiler alone has devoted much of the past eleven years and many of thousands of hours of his time and dollars of his money to producing this record of the family. Obviously, there is and can be no material recompense. His only reward is the pleasure and satisfaction it will bring members of the Lovejoy family as they read its pages.

Why would any one take the needed time from his business and other affairs? Here is the story surrounding the Lovejoy Genealogy. Eleven years ago the Compiler, as the last male representative of his particular branch, inherited on the death of his great uncle a Lovejoy family chart pencilled roughly on yellowing paper. It had been highly valued and long guarded in the family. It was a valuable document. With it came an implied request that it be carefully preserved and, if possible, brought up to date.

This chart looked complete. In my naïveté I assumed that it was inclusive of all American Lovejoys up to about the year 1900 and that, if I were to devote a brief few weeks, I could bring this chart up to date. Until then, I had heard of few other Lovejoys except those I could identify as distant relatives, and I labored under the delusion that the family with its somewhat uncommon name of Lovejoy was not a large one.

That was eleven years ago. Since then I have learned of the existence, names, dates and pedigrees of not a few score of Lovejoys but, instead, of more than 10,000 Lovejoys and collaterals. I have personally examined painstakingly and laboriously more than 100,000 data sheets, many of which came to me in response to a series of questionnaires to Lovejoy names found in city directories and telephone books. Many thousands of other data sheets I borrowed or inherited from other amateur Lovejoy genealogists of the past.

Almost at the moment of going to press with this book in October, 1929, I obtained, in an abandoned farm house in a small New Jersey town, five huge drawers of an old wooden filing cabinet which represented the genealogical collections of the late Dimmitt Ross Lovejoy, whose letters mailed from Niagara Falls and other cities between 1900 and 1908 will be remembered by many living members of the family.

Included in his records were copies of hundreds of data sheets prepared at the expense of and on behalf of Alexander Graham Bell.

The latter's fame as the inventor of the telephone is undying. But how many Lovejoys know that sixty years ago Professor Bell devoted a vast amount of time studying the Lovejoy family genealogy and its heredity, although he was not a member of the family even indirectly? He printed a graphical family tree of many branches of the Lovejoy clan. His principal assistant during his Lovejoy researches was the late A. C. Pratt of Chelsea, Mass., who, with Mrs. Pratt, copied at Professor Bell's expense many Massachusetts court records and from other sources.

Professor Bell's interest in the Lovejoy family resulted from his scientific studies into hereditary deafness and deaf mutism, certain branches of the Lovejoy family having been marked by these afflictions. Happily, these misfortunes are almost unknown among Lovejoys today. Professor Bell, as a young man, was a teacher in the Horace Mann School for the Deaf in Boston, and he married one of his private pupils, Mabel Gardiner Hubbard, daughter of Gardiner Greene Hubbard, a wealthy Bostonian and founder of the National Geographic Society. Miss Hubbard had become deaf as a child and, in studying the aspects, Professor Bell decided to make a thorough investigation of a typical American family which had been marked by occasional similar instances. He selected the Lovejoy family. This study was made between 1870 and 1890 and during part of the period Professor Bell engaged the services of Mr. and Mrs. Pratt who examined records around Boston and engaged in a voluminous correspondence with many branches of the Lovejoy family in New England and other states. It was Mr. Pratt who prepared Professor Bell's graphical chart which showed several branches of the Lovejoy family and on which were indicated by a conventional sign the deaf mutes. It is probable that the occasional Lovejoy deaf mutism was inherited through the wife of an early Lovejoy and it is almost certain that it was subsequently stamped out as these afflicted lines married normal men and women. It appeared in one Lovejoy of the fifth generation, one in the sixth and in a number in the seventh and eighth generations.

In 1900 Professor Bell put at the disposal of D. Ross Lovejoy all the Lovejoy records that he had accumulated and which were then and are now (1930) deposited in the Volta Bureau, For The Increase and Diffusion of Knowledge Relating to the Deaf, in Washington, D. C. The Compiler also has borrowed for his illustrations in this Genealogy several photographs now in the Volta Bureau files.

The Compiler herewith reprints one of Professor Bell's letters:

Washington, D. C., December 3, 1900.

Mr. D. R. Lovejoy,
Electrical Engineer, Niagara Falls, New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—

Your note of of the 28th ult. recd. I have compiled a genealogy of the Lovejoy family in the United States, descendants of John Lovejoy, who settled in Andover, Mass. in 1644, comprising many hundred of the descendants. This mass of genealogical matter exists in manuscript form, and is filed in the archives of the Volta Bureau for the Increase and Diffusion of Knowledge Relating to the Deaf.

The object of my research was to trace the ancestry of certain families by the name of Lovejoy in which hereditary deafness had made its appearance; but in the course of the work much material was necessarily collected that had no reference to the object of my research.

You are at perfect liberty to consult these records, and make such use of them as you desire, only we cannot have the manuscripts go out of the Bureau. It would be necessary, therefore to come to Washington in order to consult them.

We have so much material here concerning the descendants of John Lovejoy, that I think it would pay you to come.

The Hon. John Hitz, Supt. of the Volta Bureau, will be glad to show you every courtesy and attention.

Yours sincerely,
Alexander Graham Bell.

My own great uncle, the late Charles H. Lovejoy of Sidney, Me., also exchanged data with Professor Bell frequently and entertained him at his Sidney farmhouse, the one contributing library and court house records, the other data gleaned from interviews and first hand information as he visited the Maine countryside.

There were others, many others, in addition to Professor Bell, Charles H. Lovejoy and D. Ross Lovejoy, who have worked zealously to put the history of the Lovejoy family on printed pages and whose records I either obtained in their original form or as copied by living members of their families.

It is almost unwise to mention these amateur genealogists for fear of omitting some who have contributed directly or indirectly to this monumental task. But I shall take the risk and acknowledge the use of data collected by the following especially: Miss Charlotte H. Abbot of Andover; Rev. C. C. Carpenter of Andover; Captain Winthrop Wetherbee of Boston; Stephen Arthur Lovejoy, head of the present Lovejoy family in Andover; Dr. W. C. Lovejoy of Maywood, Ill.; Mrs. Annie Givin Jackson of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Ethel Colby Conant of Augusta; Mrs. Nannie Lovejoy Ross of Kokomo; Mrs. Adelle Lovejoy Currier of St. Edward, Neb.; Joseph Lovejoy of Cambridge, Mass.; Herman S. Lovejoy of New Haven, Conn.; Dr. James William Hamilton Lovejoy of Washington, D. C.; Dr. Frederick C. Lovejoy of Farmington, Me.; Mrs. Horace E. Lovejoy of Good Hope, Ill.; Henry S. Lovejoy of Janesville, Wis.; F. T. F. Lovejoy of Pittsburgh; W. K. Harrington of Newport; Ezra S. Stearns of Fitchburg, Mass., and others whose records, although less in volume, have been invaluable in facts.

My Lovejoy Genealogy, once under way, had an irresistible momentum. It gathered size like a rolling snow ball. It passed 200 pages, then it was 300 pages in size, and then 400 and more. The precious chart of my great uncle, which started me on this work, became only a small segment in a truly huge family circle.

The Lovejoy Genealogy now stands as complete as this Compiler is able to make it. It seems unlikely that any one else, certainly not for many years, will undertake the work of compiling another Lovejoy book.

Some few errors perhaps will be found herein. They will be found because errors are likely to exist in family histories. No genealogy was ever 100% accurate.

A genealogy is not composed; it is compiled. No compiler sits down and out of a mind, however fertile, manufactures the names, dates, places and events. These facts come to him from many sources and from many correspondents, some of them aged people. A compiler is often aware of errors but he tries his best to sift the facts from the fancies. He repeatedly finds two brothers or two sisters disagreeing on the dates of birth of their parents or the name of their great grandfather. Perhaps, both are right; perhaps neither. Perhaps the great grandfather's name was John Augustus; possibly he was known to some descendants as Grandpa John and to others as Grandpa Gus, and to still others as "old man Lovejoy whose name I have forgotten, but perhaps it was neither John or Gus, but William."

What is the Compiler to do? He tries to match these facts with those from other correspondents, dovetail them and arrive at the best possible solution. Family traditions are often in error. I have had at least twenty people write me that they were the great grandson or daughter of the famous Rev. Elijah Parish Lovejoy. Many of my well-meaning but mistaken correspondents were not even distant grand nephews or ninth cousins.

There are some few persons in every family, including the Lovejoy, who fail to respond to the Compiler's questionnaires, even fail to reply to letters and telegrams. Happily they are in the small minority and it is to the credit of hundreds of others that they cooperated splendidly in marshalling the facts for this book. Those who sent me adequate data will quite naturally be pleased to find their families more fully recorded.

The Compiler is grateful to the following Lovejoys for subscriptions of varying amounts: Frederick Bates Lovejoy of Montclair, N. J., Frank William Lovejoy of Rochester, N. Y., Herman Samuel Lovejoy of New Haven, Conn., Jesse Robert Lovejoy of Schenectady, N. Y., Henry Stow Lovejoy of Janesville, Wis., Nannie Lovejoy Ross of Kokomo, Ind., Israel Delevan Lovejoy of Stockton, Calif., and Edward Samuel Lovejoy of Chicago, Ill.

In bestowing my thanks to the many who have helped, I must not neglect this public mention of Miss Madelyn Genevieve Dunphy of New York, whose intelligent and conscientious assistance in the necessary correspondence, manuscript preparation and indexing has been magnificent.

THE LOVEJOY NAME AND ITS TRAVELS

THE Lovejoy family readily traces its ancestry to England where, mainly in Buckinghamshire and also in such other southern counties as Essex, Berkshire and Kent, there are clear records of the ancestors of the American branches back to 1460. Indeed, there has been practically no variation in the spelling of the name in nearly 500 years. Perhaps the early English parish clerks and church sextons who wrote it Loveioy or Loveioye could not distinguish in their alphabets between the "i" and the "j." Similarly, those few early instances where the name is found spelled Louejoy, Lovjoy, Loujoy, Lovejoye, Loveioi, Loveioy and Louejoye should be ascribed to carelessness.

In America the spelling has always been consistently Lovejoy. According to the late Rev. C. C. Carpenter, one time editor of the Andover Townsman, the old provincial, colloquial and local pronunciation in Andover was "Luv'jy," with the accent on the first syllable. Thirty years ago he recorded that aged residents of Andover, in recalling persons of their childhood dating back several decades, pronounced Abbot as "Ab'bit," Jenkins as "Jin'kins" and Lovejoy as "Luv'jy." This pronunciation raises the possibility, though remote, that the Ellen Lougie, who is recorded as arriving in America on the ship "Increase," Apr. 14, 1635, may have been connected. Ellen was 20 years old and attached to the family of Samuel and Jane Andrews. She had been "sent away" by Robert Cordell, goldsmith, of London and she settled in Charlestown, Mass.

A rather wide variety of guesses about the derivation of the name of Lovejoy has been made from time to time by members of the family. For example, George Lovejoy of Reading, Berks, England, in 1869, suggested that the early Lovejoys may have descended from Sir John L'Ofré, son of Sir John L'Ofré and Johannah Pulham, who died in Wallingford, Berks, in 1336. Their name was sometimes spelled L'Ofroy. Dr. David H. Lovejoy (1006) had a different idea because of one of the early spellings of the name, i. e., Lovejoye. He thought this final "e" indicated that, although a Saxon name, it had perhaps been changed during the passage of an early Saxon through France on his way to England. He believed the original name was Lufe (Lu-fe) which, he said, was an old Saxon word for love. He thought the French word "Joie" had been added.

In the genealogy, Thomas Joy and His Descendants, its compiler suggests that the surname Joy may have been derived from the Jouy region of Normandy and may have reached England in the form of "de Jouy" and may later have been the origin of the surname Jay and even the name Gee.

To the Compiler of the Lovejoy genealogy, however, the origin of the name Lovejoy seems more obvious. Was it not originally applied to a man who loved joy? Isn't it in a similar category with those early English patronymics such as Lovelace, Loveday, Lovewell, Dearborn, Dearlove, etc.?

In one of his Stone genealogies, J. Gardner Bartlett paraphrases somewhat as follows the origin of English surnames. Among the early Briton and Saxon peoples of England there were no family names, but after the Norman conquest of 1066 many of the nobles from Normandy used as family surnames the homes of their lordships, i. e., Roger de Beaumont, Roger de Montgomerie, William de Warrenne (later Warren) etc. The "de" disappeared when later they began taking the names of English parishes, hamlets and towns, i. e., Thomas de Coggeshall, Everard de Boxted, etc.

The great mass of English people, mostly of Anglo-Saxon or Danish blood, and without lands, bore no surnames until late in the thirteenth century in the reign of Edward I (1272-1307). As population increased, surnames became necessary to distinguish identities, although among the Welsh people the custom did not develop until the sixteenth century.

English family names are derived from seven principal sources:—

I. Places in Normandy and England.

II. Localities:—Walter-at-the-stone became Walter atte stone, later Walter Stone; similarly, Wood, Wells, Hill, Dale, Field, Lea or Lee, Brook, Ford, Lane, Marsh, Gates, Park, Church, etc.

III. Patronymics in three forms:—

  a. Saxon form:—Robert, the son of Richard, became Robert Richardson, Richards, Dickson or Dixon; John, the son of William, became John Williamson, Williams or Wilson; similarly, Johnson, Jones and Jackson; Davidson, Davis and Dawes; Thompson, Thomson and Tompkins, etc.

  b. Norman form:—Roger fils or fitz (son of) Gilbert; similarly, Fitz Herbert, Fitz Gerald, etc.

c. Welsh form:—John ap (son of) Ryce became John Price; ap Owen became Bowen; ap Richard became Pritchard; ap Howell became Powell, etc.

IV. Occupations:—John le smith became John the smith and finally John Smith; similarly Mason, Barber, Baker, Carpenter, Tailor (Taylor), Cooper, Carter, Miller, Shepherd, Wright, etc.

V. Offices:—Earl, Baron (Barron), Knight, Lord, Marshall, Summoner (Sumner), Burgess, Bailiff (or Bailey), Bishop, Abbot, Clerk or Clark, Forrester or Foster, Parker, etc.

VI. Personal Characteristics:—Long, Tallman, Lowe, Little, Small, White, Gray, Brown, Read (Red), Clement, Savage, Grave, Rich, Poor, Hardy, Strong, Armstrong, Swift, etc.

(The Compiler of the Lovejoy Genealogy sees no reason to look further than this practice of adopting personal characteristics in searching for the derivation of the name of Lovejoy.)

VII. Animals, Birds and Fish:—Wolf, Bull, Lion, Lamb, Leveret, Fowle, Hawke, Wrenn, Partridge, Martin, Swan, Crane, Drake, Fiske, Salmon, Ray, Crabb, etc. Persons given these names had probably used them for a sign or device or perhaps had some real or fancied physical or mental characteristics suggested by these creatures.

The American Lovejoy family first appeared in Andover, Mass., that beautiful little town, just north of Boston, that has retained its name and fame partly because of its boys' school. When Andover became overcrowded with farms, the Lovejoys moved northward, into that part of the Massachusetts Bay Colony which later was divided off into Maine, and also into New Hampshire. A few chose Vermont and some few went to Connecticut. In another few years the migration turned westward. Several counties of New York State find Lovejoys in their early records. They moved west and south, mostly west. By canal, by ox team and by stage coach pioneer Lovejoys settled the dangerous frontiers of Ohio, then Indiana and then Illinois, then Kansas and Missouri. On westward they went, some along the early Oregon trail to the Pacific northwest. Lovejoys are to be found in Iowa, Nebraska, in the Dakotas, in Wyoming, in Nevada. There are scores of Lovejoy families in California. Some of their forebears were early settlers of the Sandwich Islands, now known as the Hawaiian Islands.

One of the most peculiar legends about early American families is usually groundless in fact. Every genealogist, amateur or professional, has been told by almost countless correspondents that his family can be traced back to three or four brothers who landed on the coast of Massachusetts or elsewhere, one going north, one west, one south and one staying east. Strangely, there are never five brothers, almost never two brothers, but always three or four.

One Lovejoy and one alone, who settled in Massachusetts in the 1630's, founded the family which now claims probably nineteen out of every twenty American Lovejoys. There are some few southern Lovejoy families which, despite heavy costs of research, have not been found linked with the original John of Andover. It is evident that at least one and perhaps two other Lovejoys, two or three generations later than John of Andover, and, therefore, not his brothers and not his sons, settled elsewhere in America. One, Joseph (or John) came to Prince George County in Maryland. Another, William, came to the Delaware River region of New Jersey.

The late D. Ross Lovejoy and also F. T. F. Lovejoy, among others, devoted a vast amount of time but without success to trying to link these southern branches to the New England clan. The New Englanders were Puritans whereas the Marylanders were of the established Church of England. The Compiler has presented all possible information about the southern Lovejoys in a separate chapter. Some few New England Lovejoys found their way into the South but this was in the nineteenth century and none of the seventeenth or eighteenth century Lovejoys appears to have gone from Massachusetts into Dixie.

There have been a number of later Lovejoys who have come from England to America, even up to recent years. Thomas Lovejoy, jr., for example, now living at 1448 West 45th Street, Los Angeles, was born in 1855 at Slough, Buckinghamshire, England, the son of Thomas Lovejoy. He came to Canada in 1871, became a prosperous contractor, served on the city council of Hamilton, Ont., for eight years but retired and moved to California in 1918. Undoubtedly, a number of the Lovejoys listed in the chapter on "Unconnected Branches" are similarly traceable to emigration from England long after the coming of John of Andover. The Compiler learned of a West African during recent weeks who has a name, unmistakably native, and yet with Lovejoy in it. He is Emmanuel Lovejoy Bensah, care of P. O. Box 46, G. C., West Africa, Keta.

Since the original John Lovejoy of Andover, most living Lovejoys today are in the eight, ninth and tenth generations. A few score of children are eleven generations from him and at least one Connecticut child is in the twelfth.

In her sketch, Mrs. Jackson writes that the Lovejoy families were "among the good yeomanry, upholders of order, sobriety and religion in Andover."

There has always been pride among Lovejoys and a Lovejoy Family Association has had intermittent meetings in Massachusetts and Maine. Ours is a long-lived family, many of the early Andover settlers, despite the hardships of pioneer life, living eighty or ninety years, and even passing the century mark.

In practically all reference volumes, compilations of biographies, in the "Who's Who" books, etc., there have been Lovejoys. In the monumental Dictionary of American Biography, now being published in a number of volumes, at least two Lovejoys, famous among Americans of all time, will be listed. The Compiler of this Genealogy recommended to the editors of the Dictionary eight noted early Lovejoys and so far has received assurances that the brothers, Rev. Elijah Parish Lovejoy and Hon. Owen Lovejoy, at least would be listed.

One finds the name Lovejoy perpetuated in many parts of the United States. There are towns reported to be named Lovejoy or stations named Lovejoy at Clayton, Ga., St. Clair, Ill., Cape Girardeau, Mo., Mill Lake, Fla., Coos, N. H. There are Lovejoy streets in Portland, Ore., in Buffalo, N. Y., and Sloan, N. Y. There is a Lovejoy Road in Andover, Mass., a Lovejoy Park in Ft. Myers, Fla., a Lovejoy Pond in Maine, a Lovejoy School in Alton, Ill. New York's famous commercial hotel of the middle of the last century was Lovejoy Hotel on Park Place. In this Spring of 1930 newspapers throughout the United States are publishing a syndicated serial story captioned "Lovejoy." There was a song published early in 1930 called "Lovejoy" and described as "The Season's Most Charming Fox Trot Song Success."

In every war, beginning with John of Andover's Colonial service in King Philip's War in 1675, there have been many and prominent Lovejoys serving in all grades from general to private. In the Civil War Lovejoys fought on both sides, some of the northern branches even being represented in the Confederate Army by sons who had trekked South in their youth.

At the request of the Compiler, the Adjutant General's Office of the War Department in Washington on March 30, 1929 examined its records and found that an extraordinary number of Lovejoys had participated in various wars. In the Revolutionary War 75 Lovejoys served. In the War of 1812 there were 53 Lovejoys. In the Mexican War there were at least 8 Lovejoys and certainly a ninth, who served under an assumed name. In the Civil War there were 73 Lovejoys in the Confederate Army and probably twice this number in the Union army, statistics for which are not readily available because they have been tabulated by states. A total of 17 Lovejoys served in the Spanish American War, 3 served in the Philippine Insurrection and 200 served in the Army in the World War. There were also 23 Lovejoys in the Regular Army between 1894 and 1912, and several since. A considerable number of Lovejoys also served in the Navy and Marine Corps at various times. Lovejoys were killed in every war of the United States or died in service.

Today members of the Lovejoy family live in practically every part of the United States, engaged in almost every occupation and career. The Lovejoys are a wholesome, respectable family with a glorious background and an enviable record. There is little to be hidden, practically no family skeletons to be closeted. It is a family proud, worthy and honorable.

ENGLISH ORIGINS AND BRANCHES

THE origin of the Massachusetts Lovejoys is definitely placed in Buckinghamshire, England, in the village of Little Marlow. Perhaps the branches of Maryland are similarly traceable. Certainly there have been many divergences of the Lovejoy family from Johannes Lovejoy, the earliest known ancestor, who was born about 1460 at Little Marlow, but it is likely that all the English and American lines center in this section of south central England. We know that 32 years before Columbus discovered America, Johannes Lovejoy was born at Little Marlow, lived, married and died there. Incidentally, Little Marlow is one of the prettiest villages of rural England. The church there of St. John the Baptist has a chancel dating from about 1190 and the church tower, the finest bit of period architecture in Buckinghamshire, dates from about 1200 (cf. illustration).

There are various legends about the English origin of the Lovejoy family. For example, according to Volume XXI, p. 15, of the Pennsylvania Magazine, William Penn mentions Goody Lovejoy (i.e. good wife Lovejoy) as living in Buckinghamshire. This adds evidence to the Compiler's belief that the family started there. However, Mrs. Nannie Lovejoy Ross, in a letter to D. Ross Lovejoy in 1907, mentioned a tradition that the Lovejoys were of Welsh descent and that Hyde Park, London, formerly belonged to the family. Another report, about 1900, was that Mrs. Eliza Lovejoy Crandall of Greenwich, N. Y., intended writing a Lovejoy Genealogy and that the Lovejoys were descended from Lord Willoughby of Scotland.

There are no Lovejoys mentioned in Gruppy's Homes of Family Names in England. Possibly most of the branches were snuffed out in the terrible English plagues, when thousands of people died during the 1300's. However, Gruppy does mention such family names as Love, Lovegrove, Lovell, Lovelock, Loveridge, Lovering, Loverock and Loveybond, and it is possible that if the name Lovejoy existed in the eleventh or twelfth centuries, it may have been re-adopted in the fifteenth century after the plagues.

A number of present day Lovejoys have obtained data on the early English origins. For example, Joseph Lovejoy (2526) has studied records in the New England Genealogical Society library and is satisfied that John of Andover is traceable back to Johannes Lovejoy of Little Marlow. Only one link is missing, viz. proof that John of Andover was a son of Rowland Lovejoy of London. The Compiler finds a little difficulty identifying the marriage or marriages of William Lovejoy, grandson of Johannes and grandfather of Rowland. However, there is no mistaking the correct line inasmuch as two pages from the Little Marlow parish registers are reproduced in this Genealogy.

The Compiler of this Genealogy has been painstaking in his searches for the exact English ancestry and has devoted much time and great expense. Like a number of other Lovejoys, he has examined all readily available records in the New York Public Library and other similar collections of early English births, marriages and deaths. Moreover, the Compiler made a special trip to England in August, 1929, and examined at first hand not only the parish records of Little Marlow but those of the nearby larger village of Great Marlow which also lies on the Thames. After his return to the United States, the Compiler obtained by correspondence with Rev. John H. Best, vicar of Little Marlow, transcripts and photographs of pages of the Little Marlow parish records. Most of these pages are yellowed with age, the ink is faint, and some of the records are too dilapidated to be legible. The baptismal records, which indicate the approximate time of births, begin only from the year 1562 and the marriage and burial registers date from 1559 (cf. illustration).

John Lovejoy of Andover, who was born in London in 1622, was of the sixth generation in descent from Johannes Lovejoy of Little Marlow. Perhaps in the following pages embracing the Compiler's data on our English origin will be found also the origin of Joseph Lovejoy of Maryland, of Rev. George Lovejoy, the famous seventeenth century schoolmaster of Canterbury, England, and of those other English and American families who so far have not been identified with either the New England or Maryland lines.

The Massachusetts line's English ancestry is as follows: Johannes^{e1}, Thomas^{e2}, William^{e3}, John^{e4}, Rowland^{e5}, and John^{e6}. The last named is the emigrant to Andover. The Compiler accordingly presents herewith his complete data on this line and at the end of this chapter he will give several unconnected bits of information about a number of other English branches.

E1 JOHANNES LOVEJOY^{e1} (son of................), b. Little Marlow, Buckinghamshire, about 1460; m. Little Marlow July 6, 1487 Margaret Brinkhurst, b. Great Marlow (ab. 4 miles away), dau. of Thomas Brinkhurst. Johannes is reported to have had a grant of lands in Little Marlow consisting of, according to the notes of F. T.

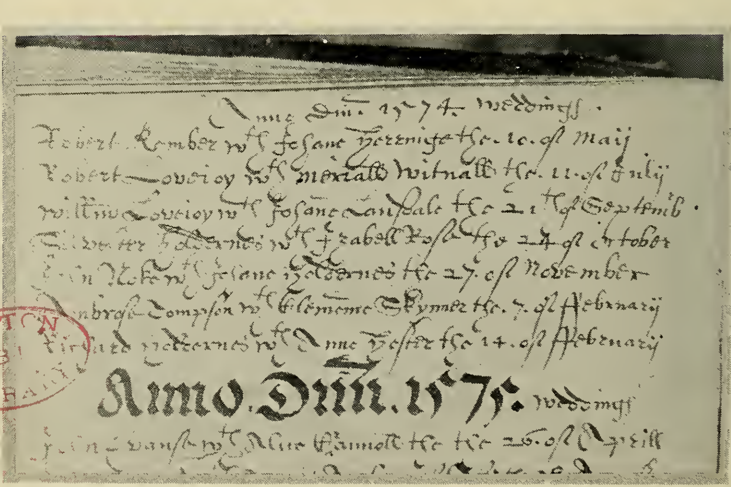
Page 2 of the Little Marlow parish burial records, showing entries from 1563 to 1567. Perhaps the two names recorded in February, 1563, are of sons or grandsons of Johannes Lovejoy (E1). Several other Lovejoy entries will also be noted.



Page 3 of the Little Marlow parish marriage records, showing entries in 1574 and 1575. The marriage on September 21, 1574 of William Lovejoy and Johane Tampale is indisputably that of William Lovejoy (E4).

F. Lovejoy, "a tenement lately Robert Coupar's on the south, and a messuage of the said Thomas Brinkhurst on the north, and abutting on Dial Lane, to have and to hold . . . at the yearly rent of six shillings." It is said that the name, Bringhurst, is mentioned as early as 1260, when Robert de Bringhurst was Lord of Broughton, Bringhurst, etc. and had holdings of Drayton, Holt and Prestgrave. It was said the family had "come from Leicestershire, had settled later in London, at St. Andrew's, Holburn, and St. James, Clerkenwell, and had emigrated to Pennsylvania." The Brinkhurst family is said to have used as arms "azure two bars ermine in chief three escallops or" and its crest was "an arm embowed habited in mail argent holding in the hand proper a spike club, sable spikes or." It will be noticed that this crest is similar to the galtrap crest of one of the Lovejoy coats of arms listed in Burke's. Two years after the marriage of Johannes Lovejoy and Margaret Brinkhurst, Thomas Brinkhurst surrendered, on Sept. 8, 1489, one croft and one-fourth part of two cottages and a parcel of land to Johannes.

+E2 THOMAS^{e2} b. Little Marlow 1490; d. Little Marlow 1573. On the page of the Little Marlow burial register reproduced in this genealogy appear the deaths of Robert Lovejoy on Feb. 11, 1563 and of John Lovejoy on Feb. 18, 1563. Perhaps they were also children or grandchildren of Johannes. Also four other children or grandchildren appear on this page, viz., Alice (or Olive), Feb. 2, 1564; Richard, Jan. 13, 1565; John, Jan. 30, 1565; and Johane, Oct. 8, 1566.

E2 THOMAS^{e2}, son of Johannes E1, b. Little Marlow 1490; bur. Little Marlow Mar. 29, 1573. Thomas appears as a "copyholder of the manor after his father, Johannes Lovejoy, had died, seized of eighteen acres as of fee, all of which descended to his son and heir, Thomas Lovejoy of Little Marlow." Thomas later deeded to his daughter, Elsabath or Elizabeth, "six acres called but containing nine acres, a part of his land near his dwelling bounded by his meadow east and north with a swamp between the house of said Elsabeth and the house of his son, William Lovejoy, the timber, etc. growing on said swamp or said land, also about four acres adjoining the above six acres, Aug. 3, 1560 . . . and for 4s 8d received from a certain pasture of the demesne land and bondsmen's land by Little Marlow, lately demised unto Thomas Lovejoy, so now demised unto William Lovejoy, Johanna his wife, and John, their son, for the term of life . . . 1573." Thomas Lovejoy was indicted for trespass by the straying of his cattle and "their eating his neighbor's grass."

Children

E3 ELSABETH^{e3} b. Little Marlow; m. Martin Brock.
+E4 WILLIAM^{e3} b. Little Marlow 1530; d. Little Marlow 1577 or 1582.
+E5 JOHN^{e3} (?)
+E6 THOMAS^{e3} (?)

E4 WILLIAM^{e3}, son of Thomas E2, b. Little Marlow, 1530; d. Little Marlow about 1577. The parish register shows a William's burial on May 28, 1582. The record of William's marriage or marriages is confusing. According to reports furnished to the Compiler by several correspondents, William m. Joanna Temple at Little Marlow June 4, 1569, but, according to an entry on the marriage register of the Little Marlow church, which the Compiler obtained in the Fall of 1929, and which he reproduces as an illustration in this Genealogy, "William Loveioy married Johane Tampale 21st of Septemb, 1574." The confusion is emphasized inasmuch as William had at least three children born before this marriage in 1574. Did he have a previous wife before Joanna Temple or was he in reality married in 1569, then delaying the registering of his wedding in the parish church until 1574? One also wonders about the preceding name on this photograph, Robert Lovejoy, who married Moxiall Witnall on July 22, 1574. Joanna was b. at Stowe, Buckinghamshire, the dau. of John Temple, the family being formerly of Warwickshire and Leicestershire. She moved to London about 1585, after William had died, and later married as her second husband, William Randeson. This marriage to Randeson is recorded by the Harleian Society's London Marriage Licenses 1520-1610 as having taken place Dec. 13, 1578. The entry is "William Randeson of Willesden, Middlesex, and Joanna Lovejoy, widow, of St. Margaret Moses, London, at St. Sepulchre's." The license was granted by the Bishop of London. There are a number of records about William Lovejoy. In 1574 he had letters of administration on the estate of his father. On May 6, 1575 "there is a final concord between William Lovejoy and William Samwell, complainants, and George Temple, deforciant, of the manor of Stowe, County of Bucks, and six messuages, one water mill, thirty acres of land, six of meadow, sixty of pasture, five of wood, 8s rent." In 1591 after William's death, his son, Thomas, complained that his father "is seized for his life of the capital messuage of Marlow, with divers houses and land in the County of Bucks, with remainders to John Lovejoy, the complainant's brother." Even assuming William's marriage to Joanna took place 1569, it will be noticed that the first two of the following chdn. were born even before that date. This may indicate a previous marriage by William or perhaps there were two William Lovejoys who were cousins.

Children

E7 JOHN^{e4} bp. Little Marlow Jan. 18, 1565.

E8 RICHARD^{e4} bp. Little Marlow Sept. 26, 1568.

E9 THOMAS^{e4} b. Little Marlow ab. 1570. The parish register records the baptism of a Thomas Lovejoy on Dec. 3, 1564, but gives his father's name as Thomas. Probably this is the Thomas who married at St. Mary's, Reading Oct. 11, 1601, Agnes Russen. In 1598 Thomas granted to his mother, Joanna Randeson, thirty shillings of annual rent from tenements and messuages in Little Marlow. Agnes was a sister of John Russen, surveyor of St. Mary's, who appears in the church warden's account of 1595.

+E10 JOHN^{e4} b. Little Marlow Mar. 16, 1571; bp. June 9, 1573; d. London, May 9, 1604.

E11 ANNE^{e4} b. Little Marlow 1572, or bp. Feb. 2, 1570. According to Harleian Society's London Marriage Licenses, Anne m. Sept. 28, 1587, as "of St. Mary, Woolnoth, spinster, dau. of William Lovejoy of Marlow, County Bucks, yeoman" to George Samwell, "scriptorem l're curialis" (writer of court letters) of the city of London by a general license of the Bishop of London Court. Anne's name was given "Anne Lovejoy, alias Brew" and she may have, previous to her marriage, made her home in the family of a Mr. Brew. Brook & Hallen records Anne's marriage as on Oct.

2, 1587. There is a record on Aug. 7, 1605 that "Anne, formerly wife of George Samwell, sued Cecelia Lovejoy, late wife of John Lovejoy, brother of said Anne Samwell, for a third of a messuage and two bovates of land and two acres of meadow in Little Marlow, and she sued Thomas Lovejoy for a third of six acres of land, and William Randeson for a third of six acres and for a third of a mill which she claimed as dower." One wonders who was the Anne Lovejoy, daughter of Richard, who was bp. at Little Marlow Sept. 27, 1573.

E12 WILLIAM^{e4} b. Little Marlow 1575; bp. Aug. 24, 1583; d. Hurley, Bucks, 1626. He released to his brother, John, all his claims to a fence between lands of his brother, Thomas, and those of George Samwell, called Joy Brook.

E5 JOHN^{e3} (?) possibly a son of Thomas E2. Nothing is known of his birth, marriage or death. However, during the period that William (E4) was having chdn. recorded in the Little Marlow parish, a John Lovejoy was also recorded as a father to several chdn. born from 1562 to 1593. There may have been two John Lovejoys at this same period but the following chdn. will be listed as issue of one John Lovejoy.

Children (Dates are those of baptism in Little Marlow)

E13 RICHARD^{e4} Dec. 6, 1562.
E14 MARY^{e4} Oct. 23, 1571.
E15 RICHARD^{e4} Apr. 3, 1575.
E16 JOHN^{e4} June 8 or 18, 1578.
E17 JANE^{e4} Jan. ....., 1581.
E18 CLEMENT^{e4} Aug. 6, 1584.
E19 GEORGE^{e4} June 29, 1589.
E20 MARY^{e4} May 28, 1593.

E6 THOMAS^{e3} (?) possibly a son of Thomas E2. Nothing is known definitely of his birth, marriage or death but it is supposed he was a brother of William Lovejoy (E4) because on the first page of the Little Marlow marriage register there is an item that on Apr. 27, 1566 Thomas Lovejoy m. ——— Lytleboy, or Littleboye. The following are entries of baptisms of chdn. of Thomas Lovejoy although there is nothing to show whether the same Thomas is meant throughout, and this fact may be doubted because of the dates of baptism of the first three.

Children (Dates are those of baptism in Little Marlow)

E21 GEORGE^{e4} Feb. 13, 1563.
E22 THOMAS^{e4} Dec. 3, 1564.
E23 MARGARET^{e4} Mar. 1566.
E24 JOHN^{e4} Nov. 13, 1569.
E25 NICHOLAS^{e4} Jan. 21, 1570.
E26 a child^{e4} Apr. 22, 1571.
E27 HARPSTONE^{e4} (?) Mar. 25, 1572.
E28 JANE^{e4} Aug. 24, 1576.
E29 GEORGE^{e4} Sept. 16, 1581. There was also a William, son of Thomas, who was bp. Mar. 14, 1567. Also, who was the William, son of Edmond, who was bp. May 20, 1582?

E10 JOHN^{e4}, son of William E4, b. Little Marlow, Mar. 16, 1571; bap. June 9, 1573; d. London, May 9, 1604 or later; m. Bishop of London Court Sept. 22, 1591, Cecelia Bromall who was bur. July 7, 1607 or Sept. 22, 1625. Acc. to Brook & Hallen's Register of St. Mary's Woolnoth, "John Lovejoy, goldsmith, of London, married

Cecelia Bromall, daughter of ——— Bromall of County Chester on Sept 22, 1591. The marriage is also recorded in the Harleian Society's Licenses which describe Cecelia as a "spinster" and her father as "late of County Chester, yeoman." The Bromalls of Cheshire descend from one Sir Edward Bromhall, Lord of Port, and bore as armory "quarterly one and four argent on a chevron between three cross cross-lets fitche sable a crescent, for difference, two and three, sable a lion rampant or." John Lovejoy as a youth after he had been taken to London by his widowed mother was apprenticed as a goldsmith. He first prospered after he had learned this trade but probably died poor inasmuch as his widow was buried as a servant. In Canterbury Wills one finds that Edward Hamblyn, the elder, of Reading, County Berkshire, in his will dated Oct. 3, 1619, mentioned "my old servant, Cicely Lovejoy." The only alternative supposition is that this Cicely Lovejoy may have been a different person and a servant of Thomas Lovejoy (E9). There are several records about John Lovejoy. On Nov. 5, 1593, he "bargained and sold to William Martin, of the same parish in London a messuage or tenement with a croft adjoining containing twelve acres and situated in Hendon, Middlesex." On Feb. 19, 1595, John Lovejoy, with the consent of his wife, Cecelia, "gave an assignation to Ralph Grafton to a bond for eighteen pounds sterling granted to him." On Sept. 9, 1595 "there is a recognizance of John Lovejoy, goldsmith, citizen of London, to Thomas Bromall, citizen and fish-monger, in the sum of one hundred pounds, the condition being that said Lovejoy, his heirs, etc., shall observe, perform, etc. the Covenants, Grants, etc. comprised in an Indenture between him, said Lovejoy, and the said Thomas Bromall, dated 23 August." On Nov. 3, 1604 (some confusion here because date would seem to be after John's death?) there is an indenture "between Walter Grafton, citizen and goldsmith of London, son of Ralph Grafton, late of London, and John Lovejoy, for the sale to said Lovejoy, in consideration of sixty-three pounds of all that messuage or tenements, etc. now in possession of said Walter Grafton, situated in hallway, Middlesex."

Children (Acc. to Brook & Hallen Register; Prob. all b. St. Mary's Woolnoth, London)

E30 MARGARETT^{e5} b. or bap. July 7, 1594; m. George Dennison.
+E31 ROWLAND^{e5} b. or bap. Apr. 7, 1597.
E32 ELIZABETH^{e5} b. or bap. Dec. 9, 1599.
E33 HESTER^{e5} b. or bap. Apr. 20, 1601; d. unm. Sept. 18, 1649, while "a lodger in the house of William Galer, acc. to records of St. Nicholas Acons.
E34 ELIZABETH^{e5} b. or bap. May 1, 1604; bur. Sept. 25, 1607.
E35 JOHN^{e5} bur. Aug. 2, 1612. This may, however, be burial date of the father, John (E10). Perhaps there was another child, Cicely, who is bur. 1625, although this may have been the burial of the mother, Cecelia.

E31 ROWLAND^{e5}, son of John (E10), b. or bap. St. Mary's, Woolnoth, London Apr. 7, 1597, acc. to Brook & Hallen Register; m. London May 7, 1620 Elizabeth Neal or Neale, dau. of Simon Neal of London. Rowland is said to have been admitted to the Merchant Tailor's School in 1609. Simon Neal was a cloth worker and the family was originally from Leicestershire, descending from one Nigellus de Abbekettleby. One member of the family, Richard Neale, was said to be Bishop of Durham and Archbishop of York. Symon Neale, brother of Elizabeth, was admitted to the Merchant Tailor's School in 1608. Rowland received from his grandmother, Joanna, by a deed, dated Oct. 5, 1600, all rent issuant from her tenements and messuages. The family name of Rowland occurs in records of great Marlow, this adding further proof that that village was the birthplace of Rowland's father, John (E10).

Children (All prob. b. London)

+E36 ROBERT^{e6} b. Feb. 12, 1621.

E38 GEORGE^{e6} b. 1623; d. 1695; m. Elizabeth .... This George Lovejoy is often confused with the Rev. George Lovejoy of Canterbury. The Compiler has found unmistakably, however, after correspondence with Canterbury Cathedral officials that this is not the same man.
E39 ELIZABETH^{e6} b. Mar. 21, 1624; m. St. Mary, Aldermann, London, Jan. 6, 1650, Ralph Grafton of St. Pulcheres. Ralph was described as "batchelor" and Elizabeth as "virgin of Madlenes, Milk streete."
+E40 SIMON^{e6} b. Nov. 18, 1626.
+E41 HENRY^{e6} b. May 4, 1628.

E36 ROBERT^{e6}, son of Rowland (E31), b. or bap. London Feb. 12, 1621; m. Apr. 21, 1651 Sarah Fox, dau. of Thomas and Elizabeth (............) Fox. Robert was a carpenter. Records of St. Michael, Cornhill, describe the burial on Dec. 17, 1669 of "Robert Louejoy, a carpenter, killed by a fall of a piece of lumber in the churchyard."

Child

E56 WILLIAM^{e9} admitted to Merchant Tailor's School 1726. From him is descended one branch of the present Lovejoy family in London.

In addition to the foregoing English lines, traced back to Johannes of Little Marlow, the Compiler has obtained data on the following Lovejoys in England who are, so far, not connected definitely with Johannes. Possibly there are Lovejoys in England or America today who have additional information, unknown to the Compiler, which will readily link up the following names to the main genealogical stem.

The most famous English Lovejoy is the Rev. George Lovejoy of Callis Grange, Kent, whose family used the coat of arms listed in Burke's and for whom there is a white marble tablet against the south wall of the Church of St. Peter in the Isle of Thanet, Kent, a part of the Canterbury Cathedral diocese. The Compiler numbers him E57, but has been unable to determine his generation.

E57 Rev. GEORGE^{e}? son of George Lovejoy of Wickham (or Wycombe), Buckinghamshire; b. ab. 1613; d. Thanet Dec. 14, 1685; m. Elizabeth ...., who d. Mar. 29, 1694, aged 67 years. Acc. to E. S. Craig, registrar of Oxford University, who replied to the Compiler's inquiries on Oct. 30, 1929, Rev. George matriculated at Trinity College, Oxford, Nov. 18, 1631, at the age of 18 years. He took his B.A. degree in June 1634 and his M.A. in February 1640. He was a Fellow of Merton College from 1633 to 1647 and became rector of Threxton, Norfolk, in 1640. Dr. Charles Cotton, the deputy librarian of the Chapter Library, Canterbury Cathedral, also supplied to the Compiler interesting biographical information about Rev. George in December, 1929. Rev. George was the fourth headmaster of the Kings School, Canterbury, after it was reformed by King Henry VIII. His father, George Lovejoy of Wickham, was a plebeian but the son George was brought up as a churchman and a Royalist and was deprived of his fellowship at Merton on account of his zeal to the cause of Charles I. He attached himself to the Royalist cause and served as a chaplain. From 1654 to 1665 he was the master of the Islington Grammar School, which he left to become headmaster of the Kings School, Canterbury.

He retired in 1683 to the parish of St. Peter on the Isle of Thanet, where his widow erected a monument. She was a liberal benefactress to St. Peter's parish and to numerous hospitals and schools in Canterbury, Islington and Wycombe. In the Canterbury Guildhall is a portrait of Elizabeth Lovejoy with the following inscription: "Mrs. Elizabeth Lovejoy, aged 67 years, died March 29, anno 1694, and gave by her will to the mayor and commonalty of the city in trust for charitable uses the parsonage of St. Peters in the Isle of Thanet, called Callis Grange, holden by lease from the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, Canterbury." Musgrave's Obituary, p. 92, records Elizabeth's death. She died of apoplexy before she sealed or finished her will so that it was void as far as her real estate was concerned. But after many suits and controversies it was declared valid insofar as her personal property bequests were concerned.

According to an article by Alec MacDonald, which appeared in the National Review for Dec. 1929, (page 628), the researches by A. F. Leach, an unbiased authority, have fairly established the claim that Kings School is the oldest school in England and owes its foundation to St. Augustine himself. The school is within the precincts of the Canterbury Cathedral. Rev. George Lovejoy is described in the article as remarkable for his industrious habit of transcribing the Speech Day orations and plays that were delivered during his tenure of office. From a bulky folio volume which has been preserved much entertaining and valuable information may be derived about the school during the Restoration era.

The Lovejoy tablet in St. Peters Church, Thanet bears the following Latin inscription, which is also described on page 138 of Woodruff & Cape's Schola Regia Cantuariensis: a History of Canterbury School, Commonly Called King's School.

A rough translation of this Latin inscription is as follows:

This tablet records an unblemished follower of the Catholic faith, George Lovejoy, who should be remembered among the most deserving citizens. He did not live for himself, but devoted himself to the good of his church, his friends and his country. Once a beloved Fellow of Merton College, Oxford, he was driven out by the burning energy of his enemies. Without doubt a most faithful follower of Charles I, King of England, in the very serious time of the Rebellion, in whose cause he became a Chaplain in the Royal Army, and he completed his most devoted work with the keener sword of the spirit. At length, after the best of Kings had, alas, been beheaded by impious hands, he bore the worst calamities of the century with equanimity, but surviving the tyranny with God's help, he distinguished himself in teaching boys beyond other teachers. He was Governor of the School at Islington for eleven years, and Headmaster of King's College, Canterbury, for nineteen years, to which fame has justly given a widespread immortality. In the second year of his retirement from public office a mortal apoplexy transferred him to a nobler immortality. Thus he, more than sixty years old, always most studious of the ways of peace, quietly died, the 14th of December, 1685.

The Compiler, early in 1930, received some interesting information from Miss Harriet Lovejoy of 2 Hillview, Bell's Hill, Barnet, Herts, England, which traces her family back to Hendon, Middlesex. Reference to John Lovejoy (E10) in the foregoing pages will show that he sold property in Hendon on Nov. 5, 1593 and it is likely, therefore, that Miss Harriet Lovejoy's line is connected with that of the grandfather of the emigrant, John of Andover. Her data embraces the following, the Compiler numbering her great grandfather, Ebenezer Lovejoy, E58.

E58 EBENEZER^e? son of................, lived Hendon soon after 1700 and the family was supposed to have originated near Reading, Berkshire. Ebenezer m. Hannah .... who was of French descent.

E74 EBENEZER acc. to Miss Harriet Lovejoy (E78), Ebenezer "took an active part in America in the abolition of slavery." However, the Compiler thinks it is possible she may have confused him with Rev. Elijah Parish Lovejoy (615).

E65 SAMUEL JOHN ARTHUR, son of John (E59), b. 1807 prob. Holborn, London; d. 1864; m. his first cousin, Sarah (E71). Samuel J. A. continued in the corn business in Holborn until 1842 when he was advised to live in the country. He took Laurel Farm, Totteridge, Herts, and later a larger farm on Mill Hill, Hendon, still later taking several adjoining farms, and he became the largest hay grower in that part of England. He was a freeman in the city of London and a member of the Grocers Company but "never served in the livery."

E78 HARRIET b. Mill Hill, Hendon, 1856; lives (1930) Barnet, Herts, Eng. She wrote the Compiler that she believes that a George Lovejoy of Reading was a cousin of her father. She says this cousin, George Lovejoy had a large library used by the county families nearby and was a noted politician. The Compiler wonders if this George Lovejoy of Reading can be related to the George Lovejoy of Wickham or Wycombe, Bucks, who was the father of the famous Rev. George Lovejoy (E57). However, Miss Harriet Lovejoy writes that her cousin, George of Reading, whose portrait hangs in the public library, Reading, had a son and two daughters, the son dying when about twenty years old. Miss Harriet Lovejoy relates a tradition in her branch of the family that there is never more than three males in a direct line and that "if a fourth is born, it is the death knell of one of the others; this has been proved for many generations." She also relates an older tradition that her branch of the Lovejoys came from France in the retinue of Queen Henrietta Maria and that members of the family were killed while fighting for "that unfortunate monarch, Charles I." She says the only record of this tradition is to be found in the Memoirs of the Lady Anne Fanshawe where the lady speaks of "staying with her cousin, Mrs. Lovejoy-Young, the wife of Gabriel Young, living in Chancery Lane while Sir Richard Fanshawe was a prisoner after the Battle of Worcester." From that time, about 1642, acc. to Miss Harriet Lovejoy, no family records have been discovered until those of her great grandparents about 1700.

Previously he "took up his freedom" in the city of London but "never served in the livery." He was a Mason. After his death a booklet in his memory was prepared recounting his public life in Middlesex, in and near Hendon. He was guardian, waywarden, overseer, district councillor parish councillor, county councillor, charity trustee and member of many committees, and once sat on the Edgware Bench as an ex-officio magistrate. He traveled on the continent, studying farming conditions.

The Compiler has heard from a number of other living English Lovejoys, including Rev. Henry Taylor Lovejoy of St. Cuthbert's Vicarage, Sunderland. He wrote, Nov. 5, 1929, that he knew of no relatives by the name of Lovejoy. He also had exchanged letters with D. Ross Lovejoy in 1901. His line is as follows:

E93 WILLIAM, son of prob. Thomas (?) Lovejoy, b. Southampton Oct. 1, 1792; d. Sept. 1833, Nine Elms, London; m. St. Mark's Church, Kensington, Lambeth, Oct. 14, 1825 Maria Kelverton.

E94 WILLIAM, son of William (E93), b. Oct. 6, 1826, d. June 3, 1898.

Children (None of them had issue)

E95 Rev. HENRY TAYLOR b. Nov. 27, 1859; no issue; Vicar of St. Cuthbert's, Sunderland and formerly vicar of Hamsterley, Witton le Wear, Durham.
E96 WILLIAM TAYLOR, b. 1851; was in America 1871 but is since unreported.
E97 FREDERICK LLEWELLYN b. 1862, d. 1888.
E98 BASIL WOOD, b. 1864, d. unm.
E98A ELIZABETH MARIA b. 1867.

(E99) The Compiler also has had correspondence with J. W. Lovejoy of Balfour House, 25 Cherington Road, Hanwell (near London) who is unable to give many details of his own branch. He will be numbered E99. He only faintly remembers his grandfather and his father died about 1875. J. W. Lovejoy was born 1868. He writes that he holds the theory that the name of Lovejoy "is Puritan and that it originated with an old time reformer, who styled himself 'Love, Joy, Peace, Prosperity,' the two latter words being subsequently dropped."

(E100) Still another trace of an English branch was furnished by Archibald Day, who wrote to D. Ross Lovejoy Oct. 10, 1901, from Blackheath, England. He said that one Caleb Lovejoy, whom the Compiler numbers as E100, was born in the parish of St. Nicholas, Guildford, Surrey, in 1603 and that he lived many years in London and was buried in St. Nicholas Parish, leaving property in Southwark for the benefit of the poor. Mr. Day wrote "there is a monument in the church which I have not seen for nearly thirty years, with a rhyming inscription beginning something like this: 'Caleb Lovejoy, here I lie, My body being dead; My soul is fled unto the realms of eternity there to remain in heavenly bliss,' etc. etc. but I can remember no more of that jingling strain." Mr. Day further said that one G. C. Williamson, formerly of Guildford, had published a book on Traders Tokens which was reported to have contained information about Caleb Lovejoy.

During an investigation of the Lovejoy origins at Great Marlow, Bucks, in August, 1929, the Compiler copied some early baptismal and marriage records from the earliest parish books of All Saints Church, Great Marlow (cf. illustration). The vicar is Rev. O. S. Spearing, M.A., and the verger is W. H. Badger. These records are as follows, a consecutive number being given in parentheses following each Lovejoy name:

Nov. 1610—The .... day was baptized Jeffrey Loveioy (E101), the son of Robert Loveioy (E102).
June 1604—The .... Joan Lovejoy (E103) married (many illegible words; possibly Rychard Hunt).
Feb. 1608—The sixth day was married Rychard Loveioy (E104) and Mary Brown.
Apr. 1610—On the second day was buried Samuell Loveioy (E105).
May 1612—Baptized William (E106), son of Robert Loveioy (E107) 10 of May.
July 1612—Baptized John (E108) son of Richard Loveioy (E109) 26 July.
Aug. 1613—Baptized Margaret (E110) daughter of Robert Loveioy (E111) 20 Aug.

Sept. 1618—Marriage George Lovejoy (E125) and Dorothy K............ 27 Sept.
Sept. 1620—Marriage Richard Lovejoy (E126) and Margaret Heaton 11 Sept.

According to the records of Joseph Lovejoy (2526), the following also appear on the Great Marlow Parish Registers:

June 3, 1596—Harry Shrimpton and Mary Loveioy (E127) married.
Jan. 20, 1599—Syman Messenger and Merya........Lovioye (E128) "maryed."
Sept. 5. 1603—Raphe Lovioye (E129) was buried.
Jan. 7, 1609—Richard Loveioye (E130), son of Richard Loveioye (E131) baptized.
July 18, 1602—William Loveioy (E132) baptized.
Jan. 19, 1607—Annis Ioveioye (E133) daughter of Samuell Loveioye (E134) baptized.
June 6, 1596—Christian Loveioye (E135) [bap. (sic)].
Aug. 6, 1598—Elizabeth Loveioye (E136) baptized.
Oct. 8, 1603—Elizabeth Lovejoy (E137) baptized.
Jan. 19, 1602—Elizabeth Lovioy (E138) buried.

Dec. 17, 1609—Margarett Loveioy (E139) daughter of Samuell Loveioy (E140) baptized.

The following are unconnected Lovejoy entries in the parish marriage registers of Little Marlow, which were sent to the Compiler by the vicar:—

No. 4, 1559—John Mydleton & Agnes Lovejoy (E141).
Nov. 19, 1570—John Lovejoy (E142) & Katherine Greene.
May 3, 1572—Edward Lovejoy (E143) & Johane............aster.
July 22, 1579—Edmond Lovejoy (E144) & Agnes Rose.

The following are additional and unconnected Lovejoy notes about English names which have been collected from several correspondents, especially Joseph Lovejoy (2526). Consecutive numbers are given in parentheses following each Lovejoy name.

According to Hallen's London City Church Register, Vol. II, John Lovejoy (E168) was bur. in St. Botolph's on Mar. 30, 1726, ae. 65.

John Lovejoy (E169) and Elinor had daughter Mary Lovejoy, (E170) baptized at St. Botolph's Aug. 28, 1685. This is prob. the Mary who was buried in St. Botolph's Feb. 16, 1719. Her baptism is recorded in Hallen's London Register, Vol. III, p. 193, and her burial in Vol. II.

There was a Lucoe Lovejoy (E171) buried St. Botolph's Mar. 30, 1711.

According to Probate Acts, prerog. Ct. Canterbury, 1630, Henry Lovejoye (E172) of Great Marlow, Bucks, had his will (24 Scroope) probated Mar. 27, by Anne Lovejoy (E173). The same source records the probate June 20, 1648 of the will (102 Essex) of Charles Lovejoy (E174) of Great Marlow, Bucks, by his relict, Abigail.

In the Abstracts of Canterbury Wills, ed. J. Henry Lea, 1023, appears an item about Humphrey Lovejoy (E175) "als" Mathews of Sonning Co., Berks, yeoman, dated Oct. 18, 1618. There was a son, Humphrey (E176) under twenty-one and a daughter, Jane (E177) under twenty-one. The same source, 986, has an item about a will of John Rixeman of Maidenhead, Co. Bucks, gentleman, dated Aug. 12, 1620, probated Aug. 23, 1620, in which he refers to "Brother .... Lovejoy (E178), my sister Margaret's husband." The same source, 1209, has an item about the will of John George of Great Gaddesden, Co. Herts, Labr., dated Aug. 24, 1618 and probated Oct. 27, 1620 which indicates the estate went to ten daughters of Thomas Lovejoy (E179) of Hempstead.

LOVEJOY COATS OF ARMS

As Recorded in Burke's "General Armory."

(The Compiler ordered these two arms to be prepared by the John Frick Company of New York from the descriptions in Burke's, and he instructed that they be prepared strictly from the wording of the listed descriptions and without any of the superfluous and unofficial "mantling" of curtains, feathers, etc.)

In addition to Burke, Fairbairn also lists and reproduces this Lovejoy crest in his "Book of Crests."

LOVEJOY COATS OF ARMS

TWO standard books on heraldry and arms list one or both of the coats of arms which were perhaps awarded or at least adopted in a customary manner by two Lovejoy families in England. These are Burke's General Armory and Fairbairn's Book of Crests. These books are highly regarded as authentic and authoritative. However, there is no Lovejoy mentioned in Armorial Families, by Arthur Charles Fox-Davies, 1910.

On page 624 of Burke's appear the following descriptions of Lovejoy arms:

> LOVEJOY—Gyronny of twelve gu. and or. Crest—An arm from the elbow in armour, holding a galtrap.
> LOVEJOY—(Caleys Grange or Callis Court, Thanet, co. Kent) Az. three bars dancettée or.

The crest, which is never awarded to a female, indicates that an important gentleman by the name of Lovejoy at one time used this device over his arms. On page 279, Vol. I, of Fairbairn's there is the following listing:

> LOVEJOY—a cubit arm in armour holding in the hand a caltrap. 210.7.

The reference "210.7" refers to space #7 on plate 210 in the illustrated second volume of Fairbairn's which shows a picture of the Lovejoy crest. Incidentally this same crest, according to Fairbairn, has also been adopted to surmount the arms of the following families: Baring, Bushell, Funeaux, Jury and M'Kall.

The galtrap or caltrap (or chevaltrap) was an instrument anciently used in war to wound the horses' feet of the enemy. It had four points so that when strewn on the ground in front of the oncoming enemy horsemen one point was always erect. In heraldic art this device frequently was depicted as bloody.

The gyronny was a division of the coat of arms, sometimes into a gyronny of six or a gyronny of eight, or, in the case of the Lovejoy arms, into twelve parts.

The Rev. George Lovejoy, (E57), who is memorialized at St. Peters, Canterbury, with a tablet, was undoubtedly the Lovejoy living in Caleys Grange or Callis Court on the Isle of Thanet who used one of the arms recorded in Burke's.

The origin of arms dates back to the first crusade (about 1100) when knights who were encased in armour put devices on their shields to identify themselves. Later the device became hereditary in a particular family and still later the right to bear arms became an honor and a privilege issuing from the king and under the supervision of the Earl Marshal, which officer later (about 1464) headed the College of Arms or Heralds College.

This college began, about 1530, to hold county "visitations" when heralds from the College would visit the English counties and obtain information about coats of arms and publish lists of persons. These visitations were held about once in every generation until about 1670 but even after this date the College's authority continued. As a result of the visitations the custom was to acknowledge the right of arms if their users could prove the arms had been duly awarded or had been borne for three generations or more than a century by the users' lineal male ancestors.

The fact, therefore, that the College of Arms has no record of an entry of Lovejoy arms or crest may indicate that these arms were adopted by continued use instead of by royal grant.

The John Frick Company of New York City, which prepared for the Compiler, from Burke's, the two colored coats of arms reproduced in this Genealogy, is regarded as a reliable firm that has made a specialty of heraldry and coats of arms. The Frick company wrote to the Compiler as follows on November 18, 1929:

> Perhaps if you would write to the College of Heraldry in England, they may be able to give you some information as to what Lovejoy bore the arms listed in Burke's General Armory. We do not assume that any one has a right to a coat of arms. It would be very difficult to prove a right and probably very expensive and sometimes unsatisfactory to go into the matter of tracing the matter back.
> The name Lovejoy is not a common name, and there is no doubt that some branch of your family used the arms shown in Burke's. The 1878 edition shows the two coats of arms, while in the 1844 edition only one arms is listed, the arms with the crest.

Accepting the advice, the Compiler attempted to trace the matter in England but his results were as unsatisfactory as prophetically indicated by Frick.

Dear M................,

As soon as we received your letter of October 28th enclosing letter from Mr. Lovejoy, dated October 24th, we called at the College of Heralds and consulted Mr. P. W. Kerr, Rouge Croix, with reference to the Lovejoy Arms. We paid Mr. Kerr a fee of £1. 1, 0 in advance and we now enclose his report which we fear will not be altogether satisfactory to Mr. Lovejoy, although it may be the sort of reply he anticipated. We have not made any further enquiries at the Scottish and Irish Office of Heralds as we thought that in the circumstances, Mr. Lovejoy might not desire to go to any further expense and further we thought that there would possibly be no further satisfactory result in the circumstances. If you wish us to do anything further in the matter, we shall be pleased to hear from you by return and will at once take up the matter. We return Mr. Lovejoy's letter for your information.

Always yours faithfully,

Gentlemen,

With reference to your inquiry on behalf of Mr. Lovejoy, I have made a complete search of our records of Armorial Bearings and I regret to report that I cannot find any entry of Arms or Crest of Lovejoy therein. Having failed to find these in our own records, I extended my search to cover what Scottish and Irish records we have. Here again I fail to find anything.

It might possibly be worth your while to make inquiries at the Scottish and Irish Office of Heralds, as our lists are naturally not so complete as theirs, but personally I doubt it. Finally I searched several catalogues of Coats of Arms which exist but are not officially recorded, and even here I failed to find any mention of Lovejoy. So I am afraid we must accept the fact that Armorial Bearings do not exist for this family and that Burke obtained his information from some other unreliable source. As I explained to you, neither Burke or Fairburn are accurate and cannot be relied on.

With regard to the Arms given by Burke for Lovejoy of Caleys Grange, Co. Kent, I think this is undoubtedly a misprint for Loveday, as the Arms so described are given for one Sir Richard Loveday, in the old Feudal Roll of Arms, dated about 1300.

I am sorry to have to submit such a disappointing report, but I am afraid Mr. Lovejoy is not the first to have been misled by Burke's General Armoury.

I return herewith Mr. Lovejoy's letter which you so kindly lent me.

Yours faithfully,
P. W. KERR

Perhaps some or all of the American Lovejoys have a right to one or the other or both of the coats of arms listed in Burke's, but so far as the Compiler knows definitely or specifically none of us has that right. Some Lovejoy families still in England may have the right. But most of the American pioneers of the seventeenth century, with few exceptions, were yeomen and plebians—"that large and respectable class of common people who, with their descendants, subdued, settled and developed New England and most of America." We have pride enough in them without attempting to look behind for a more noble lineage.

The yeoman was the feudal villein who, during the fourteenth century, became transformed and his station in life raised. The word, yeoman, according to J. Gardner Bartlett, meant, from the fourteenth to eighteenth centuries, a man who farmed for his own benefit, by his own labor and that of hired laborers, lands which he held by copyhold leases of manorial lords. Previous to the fourteenth century and following the Norman conquest in 1066, the villein, while of course not a slave or bondsman, was also not a free tenant. He occupied cottages and had small allotments in common lands of the manor which the yeomen worked for themselves; but they also were obligated to work on the lord's lands about two-thirds of their time and to render other services and payments.

It is probable that ninety per cent of the founders of New England were derived from the yeoman class. This class was not considered armorial and did not make pretensions to coats of arms.

ANDOVER, HOME OF EARLY LOVEJOYS

BECAUSE the exact date of the settling of Andover, Mass., is uncertain, it is consequently difficult to determine the exact year when John Lovejoy arrived in America from England. He was one of the first settlers and householders, being the seventeenth on the town's earliest list. The Compiler believes this was shortly after 1634, but it may have been 1638 or even later.

Andover was one of the first "inland" settlements after the coast land along the Cape Cod and Massachusetts bays was divided into farms for the Puritans from England. In Abiel Abbot's History of Andover, written 101 years ago in 1829, one learns that a Mr. Woodbridge, on behalf of the inhabitants of Cochichewick, the early name for Andover, bought the land now known as Andover from Cutshamache, the sagamore of Massachusetts, for six English pounds and a coat. Undoubtedly, this purchase was soon after 1634. In that year, only four years after the first planting of Boston and Charlestown, the following order of the Boston court was issued: "It is ordered that the land about Cochichewick shall be reserved for an inland plantation, and whosoever will go to inhabit there shall have three years immunity from all taxes, levies, public charges and services whatever, military discipline only excepted."

The settlement continued to be known as Cochichewick until the town of Andover was incorporated and confirmed in 1646, the name having reference to the fact that some of the settlers had come from Andover, England. Certainly, John Lovejoy and many early settlers had put up their homes in Andover some time before 1646. It was a part of Essex County which also included Salem, Lynn, Enon (now Wenham), Ipswich, Rowley and Newbury, all on the south side of the Merrimac River. Andover is about twenty miles north of Boston.

Some members of the family have related the tradition that John Lovejoy had originally landed in Newbury, about 1635, and had gone to Andover a year or two later. The Compiler has not been able to confirm this nor has he learned which boat from England brought the emigrant John. There is no Lovejoy mentioned in Hotten's Original Lists, 1600-1700, nor is there any reference to a Lovejoy in Drake's Result of Some Researches Among British Archives for Information Relative to the Founders of New England, 1860.

John Lovejoy's name is, however, mentioned in Pope's Pioneers of Massachusetts. Pope restricted his pioneers to those arriving between 1620, the year of the Mayflower, and 1650. He said:

> The present work . . . restricts the genealogy to the first settlers and their children only; and confines the study still further to those persons who came here early enough to be foundation-layers, first fellers of the primeval forest, first ploughers of the virgin soil, first makers of homes in the new country, first worshippers in the log-meeting houses, first freemen and officers in the plantations and colonies. What were these but "pioneers," whose bravery, earnestness, fidelity, love made them worthy to be enrolled by themselves, an honorable list of heroes and heroines. All who came after the year 1650 found Massachusetts a reality, a single state, practically, although under two fraternal colonial governments; all who came before that date helped essentially to make it. . . .
> The number who took to themselves the designation of "gentlemen," or had it attached to their names by the writers of passenger lists, deeds, wills, church, town or court lists, is not very large; in some cases the title was used when a person had been in public office here, and was given by recorders, without reference to social standing in England. . . . But the great majority of the pioneers were the plain, untitled people, bred to industry and economy, trained to professions, merchandise, trades, husbandry or service. Those who came of noble families were often apprenticed in childhood to learn some trade, or to do housework; and persons who were employed, even in positions of trust and dignity, bore the title "servant" like humble menials. They were educated beyond the average of English people of their time, and their habits were cleaner, more virtuous than the majority of their old associates. And thus they had the stuff and force as well as the faith and patience for the enterprise which made such drafts on body, mind and character as the laying of the foundations of a commonwealth.

Early grants by vote of the town to the Andover settlers were made in small lots, few exceeding ten acres. These were near the "village," in what is now North Andover. Plough land was granted on the plains near the Shawshine River further away. There was also swamp or meadow land for hay and wood land at a distance. All receiving grants were householders or freeholders and were considered as proprietors and voters until about 1715 when the proprietors regarded themselves as a body distinct from the town corporation and began their own records.

Andover was a favorite home of the Indians, because of the abundance of fish in the Merrimac, Shawshine and other rivers and because the land was suitable for cultivating corn and beans. Because of their kindness, justice and humanity, the first settlers suffered very little from Indian depredations for more than thirty years, until King Philip's War in 1675. In fact, the first Indian violence and damage is not recorded until April 19, 1676. But the most severe Indian massacre which Andover suffered was on March 5, 1698 when five white settlers were killed. Block houses of logs were built as garrisons and the Indians were enemies much dreaded.

The first church parish, known later as the North Church, was divided in 1709 when the South Parish was incorporated. William Lovejoy (5) and John Abbot were the first two deacons of the South Church (cf. illustration) their election taking place November 8, 1711. The West Parish (cf. illustration) was not organized until 1826 and again, a Lovejoy, Ebenezer Lovejoy, was one of the first deacons, the others being Zebadiah Abbot and Solomon Holt. At this time there were no fewer than 60 members of the Lovejoy family on the South Church lists.

According to Miss Bailey's Historical Sketches of Andover, "in the west part of the town, the homesteads of Deacon John Lovejoy, Deacon Ballard Lovejoy and the late Deacon Ebenezer Lovejoy are within a short distance of each other, about a mile west of the meeting house. Among the conspicuous names of this family were Captain Nathaniel Lovejoy in the Revolutionary period, and his son, General Nathaniel Lovejoy, a graduate of Harvard College, 1766, a trader at North Andover; also Captain William Lovejoy of Andover, (South)."

In 1777 there were four militia companies in Andover which with the Alarm list consisted of 670 men. Captain Nathaniel Lovejoy commanded one of the four companies numbering 161 men.

The old style or Julian calendar was changed in 1752 and dates between January and March before that year are often expressed with a diagonal, such as February 12, 1691/2. Under the old calendar the year began March 25 but this was abolished by act of parliament and, following September 2, 1752, the next day was changed to September 14, eleven days being added.

In 1692 during the witchcraft delusion which originated at Salem Village, a few miles away, many Andover residents became victims. More than 50 were imprisoned and several were hanged. Upham in his Salem Witchcraft says of Andover, "a perfect panic swept like a hurricane over the place."

Witchcraft furnishes us moderns with interesting but incredible side-lights on early Massachusetts. According to Abbot's History of Andover, the delusion concerning witchcraft had prevailed in Great Britain before, and opinions reflected from the other side were brought to America.

According to Abbot, it was believed that some girls at Salem Village could discover and identify those who were witches and those who had afflicted persons. More than fifty in Andover were thus charged. Dudley Bradstreet, Esq., son of Governor Bradstreet and himself a selectman and representative of the General Court, a colonel of the militia and many years a magistrate, having granted thirty or forty warrants for commitments, at length refused to believe the girls and grant any more. Thereupon Bradstreet and his wife were both immediately accused and the story was started that this distinguished man had killed nine persons by witchcraft. He found it necessary to make his escape. Many of those who were accused and committed were women of good character, and among the most respectable in Andover.

The following is the examination and confession of Ann Foster, her daughter, Mary Lacey, and her granddaughter, Mary Lacey, Jr., on July 21, 1692, before Major Gidney, Mr. Hawthorne, Mr. Corwin and Captain Higginson. Ann Foster is an ancestor of many Lovejoys, she having been a grandmother of the wife of Ebenezer (13), a great grandmother of the wife of Hezekiah Lovejoy (29) and a great great grandmother of Captain Abiel Lovejoy (96).

The following testimony appears on pages 154 to 157 of Abbot's History:

> QUESTION—Goody Foster! You remember we have three times spoken with you, and do you now remember what you then confessed to us? You have been engaged in very great wickedness, and some have been left to hardness of heart to deny; but it seems that God will give you more favor than others, inasmuch as you relent. But your daughter here hath confessed some things that you did not tell us of. Your daughter was with you and Goody Carrier, when you did ride upon the stick.
> ANSWER—I did not know it.
> QUESTION—How long have you known your daughter to be engaged?
> ANSWER—I cannot tell, nor have I any knowledge of it at all.
> QUESTION—Did you see your daughter at the meeting?
> ANSWER—No.
> QUESTION—Your daughter said she was at the witches' meeting, and that you yourself stood at a distance off, and did not partake at that meeting; and you said so also; give us a relation from the beginning until now.
> ANSWER—I know none of their names that were there, but only Goody Carrier.
> QUESTION—Would you know their faces if you saw them?
> ANSWER—I cannot tell.
> QUESTION—Were there not two companies in the field at the same time?
> ANSWER—I remember no more. Mary Warren, one of the afflicted, said that Goody Carrier's shape told her, that Goody Foster had made her daughter a witch.
> QUESTION—Do not you acknowledge that you did so about thirteen years ago?
> ANSWER—No, and I know no more of my daughter's being a witch, than what day I shall die upon.
> QUESTION—Are you willing your daughter should make a full and free confession?
> ANSWER—Yes.
> QUESTION—Are you willing to do so too?
> ANSWER—Yes.
> QUESTION—You cannot expect peace of conscience without a free confession.
> ANSWER—If I knew anything more I would speak it to the utmost.—(Goody Lacey, the daughter called in, began thus: Oh! mother! how do you do? We have left Christ, and the devil hath got hold of us. How shall I get rid of this evil one? I desire God to break my rocky heart, that I may get the victory this time.)
> QUESTION—Goody Foster! you cannot get rid of this snare; your heart and mouth is not open.
> ANSWER—I did not see the devil, I was praying to the Lord.
> QUESTION—What Lord?
> ANSWER—To God.
> QUESTION—What God do witches pray to?
> ANSWER—I cannot tell, the Lord help me.
> QUESTION—Goody Lacey! had you no discourse with your mother when riding?
> ANSWER—No, I think I had not a word.
> QUESTION—Who rid foremost on that stick to the village?
> ANSWER—I suppose my mother. Goody Foster said, that Goody Carrier was foremost.
> QUESTION—Goody Lacey! how many years ago since they were baptized?
> ANSWER—Three or four years ago, I suppose.
> QUESTION—Who baptized them?
> ANSWER—The old serpent.
> QUESTION—How did he do it?
> ANSWER—He dipped their heads in the water, saying they were his, and that he had power over them.
> QUESTION—Where was this?
> ANSWER—At Fall's River.
> QUESTION—How many were baptized that day?
> ANSWER—Some of the chief; I think there were six baptized.
> QUESTION—Name them?
> ANSWER—I think they were of the higher powers.—(Mary Lacey, the granddaughter, was brought in, and Mary Warren fell into a violent fit.)
> QUESTION—How dare you come in here, and bring the devil with you, to afflict these poor creatures?—(Lacey laid her hand on Warren's arm, and she recovered from her fit.)
> QUESTION—You are here accused of practising witchcraft upon Goody Ballard; which way do you do it?

ANSWER—I cannot tell. Where is my mother that made me a witch, and I knew it not?

QUESTION—Can you look upon that maid, Mary Warren, and not hurt her? Look upon her in a friendly way. (She, trying to do so, struck her down with her eyes.)

QUESTION—Do you acknowledge now you are a witch?

ANSWER—Yes.

QUESTION—How long have you been a witch?

ANSWER—Not above a week.

QUESTION—Did the devil appear to you?

ANSWER—Yes.

QUESTION—In what shape?

ANSWER—In the shape of a horse.

QUESTION—What did he say to you?

ANSWER—He bid me not be afraid of anything, and he would not bring me out; but he has proved a liar from the beginning.

QUESTION—When was this?

ANSWER—I know not, above a week.

QUESTION—Did you set your hand to the book?

ANSWER—No.

QUESTION—Did he bid you worship him?

ANSWER—Yes; he bid me also afflict persons.—(You are now in the way to obtain mercy, if you will confess and repent. She said, the Lord help me!)

QUESTION—Do not you desire to be saved by Christ?

ANSWER—Yes. Then you must confess freely what you know in this matter.—(She then proceeded. I was in bed, and the devil came to me, and bid me obey him and I should want for nothing, and he would not bring me out.)

QUESTION—But how long ago?

ANSWER—A little more than a year.

QUESTION—Was that the first time?

ANSWER—Yes.

QUESTION—How long was you gone from your father, when you ran away?

ANSWER—Two days.

QUESTION—Where had you your food?

ANSWER—At John Stone's.

QUESTION—Did the devil appear to you then, when you was abroad?

ANSWER—No, but he put such thoughts in my mind as not to obey my parents.

QUESTION—Who did the devil bid you afflict?

ANSWER—Timothy Swan. Richard Carrier comes often a-nights and has me to afflict persons.

QUESTION—Where do ye go?

ANSWER—To Goody Ballard's sometimes.

QUESTION—How many of you were there at a time?

ANSWER—Richard Carrier and his mother, and my mother and grandmother.—(Upon reading over the confession so far, Goody Lacey, the mother, owned this last particular.)

QUESTION—How many more witches are there in Andover?

ANSWER—I know no more, but Richard Carrier.

Carrier at first, denied all, but was followed until he was brought to accuse his mother, much in the same manner with Foster's daughter and granddaughter.

Ann Foster was convicted but not executed, probably because of her confession, although during the witchcraft delusion nineteen persons in the vicinity were hanged and one pressed to death.

JOHN LOVEJOY'S LAND GRANTS AND HIS WILL

THE following, copied from "Ye Old Proprietors Land Records," describes the Andover grants of land made to John Lovejoy from time to time but, unfortunately, does not furnish dates:

JOHN OSGOOD JOHN LOVEJOY DANIELL (D. P.) POORE
JOHN FRIE RICHARD BARKER.

By these names it would appear that John Lovejoy was a member of the Land Committee when this record was made.

The first record found of a transfer of real estate by him is a deed to his grandson in 1683. This was not recorded for more than thirty years after it was signed and acknowledged. His name appears on a petition to the Court of Sessions in 1687 in which it is stated that he then resided "upon the Rode at Andover that leadeth from Ipswich and the Townes that way to Baliraca."

The following pages show John Lovejoy's will and a translation of it, page by page. This will is owned (1930) by Stephen Arthur Lovejoy of Andover, and although it has been regarded in the family as the original will itself, the Compiler believes it to be a contemporary copy, probably written by the same notary or notary's clerk who penned the original and probably written at the same time as the original. On the back page of S. Arthur Lovejoy's document appears the following: "Copy, Mr. Jno. Lovejoy's Will," in the same handwriting. The Columbia University Library expert on old documents and old papers, and head of the Columbia Library's bindery, Frank C. Erb, examined this Lovejoy will and his opinion is that the paper on which this will was written was certainly and beyond doubt the kind of legal paper used in 1690. He also believes it is a copy, but made at the same time the original will was drawn, and is therefore, an exact duplicate.

EXPLANATIONS AND ABBREVIATIONS

Each Lovejoy, male or female, is separately numbered and the index in the back of this Genealogy refers to these numbers and not to page numbers. The surname Lovejoy is omitted from numbered names to save space.

The superior number after each Lovejoy name indicates the generation from the emigrant John^1 Lovejoy of Andover.

+ Indicates head of a family; minimum of information, such as date of birth and death, is given when this name first appears and the biography and children's names will be found further along in consecutive order.

§ Indicates a deaf-mute, according to Professor Alexander Graham Bell.

FIRST GENERATION

1. JOHN^1 LOVEJOY of Andover, (son of Rowland of England), was the common ancestor of most Lovejoy families in America, and was born in England about 1622. Volume II of American Ancestry and many other standard reference books authenticate his early arrival in America. He died in Andover Nov. 7, 1690. There is evidence that he was born in London and probably in May or June. Some researches have indicated that his birthday may have been June 18, 1622. Although the Compiler favors John's birthplace as London, there is some alternative opinion that he may have been born in Andover, Hants, or vicinity and may consequently have been attracted to the American town of Andover. There are Lovejoy families in and around Andover, Eng.

The date of John Lovejoy's emigration to America has not been determined satisfactorily. According to MSAL, John arrived from England on April 11, 1630 in the ship, "Arabella," which is supposed to have been one of a convoy carrying 800 men. She regarded his birth date as June 15, 1622 and his birthplace as London, and her notes include the statement that John came to America in "Ye Good Ship, Arabella with 100 men and 68 officers with three other ships." However, there are a number of contradictions in the various suppositions about John's arrival. For example, MSAL had in her notes that Christopher Osgood, the father-in-law of John, also came to America in the ship "Arabella," but the Compiler prefers the more general belief that Christopher Osgood and family came in the boat, "Mary and John," arriving in March, 1633/4.

Similar differences of opinion exist about the exact date when John Lovejoy settled in Andover, Essex Co., Mass. Mrs. Francis A. Lovejoy of Hollis, N. H., who probably obtained her information from the late C. F. Burge, competent and painstaking town historian of Hollis, believes that John landed in Newbury, Mass. in 1635 and moved to Andover, a few miles away, in 1644. Holmes' Ancestral Heads of New England Families, 1620-1700 says John Lovejoy settled in Andover about 1650, but this date is plainly too late.

The date of Essex Court records indicate he was at Andover before 1644, but how much previous to that year is impossible to determine. The town was officially settled May 6, 1646 when a Mr. Woodbridge "acquired the legal title from Cutshumache for £1 and a coat."

According to Abbot's History of Andover, the list of the first settlers is recorded on a leaf in the town records, written in an ancient hand and without date, but probably when most of the first settlers were still living, and it therefore may be considered as nearly correct. The list includes the names of 23 first settlers, most of them now common names in the United States, and on this list John Lovejoy's name is the seventeenth.

The list follows:

The names of all the householders in order as they came to towne:

Mr. Bradstreet
John Osgood
Joseph Parker
Richard Barker
John Stevens
Nicholas Holt
Benjamin Woodbridge
John Frye
Edmond Faulkner
Robert Barnard
Daniel Poor
Nathan Parker
Henry Jaques
John Aslett
Richard Blake
William Ballard
John Lovejoy
Thomas Poor
George Abbot
John Russ
Andrew Allen
Andrew Foster
Thomas Chandler

Abbot's book continues to explain: "Some of these brought families with them; others were young unmarried men. All of these, and probably others, were in Andover before 1644; many followed them in the course of a few years."

John Lovejoy did not marry until another seven years had passed and how he lived, with whom or where, during the early years we have no knowledge. In fact, records before 1643 are lacking in the history of Andover. There is only one of a business transaction of an Andover resident, namely, August 13, 1643, concerning one Richard Barker, who was described as "of Cochichewicke," the Indian name for stream, "the outlet of Greatland in Andover through which the water runs or falls into the Merrimac." It was near this stream that the pioneer settlement was made. Here was the first meeting house and for many years this locality was the "village" of the town. This territory is now regarded as within the limits of North Andover.

John Lovejoy held several minor public offices in Andover. Probably in 1669 he was fence viewer for the southerly part of the town, an office more important then, with the stray cattle, than now. In 1674 he was probably constable, although the record is not clear. But inasmuch as a similar office was held by Nathan Parker, a man of advanced age, it is likely that John, Sr., was the constable and not his son who would have been then only nineteen years old.

John's name appears frequently on town and proprietors' records after 1651 when he was married and it appears on petitions to the General Court and to other authorities for various purposes. He took the Freeman's Oath in 1662 and in 1669. From another source, Farmer's Genealogical Register of First Settlers of New England, comes the item that John became a freeman in Andover on May 7, 1673 and from still another source the date of this act is given as December 20, 1673 but the Compiler imagines the latter date may properly be applied to John (4). In 1669 John, Sr. was appointed one of a committee of three to join with the selectmen to sell certain lands to raise money to defray "the charges about the new meeting house." John and three of his sons, John, William and Christopher, took the Oath of Allegiance February 11, 1678.

According to Volume 20, p. 143, of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, a deposition by John Lovejoy in the files of Suffolk Court indicated that on Apr. 27, 1659 he was "about 38." The same register, Volume 7, p. 83, says he was 40 in 1662 and 47 in 1669. All these facts along with his parents' marriage date and some little data about an older brother, Robert, add evidence that he was born in 1622.

The emigrant, John Lovejoy, was the first of hundreds of Lovejoys who have taken part in American wars. When he was more than fifty years of age he fought the Indians to protect the struggling villages on the New England shores. A considerable number of Lovejoys have already become members of the Society of Colonial Wars and of the Colonial Dames and every Lovejoy who is descended from John of Andover is plainly eligible.

According to Bodge's Soldiers in King Philip's War, John of Andover served in this war (1675-76), receiving the pay of 1 £. 10 s. 0 d. and assigning it on August 24, 1676 as tax credit to "Andover Towne," probably because the town had advanced this sum to his family during his absence.

He served in Captain Joseph Gardiner's first company of Salem Militia, 1675-76, in the expedition against the Narragansetts and an official date of Dec. 10, 1675 is recorded. John Lovejoy is further credited with serving under Captain Samuel Brockelbank against the Indians at Sudbury (probably Mass.) later in King Philip's War and again receiving 1 £ 10 s. 0 d. The official date of this service is June 24, 1676. In addition to Bodge, the register of the Society of Colonial Wars authenticates this military service.

Although in a preceding chapter the acreage of John Lovejoy's land grants in Andover is given, the descriptions of parcels and their locations are very vague. But it is supposed he had his house on Boston Road and that at one time it was moved from the site of Locke's Tavern, said to be the oldest site in Andover Center (cf. illustration). According to the History of Essex County, John Lovejoy's first grant of land joined that of Andrew Foster. And another reference says

John "lived on the road at Andover that leadeth from Ipswich and the towns that way to Baliricha" (Billerica). High Street in Andover was once called "Lovejoy's Land." Punchard's school was near the Pine Swamp which was one of his holdings. Originally he probably had seven score acres and eventually probably owned as much as 320 acres. The famous Pomp's Pond in Andover (cf. illustration) was so called because Pompey, the negro slave of Captain William Lovejoy, (16), swam in this body of water almost daily. As early as 1689 the town of Andover voted to encourage the establishment of an iron works and the Lovejoys operated this early factory on the Shawshine River probably near the site of the subsequent Marland Mills.

According to Miss S. L. Bailey's Historical Sketches of Andover, the "third in the list of the first ten marriages in Andover is, Jan. 1, 1651, John Lovejoy and Mary Osgood." They were married at Ipswich, Mass. by Rev. Mr. Simons.

Several of the first and second generations of Lovejoys in Andover were connected by marriage with the Osgoods and with the Abbots, Farnums, Holts, Chandlers, and with other families of original settlers, proprietors and Indian fighters of Massachusetts. John Lovejoy's two marriages are recorded by Savage's Genealogical Dictionary of New England. Pope's Pioneers of Massachusetts, 1900, records his marriage to Mary Osgood but fails to identify his marriage to Hannah Pritchard, which is recorded in the Essex Court.

The Compiler favors the evidence that Mary Osgood, John Lovejoy's first wife, came to America from Southampton, Eng., arriving in Mar. 1633/4, in the ship, "Mary and John," commanded by Captain Sayres of London. Mary was born Mar. 17, 1633 (prob. the year before) in Marlboro, Wilts, Eng. and died in Andover July 15, 1675. She was the oldest daughter of Christopher Osgood and was reared by her stepmother, Margery (Fowler) Osgood, dau. of Philip Fowler, who d. June 24, 1679 and of his wife, Mary Winsley, who d. Aug. 30, 1659.

Christopher and Margery Osgood, acc. to Savage, had the following chdn: Mary, Abigail, Elizabeth, Deborah, Christopher b. 1643 and Thomas (prob. b. posthumously). Mary's own mother was Christopher's first wife, Mary Everett (or Everhard) who is reported to have d. Apr. 21, 1633, and was buried in Marlboro. Christopher and Mary Everett were married in St. Mary's, Marlboro, Apr. 21, 1632 and, immediately after her death, the following year, Christopher m. as his second wife, Margery Fowler.

Acc. to p. 337, Pioneers of America, Christopher settled in Ipswich in 1635. He is listed as a proprietor, probably the same year and became a freeman May 16, 1635. He d. in 1650. In his will, dated Apr. 19, 1650, acc. to vol. V, p. 37 of Essex Antiquarian, Christopher left to his dau., Mary, 10 £ to be paid on the day of her marriage and added "my will is that my oldest dau. marry not without the desire of my wife and the consent of my overseers."

There is a good deal in the Osgood Genealogy about Chistopher Osgood and his making cloth at Ipswich. It was his father-in-law, Philip Fowler, who probably brought over the first cloth mill and who was really the originator of the great textile industry in and around Andover. On Christopher's death his widow, Margery m. as her second husband, Thomas Rowell on Feb. 26, 1650 at Salisbury. The cloth mill industry was developed in Frye Village, near Andover, with great success and the whole line became important mill operators in successive generations.

John Lovejoy waited more than a year after the death on July 15, 1675 of his first wife, Mary Osgood, before he took as his second wife, the widow, Hannah Pritchard. Acc. to a record in the Essex County Quarterly Court, John and Hannah were m. "12:11m:1676" and this date is, therefore, calculated to be Feb. 12, 1676. The marriage was in Andover. Hannah outlived John and d. Aug. 1, 1705 in Andover, of a cancer in her throat. Acc. to the records of Bertram E. Lovejoy (2458), she was the widow of William Pritchard who was killed Aug. 2, 1675 while serving in King Philip's War when he was a sergeant in the garrison at Brookfield. William and Hannah Pritchard's dau., Sarah, born Jan. 22, 1662, married her step-brother Joseph Lovejoy (8). Practically no records were found about Sergeant William Pritchard except that he prob. was in Lynn bet. 1641 and 1643 "in the coast service bet. Port of Boston and Northern Settlements."

The devotion of John Lovejoy had for his second wife, Hannah Pritchard, is demonstrated by the careful provision he made for her in his six-page will which is reproduced in this book. John Lovejoy d. Nov. 7, 1690 and his will was presented for probate Mar. 31, 1691 or 1692.

Until 1739 he was moderator at parish meetings at the South Church, was treasurer for nineteen years and assessor for seven years. Nehemiah and Abigail had seven chdn.: Nehemiah Abbott b. 1692; Abiel b. 1693; Zebadiah b. 1695 m. Anna Lovejoy (60); General John b. 1697; Abigail b. 1699; Mary b. 1701; Joseph d. 1726. (Ref. Savage).

12. DEBORAH[2] b. Nov. 4, 1671.

+13. EBENEZER[2] b. Jan. 22, 1673; d. Andover May 15, 1760.

THIRD GENERATION

4. JOHN[2], son of John (1) b. Feb. 9, 1655; d. Andover July 14, 1680; m. Andover, Mar. 23, 1677/8 (acc. to Essex Co. Quarterly Court) Naomi Hoyt b. Jan. 23, 1655 at Newbury, Mass., dau. John and his second wife, Frances (——) Hoyt. John Hoyt, b. about 1610, d. Feb. 28, 1687/8 was one of original settlers of Salisbury, Mass., and a planter there, and he also owned land in Ipswich 1641, and Haverhill 1650. There is also a report that John Hoyt was killed by Indians Aug. 13, 1696 prob. bet. Andover and Haverhill. In 1683 John Lovejoy (1) gave John (15), acc. to p. 40 vol. 33 Essex Deeds, all the plowland and upland and meadow in a section of fifty acres in his "Great Division." There was a bog hole in it and it is believed it embraced the present Rabbit's Pond on Seminary Hill. John (1) describes his feelings for John (15) "for natural affection for my grandson John, s. of my deceased son, John." Two years after marriage of John (4), he died leaving two chdn. His wife, Naomi, later married after 1684, prob. at Chelmsford, Richard Stratton, s. of Samuel and Mary (Frye) Stratton, Naomi having moved from Andover to Chelmsford because of an indiscretion. John (4) took Oath of Allegiance 1678. His name is on a revised list of "proprietors" of Andover made after he was of age. He received grants of land but the only record, authenticated by Daniel Poore and Thomas Johnson, indicates that on Jan. 12, 1679 John received six acres of land, four of it for his swamp land and "two hee bought of ye Towne. . . ." There is on record a copy of his "Trew inventory."

Children

14. FRANCES[3] b. Andover Nov. 24, 1678; m. Charlestown Apr. 29, 1701 Nathaniel Foster of Chelmsford. Frances lived with her grandfather in 1690 and her maintenance was provided for by him.

+15. JOHN[3] b. Andover Sept. 13, 1680 (posthumous); prob. d. Plainfield, Conn.

5. Lieut. WILLIAM^{2} son of John (1), b. Andover Apr. 21, 1656 or 57; d. Andover July 9, 1748; m. Andover Nov. 29, 1680 Mary Farnum, b. Andover Mar. 24, 1666, d. Dec. 25, 1739 Andover, dau. Thomas and Elizabeth (Gibbons) Farnum. The Farnums were conspicuous in settling Concord, N. H. The Compiler prefers this parentage for Mary although one correspondent records her as the dau. of Ralph and Elizabeth (Holt) Farnum. William became a freeman at Andover Apr. 18, 1691. He helped found South Church, 1711, and became the same year one of the first two deacons. He is also referred to as "Lieutenant" William and also "Ensign" William. He is one of the really important figures in early Andover, serving in 1691 as grand juryman, from 1694 to 1697 as surveyor and in 1715 as selectman. He also had a grist mill and may have started the Lovejoy Iron Works. He was made a sergeant, prob. of the local military company, in 1696, but was a lieutenant at death. In 1687 when he purchased a small tract of land from Francis and Abigail (Dane) Faulkner, he was termed "Yeoman" but in later years he was styled "Husbandman."

Children (all b. Andover)

+16. WILLIAM^3 b. Nov. 22, 1681; d. Andover Mar. 8, 1762.

19. ALICE^3 b. Aug. 23, 1687; d. Andover July 25, 1741.
20. CALEB^3 b. Mar. 29, 1691; d. inf. Apr. 26, 1691.
+21. SAMUEL^3 b. Apr. 1693; d. Dec. 3, 1749.
22. ABIGAIL^3 b. June 11, 1695; d. Andover Sept. 5, 1759; m. Andover Dec. 8, 1718 Henry Phelps, b. Andover Sept. 24, 1693; d. Andover Oct. 18, 1766, s. of Samuel and Sarah (Chandler) Phelps. Abigail and Henry had two chdn: Abigail Phelps b. 1730 and Henry b. 1732. Henry Phelps, Sr. m. (2) in 1760 at Andover Mrs. Susanna (Snow) Kittredge.
23. LYDIA^3 b. Apr. 29, 1699; m. Dec. 24, 1735 at Andover to Joshua Shackford. Two chdn. by Shackford are also reported: Joshua Shackford b. 1736 and Lydia bap. 1738.
24. SARAH^3 b. Sept. 6, 1701; d. July 13, 1775. One source lists a child, Caleb, the second of this name, instead of Sarah.
25. PETER^3 There is some uncertainty about this child but he is reported as having been born about 1690 and as dying in Andover in 1774, ae. 84.

7. CHRISTOPHER^{2} son of John (1), b. Andover Mar. 1, 1661/2; d. Andover Mar. 17, 1736/7; m. Andover, May 26, 1685 Sarah Russ, b. Andover Feb. 3, 1668 d. Mar. 17, 1737 or Apr. 19, 1745 at Andover, dau. of John and Deborah (Osgood) Russ. The latter date appears in old almanac of Ezekiel Osgood in Andover. Acc. to Henry S. Lovejoy, Christopher was married by Major Saltonstall. John Russ, b. Newbury June 24, 1641, son of John and Margaret, m. Deborah Osgood at Andover Aug. 28, 1663. Deborah was b. ab. 1640, dau. of John Osgood, b. July 23, 1595, d. Oct. 24, 1651, and Sarah ——, who was b. ab. 1627, d. Apr. 8, 1667. John Osgood was one of founders of church in 1645 and was first representative to General Court in 1651. His parents prob. were Robert and Joanna (——) Osgood. John Russ, sr. was b. England ab. 1612, d. Mar. 4, 1692.

His wife, Margaret d. Andover July 10, 1689. According to Miss Charlotte Abbot, the Russ family was said to have had some Indian blood, but the Compiler seriously questions this. Christopher Lovejoy apparently did not hold public office but in several deeds is termed "Husbandman." In his will, 1736, Christopher gave his widow one cow but instructed his grandson, Jonathan, to keep it for her and pay forty shillings annually. Also she got the use of "all lands and meadow on north side of the brook behind the barn that runs into the pond meadow except a parcel laying at the brook and joining John Foster's land; thence the bounds run to Ebenezer Lovejoy's land on the west and my upland near Thomas Abbot's pasture he had of Joseph Phelps." Christopher in his will asked his son, Hezekiah, to redeem a pasture he desires for his share that "lies on the dam owned by Timothy Mooar" (Haggett's Pond Dam). In 1721 Christopher and Ebenezer (13) Lovejoy, along with William Foster, formed a syndicate and bought an enormous farm belonging to the Frye heirs. Christopher sold off various parcels and it is probably here that his sons located.

The following is a copy of the original inventory of "Christopher Lovejoy's Estate both Real & Personal prized at Andover Jan. 6, 1737/8 by Benj. Blanchard, Ebenezer Lovejoy & Thomas Abbott.

28. SARAH^3 b. Mar. 9, 1689/90; m. Andover Oct. 26, 1714 Thomas Austin, her second cousin, b. 1692. They moved to Methuen and helped form the church there Oct. 26, 1729. Thomas was s. of Thomas and Hannah (Foster) Austin and brother of Hannah who m. Hezekiah (29). Sarah and Thomas had nine chdn: Thomas Austin b. 1716 who m. his cousin, Sarah Lovejoy (105); Sarah Austin; Hezekiah b. 1719; Hannah b. 1722; Nathan and Isaac, twins, b. 1725; Elizabeth; John b. 1728; and Peter, b. 1730.

+29. HEZEKIAH^3 b. Oct. 1701; d. 1751.

+30. JONATHAN³ This birth not recorded but, because of a reference to him as Christopher's second son, he was prob. b. 1697; d. Andover Mar. 25, 1725.

31. ELIZABETH³ prob. b. 1700 or 1701. Her father's will referred to her as the "youngest daughter". She m. Dec. 30, 1717 Zebediah Barker, b. Andover Feb. 2, 1690, s. of Stephen and Mary (Abbot) Barker. Elizabeth and Zebediah moved to Methuen and helped form the church there Oct. 26, 1729. Elizabeth and Zebediah had eleven chdn: Zebediah Barker d. y.; Zebediah b. 1720; Timothy b. 1721; Jonathan b. 1723; Daniel b. 1724; Jacob b. 1726; Joshua b. 1728; David b. 1731; Caleb b. 1733; Elizabeth b. 1734 and Abiel b. 1737.

32. MARGARET³ prob. b. Dec. 19, 1709; m. Andover Mar. 9, 1730 Capt. Charles Furbush. He d. Sept. 9, 1756 at Saratoga and in a petition to the General Court for wages, preserved in Mass. State Archives Margaret declared that Charles Furbush entered the provincial military service July 1, 1756 and was taken sick while serving under Captain John Wright at Fort Edward, N. Y. but d. on the way home at Saratoga. Margaret and Charles Furbush had three chdn: Margaret Furbush b. 1732; Mary b. 1733 and Capt. Charles, b. 1736 and who not only served with his father at Fort Edward but later commanded the Andover Company at the Battle of Bunker Hill and was killed in Feb. 1795 by an insane servant.

8. JOSEPH² son of John (1) b. Feb. 8, 1662/3; d. Andover June 5, 1737 m. Andover May 26, 1685 his step-sister, Sarah Pritchard, b. Jan. 2, 1662 d. Andover, June 30, 1739, dau. of William and Hannah Pritchard. Joseph was made a freeman at Andover Apr. 18, 1691. There is a record that on Mar. 10, 1680 he signed a petition at Amesbury, Mass. while a soldier of "Ye Training Band" asking the General Court that Samuel Foot be made lieutenant. Joseph's will is in vol. 349, p. 310, of the Essex County Court Records. He prob. held no public offices but did serve on the grand jury of the Circuit Court at Ipswich in 1696.

Children (all b. Andover)

33. SARAH³ b. Feb. 21, 1685/6; m. Feb. 7, 1710 Joseph Clark. Intentions to marry were apparently filed at Souhegan West, now Amherst, N. H., and yet they did not appear to leave South Andover until 1749. Sarah and Joseph had nine chdn: Mary Clark b. 1710; Joseph, Sarah, Deliverance, Benjamin, Lydia, Benjamin, Hannah and Susannah.

34. JOSEPH³ b. Feb. 21, 1689; d. Mar. 2, 1697/8.

+35. BENJAMIN³ b. Nov. 21, 1690.

36. HANNAH³ b. Feb. 11, 1693; prob. m. (1) Andover Feb. 2, 1737 Daniel Faulkner, b. Jan. 15, 1685, d. Andover Aug. 24, 1739, s. of John and Sarah (Abbott) Faulkner. Hannah m. (2) Andover July 19, 1741 William Martin.

May 17, 1714 at Andover, dau. of Sergeant John and Mary (Barnes) Hoyt. Nathaniel received from his father in the will all the land intended for his brother, Benjamin, the soldier, and on March 28, 1695 he exchanged with his brother, Ebenezer, his farm in Andover and obtained the original Lovejoy homestead that Ebenezer had inherited from their father. Nathaniel was styled a "cordwainer" in early records. More than two years after the death of Dorothy, Nathaniel m. (2) Andover Aug. 16, 1716 Elizabeth Wilson whose records are confused with others of the same name. Elizabeth was perhaps a widow from Lexington.

Children (all by first wife, all b. in Andover)

39. DOROTHY^3 b. May 24, 1697; d. Andover May 27, 1747; m. Andover Dec. 25, 1722 Solomon Martin, b. 1695 at Andover, d. Apr. 1, 1754 at Andover, s. of Samuel and Abigail (Norton) Martin. Dorothy and Solomon had five chdn: Nathaniel Martin b. 1726; Dorothy b. 1728; Abigail b. 1731; Daniel b. 1734 and Mary b. 1737. Solomon Martin m. (2) Andover Oct. 20, 1748 Widow Sarah Whipple.

42. DORCAS^3 (twin of Timothy, 41) b. May 5, 1701; m. Oct. 25, 1727 at Portsmouth, N. H. and perhaps m. again the next day at Andover John Shackford. Dorcas and John had two chdn: a son, b. 1735 and Dorcas Shackford, b. 1742.

43. DEBORAH^3 b. 1703 or 04; m. Andover Dec. 13, 1732 John Bailey, b. Nov. 26, 1691 at Bradford, Mass.; d. ab. 1750 at Methuen, s. of Joseph and Abigail (——) Bailey. Deborah and John had one child, Susanna Bailey, b. 1733.

+44. EZEKIEL^3 b. 1705 (prob. Nov.); d. Andover Apr. 13, 1742.

+45. DANIEL^3 b. 1710.

13. EBENEZER^{2} son of John (1) b. Andover Jan. 22, 1673, d. Andover May 15, 1760. Received in father's will the Lovejoy homestead, orchards, etc. and was instructed to provide for some of the women members of the family. Ebenezer made frequent transactions of land. Ebenezer m. July 11, 1693 Mary Foster, b. June 10, 1673, d. Andover Oct. 5, 1763, dau. of Andrew Foster, Jr., and his wife, Mary (Russ) Foster. Andrew Foster was b. 1640, d. May 1697 and it is said his family sold the land on which Phillips Andover Academy now stands.

Children (all b. Andover)

+46. EBENEZER^3 b. Nov. 12 or 22, 1696; d. Andover Sept. 18, 1773.

+47. JOHN^3 b. May 14, 1698; d. Andover May 10, 1758.

48. a child, prob. MEHITABLE^3, b. 1709, prob. d. y.

49. a child, prob. another MEHITABLE^3, b. June 12, 1704; perhaps d. Jan. 17, 1786 at Billerica, Mass. There is confusion here and Miss Charlotte H. Abbott, the Andover genealogist, wondered if one of these Mehitables was perhaps confused on the early records with Margaret Lovejoy (32). Acc. to MSAL, there was a child, Mary, and another child, Hannah, in this family. Acc. to DRL's records, however, one of the chdn, named Mehitable, was b. Dec. 17, 1709 and d. Jan. 17, 1786. She prob. m. (1) Oct. 14, ..., as the second wife of Timothy Mooar, who had previously m. Ann Blanchard, dau. of Ann Lovejoy (6). Timothy Mooar was b. Andover Sept. 16, 1688, d. Andover Mar. 6, 1762, s. of Abraham and Priscilla (Poor) Mooar. Also acc. to DRL, Mehitable m. (2) Nov. 27, 1770 William French, b. Billerica 1700, d. Billerica Apr. 9, 1776, s. of William and Sarah (Danforth) French.

50. ANDREW^3 b. Sept. 6, 1701; d. Andover Mar. 21, 1724.

FOURTH GENERATION

15. JOHN^{3} son of John ([illegible]) b. Andover Sept. 13, 1680 (posthumous) prob. d. Plainfield, Conn., m. Andover May 12, 1703 Bathsheba Blunt. John's uncle, Joseph (8), was his guardian until he attained his majority. In 1683 John received tract of land from his grandfather, John (1), with certain stipulations about making payments to his sister, Frances. The movements of John (15) and Bathsheba are somewhat obscure. Only three chdn. are recorded at Andover and the name of only one is listed in the town records. John and Bathsheba, however, prob. moved to Plainfield, Conn. and started the Connecticut branch. The town records of Plainfield have a land conveyance Mar. 10, 1715 to "John Lovejoy of Andover Colony of Mass" by a Philip Preast. We also find John conveying land to Nathan Rigbe Aug. 17, 1724 and to Samuel Blunt Oct. 25, 1721. We find record of other chdn. b. to John and Bathsheba so it is probable they moved from Andover to Plainfield in 1715 or shortly before. There are references by C. J. Hoadley in Public Records of the Colony of Connecticut as follows: vol. 8 p. 500, Oct. 1742 about a memorial to the State Assembly referring to the estate of Anne Lovejoy, deceased, of Plainfield; and in vol. 11 p. 461, dated Oct. 1760 about Richard Lovejoy and others of Plainfield organizing into a distinct ecclesiastical society. The names of Elizabeth, Benjamin and Richard Lovejoy also appear in the land records of Plainfield.

The Compiler, accepting the most reliable of the contradictory evidence about his family, lists the chdn. as follows:

Children

+51. BENJAMIN^{4} b. Andover 1706, prob. Apr. 4; d. Philmont, N. Y., Nov. 20, 1772.
+52. RICHARD^{4} b. Andover 1709, prob. June 28.
53. ANNE^{4} b. Andover Aug. 1711; prob. d. before 1742.
54. JOHN^{4} (uncertain about this child).
55. TIMOTHY^{4} b. prob. Plainfield Oct. 13, 1716; d. Oct. 28, 1716.
56. NAOMI^{4} b. prob. Plainfield Oct. 19, 1717; m. Plainfield May 1, 1734 John Blunt.
57. FREELOVE^{4} b. prob. Plainfield Feb. 16, 1720; m. Feb. 5, 1740 at Plainfield Joseph Cory b. Oct. 13, 1716.
58. ELIZABETH^{4}

16. Captain WILLIAM^{3} son of William (5), b. Andover Nov. 22, 1681; d. Andover Mar. 8, 1762; m. (1) Andover Mar. 25, 1704/5 Sarah Frye, b. Feb. 27, 1684/5, dau. of Capt. James and Lydia (Osgood) Frye of Andover. A number of references to William Lovejoy are found in vol. 8, p. 226, of the proceedings of the New England Historical Society. He was prominent in public affairs in Andover, both civil and military. He was a lieutenant and later a captain, accumulated much property and was the owner of slaves. It was this Captain William Lovejoy who owned the famous negro slave, Pompey, who is mentioned in early biographical dictionaries because he lived to be 102 years of age dying in 1826. His wife, Rose, lived to be 99. The famous Pomp's Pond in Andover (cf. illustration) was named for him. Captain William gave Pompey his freedom. "Pomp" is recorded as serving 1½ days in Revolution in Capt. Henry Abbot's company. Captain William's will, probated Apr. 5, 1762, showed a total of £722 11s. 10d., a considerable sum in those days. He m. (2) Andover Nov. 28, 1749 Widow Sarah (Paine) Blanchard, either the widow of his cousin, David Blanchard, or of Jonathan Blanchard s. of Ann Lovejoy (6). Widow Sarah, b. Feb. 3, 1688 at Medford (prob.) and d. Oct. 9, 1772 at Andover, was dau. of Edward and Bethia (Sweetser) Paine.

Children (all by first wife; all b. in Andover)

59. WILLIAM^4 b. 1706 or 07; d. inf. Mar. 23, 1707.
60. ANNE^4 b. Aug. 1711, bap. Nov. 4, 1711; m. June 2, 1728 Zebediah Abbot, b. Andover Apr. 6, 1695, d. Andover Sept. 9, 1769, s. of Nehemiah and Abigail (Lovejoy) (11) Abbot. Anne and Zebediah had six chdn: Anne Abbot b. 1729; Nehemiah b. 1731; Sarah b. 1733; Lydia b. 1735; Chloe b. 1737 and Zebediah b. 1739, who m. Rebecca Ballard and was a member of the Convention for Forming the Constitution of Massachusetts.
61. PHEBE^4 b. Jan. 20, 1715/6; d. Andover Dec. 17, 1751; m. Andover Nov. 29, 1739 Deacon Isaac Abbot, who was a grad. of Harvard University, 1723, b. Apr. 4, 1699 Andover, d. Aug. 9, 1784 Andover, s. of Captain George and Dorcas (Graves) Abbot of Andover. Deacon Isaac prob. m. (2) Charlestown Jan. 3, 1754 Lydia Calley. Phebe and Isaac had six chdn: William Abbott and an infant twin b. 1741; Isaac b. 1745, a militia lieutenant wounded at Bunker Hill; Phebe b. 1746; a son b. 1747; and Sarah b. 1750.

17. HENRY^3 son of William (5), b. Andover Nov. 27, 1683; d. Andover Feb. 2, 1776; m. Andover Feb. 14, 1711/2 his second cousin, Sarah Farnum, b. May 5, 1686; d. 1766. Acc. to Mrs. Annie Givin Jackson of Pittsburgh, Sarah was dau. of Ralph and Sarah (Sterling) Farnum.

Children (all b. Andover)

63. SARAH^4 b. 1712, bap. Nov. 30; d. Andover Aug. 11, 1767; prob. m. Nov. 27, 1736 at Andover Benjamin Smith, prob. b. June 16, 1706 or 1713 at Andover, s. of Samuel and Sarah (——) Smith. Sarah and Benjamin had three chdn: Sterling Smith b. 1737; Benjamin b. 1740 and Sarah b. 1743.
+64. HENRY^4 b. Aug. 14, 1714; prob. d. Concord, N. H. Mar. 15, 1792/3.
+65. DAVID^4 b. Oct. 10, 1715; d. prob. Suncook (now Pembroke) N. H. Feb. 18, 1819.
+66. CALEB^4 b. Dec. 28, 1716.
67. MARY^4 b. Dec. 17, 1718; d. June 14, 1764 perhaps at Suncook; m. Andover Nov. 15, 1737 Richard Eastman, b. Aug. 9, 1712; d. Dec. 1807. Mary and Richard had twelve chdn: Mary Eastman b. 1742; Caleb b. 1738; Jonathan b. 1739; Abiatha b. 1745; Richard b. 1747; Sarah b. 1749; Job b. 1751; Noah b. 1753; Hannah b. 1755; Martha and Abiah, twins, b. 1757; and Esther b. 1761.
+68. JOSHUA^4 b. Dec. 2, 1719; prob. d. Andover Feb. 2, 1813.
69. MARTHA^4 b. Nov. 2, 1720; m. Andover Oct. 8, 1739 Jonathan Abbot, Jr. of Lunenburg, Mass., b. Dec. 14, 1714, d. May 21, 1794, s. of Jonathan and Zerviah (Hoyt or Holt) Abbot. Martha and Jonathan lived in Lunenburg for a few years but they returned in 1753 to Andover. Dr. Edward D. Lovejoy (2525) of Los Angeles has, among other valuable mementoes of early Lovejoys, a silver spoon which belonged to Martha and which is engraved "M. L. A.". Martha and Jonathan had four chdn: Jonathan Abbot b. 1740; William b. 1746; Martha b. 1749 and Nathan d. y.
70. WILLIAM^4 b. Jan. 31, 1721/2; d. inf. Apr. 15, 1722.
+71. WILLIAM^4 b. Apr. 16, 1723.
72. STEPHEN^4 b. June 6, 1724; prob. settled in York, Me., and was both a Colonial and a Revolutionary War soldier, serving first in the French and Indian Wars. He was under Captain Joseph Holt in Colonel Plaisted's regiment in expedition to Lake George, was taken ill at Glasco (N. Y.?) and was obliged to sell his gun and borrow two dollars to "purchase necessaries". In his petition for reimbursement in 1756 he wrote that his father paid £5 1s. 4d. to have him carried by shay for seven days to Andover whence he eventually returned to York. Stephen is recorded in vol. 97, p. 97 of Mass. Colonial Soldiers as serving at Lake George in 1757 and in Canada Expedition in 1759; and in vol. 94, p. 500 for Crown Point service in 1756.

73. JERUSHA^4 b. July 5, 1725; d. inf. 10 days later. The History of Pembroke appears to be in error when it marries Jerusha to Ebenezer Abbott.

74. ABIEL^4 b. Feb. 24, 1730/1; d. inf. Feb. 8, 1732.

21. SAMUEL^{3}, son of William (5) b. Andover Apr. 10, 1693; d. Andover Dec. 3, 1749; m. Andover Apr. 23, 1717 Hannah Stevens perhaps b. 1705 Andover, perhaps d. May or July 7, 1774. But an alternative belief, however shared by NLR and others is that Hannah Stevens perhaps was b. July 28, 1692 and d. May 11, 1767 and was a dau. of John and Ruth (Poor) Stevens. This belief is prob. correct. Samuel Lovejoy was a yeoman and later husbandman, and his record appears in the Vital Statistics of Andover. There are records of several transfers of land. His will is dated Nov. 26, 1749 and gave Hannah one third of her husband's estate and the eldest son, Isaac, two thirds until younger chdn. were grown. Although the records of Hannah are not completely clear, because a "barbarian of a sexton" several decades ago sold the Andover gravestones for fence walls when the South cemetery was remodeled, Hannah prob. belonged to a leading line in Andover, descending from Lieut. John Stevens of the Colonial Militia who d. in service in Casco Bay and from Sergt. John Stevens of the Colonial Wars and his wife, Ruth Poor.

Children (all b. Andover)

75. HANNAH^4 b. Mar. 1, 1717/8; d. Andover Mar. 1776; m. Andover Dec. 27, 1752 prob. as his second wife, Hezekiah Stiles, d. about 1783 and s. of Ebenezer and Dorothy (Dalton) Stiles of Littleton, Mass. Hannah and Hezekiah had four chdn: Hannah Stiles b. 1753; Dorothy b. 1755; Mehitable b. 1757 and Hezekiah b. 1759.

76. DEBORAH^4 b. Feb. 17, 1718/9, acc. to South Parish records, or else b. Nov. 5, 1725, acc. to records of DRL. Deborah m. Nov. 11, 1740 John Phelps, b. Andover Mar. 12, 1718, d. 1789 or 90 Hollis, N. H. s. of John and Sarah (Andrews) Phelps. Deborah and John lived and died at Pine Hill, Hollis, N. H., and had seven chdn: John Phelps b. 1744; Deborah, b. 1742; Sarah b. 1746; Nathan b. 1749; Henry b. 1751; Samuel b. 1756 and Abigail b. 1760.

77. ELIZABETH^4 b. Aug. 5 or 8, 1720. One record marries her to William Baxter July 13, 1742 at Andover whereas another report says she prob. m. Mar. 6, 1753 at Lunenburg, Mass. to Stephen Boynton.

78. SAMUEL^4 b. Feb. 4, 1722; prob. d. y. July 29, 1736 although Mrs. Ross' records indicate he d. in 1779.

+79. ISAAC^4 b. Feb. 9, 1723/24; d. Dec. 3, 1799/1800.

80. PETER^4 b. Nov. 5, 1725; prob. d. Andover unm. Feb. 5, 1774. Some members of the family, however, have regarded this Peter as the husband of Silence Bartlett of Brookfield, Mass., but the Compiler disagrees with this and prefers the unconfirmed record that Peter (80) never m. and that he may have been feeble-minded. There is confusion between Peter (80) and Peter (112).

81. JAMES^4 b. Dec. 28, 1757; prob. d. Jan. 14, 1816.

82. MARY^4 b. July 23, 1730; d. Jaffrey, N. H. Oct. 2, 1802; m. Andover Mar. 25, 1751/2 Isaac Bailey, b. Lunenburg Aug. 8, 1729, d. 1812 Jaffrey, s. of Josiah and Elizabeth (Stevens) Bailey. Isaac served in the Revolution. They had dau., Molly Bailey, who m. Dec. 12, 1782 Jonathan Holt, Jr. of Fitchburg. Mrs. Susie (Holt) Lovejoy, wife of Dr. Frederick C. Lovejoy (2746) of Farmington, Maine, is a great, great, great, granddaughter of Mary (82). Mary and Isaac had seven chdn: Molly Bailey b. 1753; Isaac b. 1751; John b. 1760; Betty b. 1762; Hannah b. 1764; Samuel b. 1771 and Ruth b. 1775.

83. WILLIAM⁴ b. Oct. 19, 1732; d. y. Feb. 8, 1740 or, acc. to NLR, d. Feb. 8, 1760.
84. PHEBE⁴ b. Mar. 8, 1734/5.

27. CHRISTOPHER³, son of Christopher (7) b. Feb. 16, 1687/8; d. Andover Mar. 2, 1732; m. Mary Preston (int. rec. Dec. 27, 1718 Andover Church). Christopher inherited from his father large tract of land and his estate was inventoried at £209. 18s. 6d. although he left no will. The widow, Mary, prob. m. (2) Aug. 8, 1735, Samuel Abbot. The Preston line was an ancient one in Salem, prob. descended from Jersey seamen. Mary prob. lived across the river in Methuen when she m. Christopher.

29. HEZEKIAH³, son of Christopher (7), prob. b. Oct. 1701 although may have been b. bet. 1695 and 1701; d. 1751; m. Haverhill July 16, 1722 Hannah Austin who is recorded in Allen's American Biographical Dictionary third edit., 1857. She was Hezekiah's second cousin and her father lived in Haverhill just across the river from Andover. Her exact birth is a little uncertain but without doubt was bet. 1704 and 1706. A torn leaf of the Andover Town register furnishes for Hezekiah only the following record of his birth: Hezekiah, s. of Christop—— Lovejoy.

Hannah Austin was dau. of Thomas and Hannah (Foster) Austin. Hannah Foster's parents were Andrew Foster, b. ab. 1640, d. May 1697 and his wife, Mary Russ, whom he married at Andover June 7, 1662. Mary Russ was a sister of John Russ and an aunt of Sarah Russ, the wife of Christopher (7). Mary was b. at Newbury Feb. 16, 1643/4 and d. Andover Apr. 19, 1721. Andrew Foster's parents were Andrew, b. 1579, d. May 7, 1685, and Anne ——, who d. Dec. 3, 1692 in Salem Jail, charged with witchcraft.

Hannah Austin Lovejoy d. Dec. 1, 1805 at Amherst, N. H., prob. at the home of her son, Hezekiah Lovejoy (95). It has been stated on good authority that her age at death was 101 years, seven months and thirteen days, and although careful investigation fails to record her birth to correspond with this statement (namely May 18, 1704), it is safe to regard the family tradition as correct. Hannah Austin Lovejoy's chief claim to fame is that she had had at the time of her death 352 descendants as follows: 11 chdn; 57 grandchildren, 233 great grandchildren and 51 great, great grandchildren.

Hezekiah and Hannah in 1724 lived in Haverhill where their third child was born, and they transferred several parcels of land that had come to Hezekiah from his father, Christopher (7), and from Hannah's mother. The date of Hezekiah's death has not been definitely ascertained but on Sept. 25, 1751 appraisers were appointed to make an inventory.

The career of Hezekiah was plainly that of a man who loved a good time but was well disciplined for it. The church, all powerful and unbending in those early days, punished him by either deferring the baptism of his children or at best yielding only on his wife's account and baptizing them in her name as sponsor. This was the old fashioned hell fire prepared for and visited upon unchristened infants of the day. Hezekiah, it appears, went in rather a bit too strongly for the concoctions of molasses and rum and such missteps could not be condoned by the church. On Jan. 4, 1732 at a church meeting he was charged with "being disguised with drink." This is a unique phrase for a very old accomplishment. And so the church voted that inasmuch as he had previously made a public confession of "the very same sins" but had been irregular in his conversion that they should defer any acceptance of a second confession until Hezekiah gave them "some good grounds" to think that he had reformed his manner of life. Perhaps he never did furnish them with these grounds and perhaps "no reformation" took place inasmuch as no church records give evidence of his having been restored to its privileges. Perhaps Hezekiah inherited some of these traits from his Russ ancestors because it appears in the South Church that his uncle, Hezekiah Russ, had similar difficulties. The flowing bowl and the pleasant village taverns were not becoming to church members. Early records show that important privileges went to church members only, and some of the privileges were political. There was a great earthquake in 1727 followed by a large and immediate application for affiliation in South Church. Many were baptized again and from Oct. 29, 1727 until December the several quake shocks resulted in fine attendances at the meeting houses. Very probably young Hezekiah made his alliance with the church at this time. But prob. by 1732 he had become a backslider and then when he refused to appear after the sermon on a specified day for admonition, Parson Phillips said that "It is plain to all that Hezekiah had not repented." The date of Jan. 9, 1733 was the one when Hezekiah was debarred from further church privileges. Perhaps Hezekiah d. in Amherst, N. H. but at any rate it is known that his widow d. there after living 54 years longer than her husband.

+97. FRANCIS[4] b. Andover Oct. 30, 1734; d. Albion, Me. Oct. 11, 1818.
98. PHEBE[4] b. Andover Oct. 24, 1737; acc. to one record she d. young; acc. to another she may be the Phebe who m. Daniel Austin 1757 in Lunenburg, or did she m. Jacob Stanley in 1748?

99. PHEBE[4]
100. JOHN[4] bap. Dec. 29, 1739; d. y.
101. JOHN[4] prob. b. Andover July 24, 1743; referred to in some Andover records as "John Lovejoy, the Revolutionary War hero". He served in the army for a number of years, perhaps until 1785, and prob m. Miriam Gray about 1786 and may thenceforth have lived in Stoneham, Mass. Another report, however, is that John d. while a soldier in war service in 1778. This latter report seems to be indicated by Parson French in his South Church books, but it is not definitely certain that the parson copied all his dates correctly. It was perhaps this John Lovejoy who served George Washington in the Commander-In-Chief's Guard acc. to the supposition of Dr. C. E. Godfrey who wrote the history of this guard. If this is true, John enlisted at Andover for three years on Feb. 19, 1777 in Capt. Abbot's company of Col. Tupper's 10th Continental Army regt. and later was a private in the 11th Mass. regiment in Captain Benjamin Farnum's company and under Colonel Ebenezer Francis. This is recorded in vol. 2, p. 35 of Mass. Revolutionary Archives. He was transferred to the Commander-in-Chief's Guard Mar. 19, 1778 in which organization he d. Oct. 17, 1778, acc. to Dr. Godfrey. Perhaps this is the John Lovejoy referred to in vol. 93, p. 228, Mass. Colonial Soldiers, as serving in 1757 in the Andover "train band."

30. JONATHAN[3] son of Christopher (7), b. Andover 1697; d. Andover Mar. 25, 1725; m. Andover Dec. 23, 1717 Elizabeth Phelps, b. Andover Sept. 6, 1698, d. Andover Mar. 30, 1725, dau. Samuel and Sarah (Chandler) Phelps and an aunt of Hannah Phelps who m. Captain Hezekiah Lovejoy (95). Jonathan and Elizabeth resided in the west parish of Dunstable and later at Hollis, N. H. No record found of Jonathan's birth but in 1724 his father termed him "my second son," when he deeded him one half his farm. Jonathan is described as "husbandman."

103. ELIZABETH[4] bap. Andover July 23, 1721; prob. m. July 13, 1742 William Baxter who prob. d. before 1754 at which time Elizabeth was suspended from the church. Elizabeth had four chdn: William Baxter b. 1743; Jonathan b. 1745; Hannah b. 1751 and Elizabeth b. 1754.
104. JONATHAN[4] prob. b. Andover 1717; d. y.
105. SARAH[4] bap. Andover Mar. 3, 1723; d. Andover 1785, bur. Feb. 14; m. Andover Jan. 22, 1738/9 Thomas Austin, Jr. b. Andover Feb. 26, 1713 and prob. s. of Thomas and Sarah (Lovejoy) (28) Austin of Andover and Methuen. Sarah and Thomas had two chdn: Elizabeth Austin b. 1739 and Daniel b. 1746.
106. ANNIS[4] bap. Andover Jan. 31, 1725; prob. d. y.

35. BENJAMIN[3] son of Joseph (8), b. Andover Nov. 21, 1690; prob. d. Hillsborough, N. H., near Amherst, but no record found, and this death may be that of the son, Benjamin; m. Andover Feb. 13 or Aug. 14, 1717 Susanna Corneille. Susanna was b. Billerica Feb. 24, 1697 and was, acc. to Bertram E. Lovejoy, dau. of Peter and Joanna (Marshall) Corneille. Benjamin and Susanna lived in Andover until about 1750 when they moved with their son, Benjamin, to Amherst, N. H. and acc. to Mrs. Adella Lovejoy Currier, may have stopped off temporarily at Lunenburg. Benjamin inherited some land from his father and in 1731 paid £300 for some valuable property on the Boston Road. This is prob. the Benjamin who is listed in Vol. XI, Town Papers of Amherst, now in N. H. statehouse, as one of 32 "inhabitants of Souhegan West or Narragansett No. 3" who signed a petition June 26, 1753 to incorporate the town.

110. JOSHUA^4 b. Jan. 11, 1724; d. inf. Apr. 2, 1724.
111. ABIGAIL^4 b. Jan. 29, 1725/6; d. y. Aug. 1, 1738; some records name this child as Abijah but both Mrs. Currier and DRL recorded her as Abigail or Abiga.
112. PETER^4 b. Mar. 30, 1728; in early records Peter was believed to have d. young, in 1738, but C. F. Burge subsequently reported that a Peter d. 1774, ae. 48. However, Miss Abbot believed the Peter who d. 1774 was No. 80.
+113. JOSEPH^4 b. Mar. 26, 1731; prob. d. Mt. Vernon, N. H. Oct. 18, 1814.
114. OBADIAH^4 b. Mar. 31, 1733, d. y. Aug. 11, 1738.
115. a son^4 b. Oct. 5, 1740; prob. named Abijah. Mrs. Currier thinks he was prob. the second son to be named Obadiah and that he was killed in Revolution but the Compiler disagrees with this. Hemenway's Vermont (Town of Westminster) records the death of Abijah at Westminster in 1776, ae. 36 years, with the following on his tombstone: "Life is uncertain, death is suer; sin the wound and Christ the cuer." Abijah was commissioned a Major of militia shortly before his death, and may have been the Abijah who is listed in the manuscript copy of Mass. Colonial Soldiers for serving 19 weeks, 3 days in 1761.
115A. PETER^4 (?) There is also some evidence among Revolutionary War rolls that Benjamin (35) had a late son named Peter, who served from Hillsborough, N. H. in Capt. Baldwin's company and also in Col. Stark's regiment in the siege of Boston, 1775; also in Capt. Wetherbee's company at West Point in 1776. It is unlikely the Peter with this war service could be the Peter (286) of Palmer, Mass. This Peter could be Peter Corneille Lovejoy (6127) because of his residence in Westminster, Vt.

38. JOSEPH^{3} son of Joseph (8) b. Andover Oct. 6 or 16, 1699; d. Andover Mar. 2, 1773; m. Andover Jan. 4, 1736/7 Mehitable Foster, prob. b. Andover Oct. 1710, dau. Abraham and Mary (Johnson) Foster. Joseph bought from his father for £500 several parcels of land but the sites are almost impossible to locate because the old roads have long since been relaid elsewhere, the swamps filled in and the entire Andover section changed.

+121. ASA^4 b. Feb. 11, 1749/50; prob. d. Bethel, Me., 1835.
122. ISAAC^4 (?) This is prob. the Isaac who served three years in the Revolution (cf. illustration) and who moved from Andover to Norway, Me. about 1806 or 1807. This is the suggestion of Florence A. Lovejoy of Rumford, Me., and concurred in by Charlotte W. Lovejoy of Norway. Isaac was one of the founders of the First Congregational Church at Norway Center. He prob. was the Sergeant Isaac Lovejoy mentioned on page 240 of the History of Norway as serving in the 2nd Company under Capt. Amos Town in the War of 1812.

40. Ensign NATHANIEL[3] son of Nathaniel (10), b. Andover Feb. 25, 1698/9; d. Aug. 25, 1768; m. at Hampton to Elizabeth Swan of Hampton, b. Haverhill 1709 or Feb. 18, 1710; d. June 21, 1770, dau. of Robert and Hannah (——) Swan. One record that Nathaniel and Elizabeth m. Aug. 16, 1716 is obviously wrong because at that time she was only six years old. He prob. m. rather late in life, about 1743, when he was 44 years old. Nathaniel was probably an Ensign in French and Indian War, about 1758, and probably was later the Andover school-master. In vol. 94, p. 487 of Mass. Colonial Soldiers Ensign Nathaniel's signature is on a 1756 payroll; in vol. 95, p. 61 he is recorded as serving 41 weeks, 3 days in the Canada Expedition; and in vol. 94, p. 343 he is described as "husbandman at Andover." This also may be the same Nathaniel listed in 1725 as a "trooper" for 4 weeks, 2 days, in vol. 95, p. 142.

Children (b. Andover)

+123. NATHANIEL[4] b. Apr. 29, 1744; d. July 5, 1812.
124. JONATHAN[4] b. Apr. 22, 1748; d. y. Jan. 4, 1750.

41. TIMOTHY[3] (twin of 42) son of Nathaniel (10), b. Andover May 5, 1701; m. Andover Aug. 20, 1730 Mary Curnell (Corneille?). Timothy is on muster roll of Colonel Shadrack Walton and Company as "sentinell" in "Father Rasle's War" in Maine from July to Nov. 1722 in the Indian Wars in Maine. He is recorded in vol. 91, p. 42 of Mass. Colonial Soldiers for service of 17 weeks, 2 days in 1722-3. He was a tanner and cordwainer.

Children

125. MARY[4] b. Andover Mar. 24, 1731; d. Aug. 10, 1731.
126. TIMOTHY[4] b. Aug. 30, 1732; d. Aug. 18, 1762, "ae, 29, drowned at Plum Island River." May have had son, Moses, who served in Revolution in Capt. Nathaniel Lovejoy's North Parish company. Timothy may be the one of that name recorded in vol. 93, p. 191 of Mass. Colonial Soldiers for serving 15 weeks, 6 days in 1756 in Crown Point Expedition.
127. MARY[4] b. Aug. 19, 1735.
128. SUSANNA[4] b. July 16, 1738.

44. EZEKIEL[3] son of Nathaniel (10); b. Andover 1705 (prob. Nov.); d. Andover Apr. 13, 1742; m. Andover Jan. 9, 1727 Elizabeth Wilson.

Children (all b. Andover)

129. ELIZABETH[4] b. Mar. 9, 1728/9; d. inf. Mar. 18, 1728/9.
130. ELIZABETH[4] b. Mar. 31, 1731; m. Andover 1752 or 1763 Henri Young Brown b. Haverhill 1730, d. Fryeburg, Me. A tradition indicates that Henri Young Brown m. two Elizabeth Lovejoys, one in 1752 and one in 1763, but careful search by a number of Lovejoy genealogists for the past five decades did not solve this riddle. Henri was a captain in the French war and had land given him near Fryeburg, Me., which was called Brownfield. He was one of the founders of Fryeburg Academy. Elizabeth and Henri had one child, Elizabeth Brown, b. 1757, d. 1790.
+131. PHINEAS[4] b. Feb. 18, 1732/3.
132. DOROTHY[4] b. May 22, 1735; d. y.
133. EZEKIEL[4] b. Oct. 18, 1737; d. y. Nov. 9, 1739.
134. DOROTHY[4] b. Sept. 15, 1740; m. Andover Feb. 14, 1760 James

Holt, s. of James and Susannah (Nourse) Holt. Dorothy and James had six chdn: Susannah Holt, Dorothy, Enoch, Elizabeth, Hannah and Jesse.

45. DANIEL³ son of Nathaniel (10); b. Andover 1710; m. Oct. 29, 1745 Mary Holt, b. July 4, 1722. Daniel lived in Methuen and served in the Indian Wars, acc. to Mrs. Fred P. Lovejoy of Springfield, Vt. A Daniel Lovejoy is recorded in Mass. Colonial Soldiers as serving in 1757 in the "train band" at Methuen.

Children (although C. F. Burge and other genealogists worked painstakingly, it has never been determined whether the following chdn. are correctly listed because of a great deal of uncertainty about the records of Methuen, Lunenburg and Hollis.)

+135. MOSES⁴ b. Methuen Sept. 9, 1751; prob. d. Wilton, N. H. Mar. 19, 1807.

+136. JONATHAN⁴ b. Methuen Apr. 5 or July 3, 1754.

+137. DANIEL⁴ b. Methuen May 28, 1746; d. Jan. 29, 1829.

138. ELIZABETH⁴ b. Methuen June 9, 1747; perhaps m. Reading, Mass. July 19, 1774 Josiah Upton.

139. MARY⁴ b. Methuen Oct. 3, 1756; perhaps m. Uriah Smith.

140. SARAH⁴ b. Methuen June 5, 1759; d. Jan. 19, 1830; m. Amherst, N. H. Apr. 19, 1781 Silas Keyes, b. Aug. 7, 1757, d. Aug. 18, 1840, s. of John and Abigail (Cummings) Keyes. Silas is said to have served in Revolution at Bennington, Vt. in 1777 in place of his brother-in-law, Uriah Smith, who paid him $20. (Jobs must have been scarce in 1777 when soldiering brought such low pay.) Sarah and Silas had chdn. all b. bet. 1782 and 1799: Sarah Keyes, Jemima, Silas, Phebe, Ephraim, Jonathan, Joanna, Persis, Abigail and Warren.

141. DORCAS⁴ (or Dorothy) b. Methuen, rec. at Andover Apr. 16, 1762; d. Andover, Vt. Aug. 15, 1817. Prob. m. Oct. 27, 1785, Benjamin Pierce, b. Wilton, N. H. May 18, 1762, d. Londonderry, N. H. May 9, 1847, s. of Lieut. William Pierce. Dorcas and Benjamin had nine chdn: Dorcas Pierce b. 1786; Polly b. 1787; James b. 1789; Abiel b. 1791; Asa b. 1793; Alvah b. 1796; Nancy b. 1798; Alanson b. 1801 and Abel b. 1804. Benjamin Pierce prob. m. (2) Feb. 8, 1820 Mrs. Nabby F. Dodge. Benjamin had extensive service in the Revolution. He was at West Point, also in Captain Isaac Frye's Company, First N. H. regiment under Col. Alex. Scammell and at the close of the war was transferred to the Commander-In-Chief's guard, formed for George Washington. Dr. C. E. Godfrey of Trenton, N. J. and Washington, D. C. compiled a history of the Commander-In-Chief's guard and he used the references about Dorothy Lovejoy and especially about Benjamin Pierce from the Pierce Genealogy. The twelve selected soldiers in this guard escorted General Washington's baggage to Mt. Vernon after which they returned to West Point and were mustered out on Constitution Island Dec. 20, 1783, being presented with their horse accoutrements.

+142. PETER⁴ b. Methuen or Andover Sept. 26, 1764.

143. HENRY⁴ (?) Acc. to Revolutionary War pension rolls there was a Henry Lovejoy b. Andover 1753 and DRL suggested he was of this family. Acc. to Mass. Revolutionary Archives, vol. 173, p. 464, he was at Valley Forge and is reported as died in service Aug. 15, 1777. There is confusion here with Henry (199), one of the two dying at Valley Forge and one living at least until 1832 and probably later.

46. EBENEZER³ son of Ebenezer (13); b. Andover Nov. 12 or 22, 1696; d. Andover Sept. 18, 1773 or d. Oct. 20, 1739, (prob. the former); m. Andover June 26, 1722 or 1732 Mary Barnard, b. ab.

1696, Mary, acc. to one report d. Andover Oct. 5, 1763 but acc. to another report she d. July, 1795, ae. 98. She was the dau. of John and Naomi (——) Barnard and a great grand-daughter of Robert Barnard of Salisbury who in 1663 was the first settler on Nantucket Island. Ebenezer Lovejoy on Apr. 22, 1756 paid £8 13s. 4d. for a man to serve instead of his son in the expedition to Crown Point, N. Y. (Cf. illustration). Acc. to Ebenezer's will, drawn in 1763, probated 1773, he left his armory to his son, Jeremiah. Jeremiah was to pay certain annuities to his mother. His will was witnessed by Timothy Mooar, James Blanchard and Joseph Holt. Ebenezer prob. was a constable in 1725 and in 1746 was highway surveyor in Andover. It is interesting to note that for successive generations this branch has furnished road superintendents or highway surveyors for the town of Andover, including Stephen Arthur Lovejoy (2502) who held this position some years ago. Jeremiah also received Ebenezer's manservant, Dick, a negro slave such as all Lovejoys kept.

Children (all b. Andover; several suffered, with other Andover families in the epidemic of 1739, of "throat's distemper"—Diphtheria?)

144. MARY[4] bap. Mar. 14, 1725; d. y. 1739.
145. REBECCA[4] b. Nov. 14, 1726; prob. d. June 9, 1814; prob. m. Nov. 21, 1751, at Andover William Chandler, b. 1723 d. June 29, 1800; s. of Philemon and Elizabeth (Rogers) Chandler. Rebecca and William had at least four chdn: Hannah Chandler b. 1756, Rebecca b. 1759, Mary Mehitable b. 1761 and Philemon b. 1766. Acc. to DRL, there was a fifth child, Isaac, b. 1754.
146. NAOMI[4] b. Feb. 9, 1728/9; d. y. 1739.
147. EBENEZER[4] b. Jan. 17, 1730/31; d. y. 1739.
148. JAMES[4] b. Mar. 22, 1734; d. Oct. 15, 1739 or d. 1761 in the second diphtheria epidemic.
149. MEHITABLE[4] b. Sept. 21, 1736; d. 1761 of diphtheria.
+150. JEREMIAH[4] b. Mar. 15, 1738/9; d. Oct. 1, 1806 Andover.
151 EBENEZER[4]

47. JOHN[3] son of Ebenezer (13) b. Andover May 14, 1698; d. Andover May 10, 1758; m. Woburn June 25, 1722 Hannah Foster, b. about 1704, d. July 7, 1774, dau. of William and Sarah (Kimball) Foster of Rowley Village, later named Boxford.

Children (all b. Andover)

152. JOHN[4] b. Nov. 5, 1723; d. Andover Sept. 5, 1739.
153. HANNAH[4] b. Dec. 27, 1724; d. Sept. 7, 1813; m. Jan. 1, 1747 George Abbot, b. Dec. 14, 1724 or b. 1730, d. Dec. 26, 1775 or d. 1776, s. of Daniel and Hannah (Chandler) Abbot. Hannah and George had 12 chdn: George Abbot b. 1748, Hannah b. 1749, Mary b. 1751, Mary b. 1753, Elizabeth b. 1755, John Lovejoy b. 1757, Samuel b. 1759, Samuel b. 1760, Sarah b. 1762, Martha b. 1764, Dorcas b. 1766, Jameson b. 1767.
154. ANDREW[4] b. Mar. 3, 1728/9; d. Andover Aug. 6, 1739.
155. ASA[4] b. Dec. 9 or 19, 1733; d. y. Sept. 12, 1739.
156. ANDREW[4] d. y. This child listed by DRL but not found by Compiler or others.

FIFTH GENERATION

51. BENJAMIN[4] son of John (15) b. Andover 1706 prob. Apr. 4; prob. d. Philmont, N. Y. Nov. 20, 1772; m. (1) Mar. 3, 1725 acc. Early Conn. Marriages, Sarah Whitmore (or Whitman), bap. May 29, 1709, prob. Plainfield, Conn. d. May 16, 1790 New Concord,

N. Y., dau. of Thomas and Mary (Waters) Whitmore. In 1758 a group of families from Conn. founded the village of New Concord, Columbia County, N. Y., and they are buried in the so-called Lovejoy-Smith-Beebe-Thomas Burial Plot on the C. C. Brown farm bet. New Concord and Red Rock, N. Y. The plot is now being rapidly obliterated because it is used as pastureland. Here lie some of the paternal ancestors of Elizabeth Cady Stanton. Benjamin was prob. bur. on the Wesley Hogeboom farm, back of Philmont, but "Mrs. Sarah Lovejoy, relict of Benjamin," who d. May 16, 1790, was bur. in the above described plot as was "Polly, wife of Benjamin" who d. Aug. 7, 1812, ae. 50. The family name of this second wife was not found by the Compiler.

Child

+157. DANIEL[5] b. 1738 or 39 d. Canaan, N. Y. July 28, 1795.

52. RICHARD[4] son of John (15) b. Andover, 1709, prob. June 28; d. on or before Feb. 18, 1782. Name of wife not found. Moved to Plainfield, Conn. and thence to Sharon, Vt. In 1771 at Plainfield Richard got quit claim to land in Sharon and was highway surveyor in Sharon in 1776 and so evidently moved there bet. these dates.

Children (Confusion of records and contradictory reports make the Compiler uncertain about the accuracy of this family line.)

+158. WILLIAM[5] b. Plainfield, Conn. prob. in 1736; d. Royalton, Vt. Aug. 29, 1832.
+159. JOHN[5] b. May 7, 1760.
+159A. NEHEMIAH[5] (?)
160. SALLY[5] (?) b. about 1750 acc. DRL; m. Feb. 1, 1771 as second wife of Reuben Ingraham, who d. Apr. 26, at Sharon, Vt. Sally and Reuben had seven chdn: Reuben Ingraham b. 1771, Jane b. 1773, Lydia b. 1775; Rebecca b. 1777, William b. 1780, Susannah b. 1786 and Polly or Mary b. 1788.
The records of Mrs. E. M. Lovejoy, who wrote the History of Royalton, Vt. indicate there may have been another daughter, Hannah, in Richard's (52) family. Hannah was b. 1754, d. Sharon Oct. 11, 1832; m. Sharon Mar. 20, 1776 Larkin Hunter, b. 1747, d. Sharon Feb. 5, 1845. Perhaps also there was a son, Andrew, in this family who m. Sarah .... and Andrew and Sarah may have had a dau., Ruth Lovejoy. Perhaps this is the Andrew listed in vol. 94, p. 43 of the manuscript copy of Mass. Colonial Soldiers as serving in 1756 for 23 weeks, 1 day.

64. Captain HENRY[4] son of Henry (17), b. Andover Aug. 14, 1714; prob. d. Concord, N. H. Mar. 15, 1792/3; m. (1) Andover Jan. 1, 1734 Phebe Chandler b. Jan. 1, 1714/15, d. Jan. 1805, ae 90, dau. of Ensign and later Capt. John and Hannah (Frye) Chandler of Andover, and niece of wife of Henry's uncle, William Lovejoy (16). (Ref. Hist. of Chandler Family.) Henry m. (2) Hannah ——. In 1732 Henry, ae 18, accepted with Barachius Farnum of Andover liberal conditions offered by settlement of Pennycook (now Concord, N. H.) to build saw and grist mills there, and he received 140 acres. Henry prob. did not settle there then but he soon had acquired a large tract, now owned by the famous St. Paul's School. Four years later, on May 15, 1736, Henry bought of his grandfather, William Lovejoy (4) the Lovejoy grist mill at Andover and prob. erected a forge and iron foundry on the west bank of the Shawshine River. He sold out the land in 1740 and the mills in 1742 and prob. went to Rumford, N. H., in 1745. In 1746 Henry was one of two men chosen by Rumford to represent to the General Court of N. H. the dangers threatened by the French and Indian enemies. Captain Ebenezer Eastman was the other man. They succeeded in having the colony establish a garrison around the home of Henry Lovejoy in the West Parish village but as five men were later killed there, this Lovejoy garrison was abandoned for another site. (Ref. vols. V and IX, Prov. Record.) Later the Lovejoy garrison was resumed with a guard of soldiers and he erected a forge there and became known as Captain Henry Lovejoy. In 1749 he was a Selectman of Concord and in 1776 subscribed to the pledge to oppose the British, known as the Association Test. Henry was also a grantee of Conway, N. H. Acc. to D. A. R. #38824, Henry Lovejoy despite his age served Aug. 1, 1775 as private in Capt. William Walker's Company, Col. J. Reid's Regt. In July 1777 he was private in Capt. John Goos' Company, Col. Nichols' Regt., Gen. John Stark's Brigade. On Aug. 28, 1778 he is further recorded in Revolutionary Archives as private in Capt. Benjamin Mann's Company, Col. Nichols' Regt. in the Rhode Island campaign. Even though the D. A. R. military record may be of another Henry, it is also recorded in the D. A. R. Lineage Book that Henry (64) signed the Association Test, thus making his descendants eligible to some of the Revolutionary War societies. The military service given above may be that of Henry (143) or Henry (199).

Hon. John C. Thorne, a Lovejoy descendant and one time governor general of the New Hampshire Society of Colonial Wars, was chairman of the committee on memorials for Concord's anniversary in 1903 when a massive granite tablet was erected on the Capt. Henry Lovejoy garrison of 1746. (Ref. Concord Evening Monitor, July 18, 1903). The inscription on the granite tablet reads,

Site of Rumford Garrison
No. 3
Around house of Henry Lovejoy
to which were assigned
May 15, 1746,
Ten settlers
With their families

Children

68. Captain JOSHUA[4] son of Henry (17), b. Andover Dec. 2, 1719; prob. d. Sanbornton, N. H. or Andover Feb. 2, 1813, ae 93; m. Mar. 24, 1743 Lydia Abbot, b. Feb. 10, 1723, d. Sept. 11, 1807, dau. of Henry and Mary (Platts) Abbot of Andover. There is a tradition that Lydia Abbot, when a girl, went to Salem, Mass with her father one day and when passing the slave market bought a negro infant and brought it home on her saddle. She gave it to her dau., Chloe, and the child was called Salem Pony. He was the famous negro at Bunker Hill whose gallantry in fighting the British gained for him an official vote of thanks.

Captain Joshua operated the Lovejoy mills in Andover, served in the French and Indian War and in the Revolution and is recorded as being a sergeant at Bunker Hill on Apr. 19, 1775, in Captain Ben Ames' Company, Colonel James Frye's regiment, in which there were several other Lovejoys, and was severely wounded in the battle acc. to Boynton's Journal quoted by Bailey. This may have, of course, been his son, Joshua (188). In either case Joshua is recorded as a Sergeant and First Lieutenant in vol. 25, p. 114 of Mass Revolutionary Achives, serving in Capt. King's company of Lieut.-Col. Whitney's regiment and also serving seven days in the Lexington Alarm. Later he was wounded at Charlestown in the siege of Boston acc. to the Archives. Captain Joshua, acc. to page 388 in the Bailey book, enlisted his slave, Peter, for three years in the Continental Army and received in advance £90 bounty for Peter's services. There was another Peter Lovejoy, a white man, and the traditions and date of death of Peter Lovjoy, the white man, and Peter, (prob. called Lovejoy) the negro slave, are mixed. Acc. to Miss Charlotte L. Abbott, the negro Peter prob. d. Jan. 26, 1807, was m. and had two chdn. whereas one of the white Peters (80) prob. d. 1774 and the other one (112) prob. d. 1738.

Lydia Abbot, wife of Captain Joshua, was, acc. to Miss Abbott, "of a family very prominent in the early history of Andover. Her father was Lieut. Henry Abbot, brother of Captain George Abbot, who m. Mary Phillips, sister of Rev. Samuel Phillips. The Abbot girl cousins made a circle that went everywhere and entertained liberally. Lydia was brought up "opposite the Isaac Abbot Tavern where George Washington stopped for breakfast."

200. DAVID^5 b. Sept. 8, 1755; served in Revolution, d. in service. He was probably in Battle of Bunker Hill in same company as his uncle, Joshua (68). David is twice recorded in Mass. Revolutionary Archives, in vol. 11, p. 189 for 7 days' service at the Lexington alarm, and in vol. 146, p. 66 for service at camp at Cambridge in 1775.

201. SARAH^5 b. Nov. 28, 1758.

202. HULDAH^5 (?) There is an unconfirmed tradition of a dau., Huldah, in this family who m. Joshua Abbot of Nelson, N. H.

203. JOSEPH^5 (?) There is also an unconfirmed tradition of a son, Joseph, in this family who d. 1835.

79. ISAAC^{4} son of Samuel (21), b. Andover Feb. 9, 1723/24; d. Dec. 3, 1799 or 1800, ae 76, of "old age and fever." The late Dr. David H. Lovejoy of Philadelphia recorded Isaac's death as May 25, 1813 but the Compiler thinks Dr. Lovejoy possibly confused Isaac's death with that of his wife. Isaac served in the Revolution (cf. illustration). He m. at Billerica Feb. 28, 1750 Deborah Sheldon b. Oct. 23, 1723, d. Andover, May 23, 1813, dau. of Samuel Sheldon of Billerica and his wife Sarah (Hutchinson) Sheldon of Charlestown. Either this Isaac Lovejoy or Isaac (90) is recorded in vol. 96, p. 473 in Mass. Colonial Soldiers as serving as an Ensign in 1759 in the Canada Expedition. He is also listed as a Sergeant on Eastern frontiers for 3 mos., 2 weeks, 6 days in vol. 93, p. 127. Also he served 33 weeks in 1762, acc. to vol. 99, p. 189, and also in 1757 he served 10 days in relief of Fort William Henry, acc. to vol. 95, p. 504.

Children (All b. Andover)

Lydia and Palfray had six chdn: Palfray Ward Downing b. 1791; Samuel b. 1794; Deborah Sheldon b. 1796; Samuel b. 1798; John b. 1801 and Temperance Derby.

86. CHRISTOPHER^{4} son of Christopher (27), b. Andover July 11, 1722; m. Feb. 15, 1742/3 Anne More (later spelled Mooar) his second cousin, who was dau. of Timothy and Anne (Blanchard) More. Anne was bap. Apr. 23, 1721. Christopher and Anne moved to Hollis,

N. H. before 1746, prob. going there Apr. 20, 1743 with Jonathan Lovejoy (102), and was one of the men from Hollis in the expedition to Crown Point in 1755. Christopher and Anne were the thirteenth family to settle in Hollis and they lived on Pine Hill. Acc. to tradition Anne was so scrupulously neat and clean as a housewife that she was always scrubbing and once she scrubbed a hole right through the floor and fell into the cellar. This is prob. the Christopher listed in vol. 96, p. 475 of Mass. Colonial Soldiers as serving "1756, Canada Expedition, 5 mos. 15 days."

Children (All b. Hollis, N. H. except Anne)

213. ANNE^5 b. Andover May 26, 1743.
214. CHRISTOPHER^5 b. Oct. 22, 1745; m. June 9, 1767 Hannah Kemp of Hollis.
+215. ABIEL^5 b. Apr. 28, 1749.
216. MEHITABLE^5 b. Mar. 10, 1751; m. Hollis Oct. 5, 1769 Thomas Kemp and had eight chdn: Mehitable Kemp b. 1771; Thomas b. 1775; Asa b. 1777; William b. 1779; Zerubbabel and John (twins) b. 1781; Aaron b. 1785 and Mindwell b. 1787. Thomas Kemp m. (2) Hannah Hobart.
217. BENJAMIN^5 b. Dec. 25, 1753.
218. OBADIAH^5 b. June 13, 1756. Possibly the Obadiah who served in Battle of Bunker Hill in same company as Joshua (68), although this may have been Obadiah (185).
219. JOHN^5 b. May 2, 1758. It may be this or some other John who receipted June 26, 1783 for wages to May 10, 1783 on board frigate "Hague", commanded by Capt. John Manly.
220. DANIEL^5 (?) prob. s. of Christopher (86); b. 1746; d. Hollis Jan. 29, 1829, ae 83; perhaps m. Hollis 1767 Sarah Wyman, prob. b. 1748, d. 1831, ae 83. There is confusion here, however, with Daniel Lovejoy (137).
221. MARY^5 (?) prob. dau. of Christopher (86); m. 1765 James Gould.

88. NATHAN^4 son of Christopher (27) b. Andover Aug. 22, 1726; d. Apr. 15 or 17, 1783, ae 57 while at sea "on his passage from the West Indies to New England." Nathan m. Andover Aug. 25, 1747 Apphia Hoyt, dau. of Abner and Mary (Blaisdell) Hoyt of Concord, N. H., acc. to page 671, Bouton's History of Concord. Nathan and Apphia resided at Pepperell, Mass. but they are recorded as paying taxes in Hollis, N. H. of 14 £ 16 s. for 1763. A Nathan Lovejoy enlisted from Pepperell, in 1778 and served at Fishkill, N. Y. acc. to Mass. Revolutionary Archives. He was "ae. 53 yrs., 5 foot, 8 inches, dark complexion." A Nathan Lovejoy also served in Rhode Island from July 30 to Oct. 30, 1780, as private in Capt. John Porter's company of Col. Cyprian How's regt. of Col. Comdr. John Jacob's brigade. This may, of course, have been Nathan (223) or another Nathan. Apphia, the widow of Nathan (88), received Aug. 22, 1783 wages due for his service to Apr. 17, 1783 on board the frigate "Hague," commanded by Capt. John Manly. A Nathan Lovejoy corresponding to #88 inasmuch as he was described in 1777 as "ae. 52 yrs., 5 ft. 9 in." was in company raised in Townsend, Pepperell and Ashby to march to assistance of Maj.-Gen. Gates and Nathan served under Capt. James Hosley of Col. Jonathan Reed's 11th regt.

Children (some confusion and conflicting reports about these children)

222. MARY^5 b. Mar. 25, 1747, prob. Tewksbury, Mass.
+223. NATHAN^5 b. Nov. 20, 1749, prob. Tewksbury.

226. APPHIA^5 b. Oct. 29, 1755, prob. Tewksbury.

+227. SAMUEL^5 b. Pepperell Aug. 24, 1757; d. Milford, N. H. Nov. 26, 1841.

228. PHILIP^5 b. June 7, 1759. Philip is recorded in Mass. Revolutionary Archives as serving as private from Pepperell in the expedition under Sullivan against Newport, R. I. Philip is also recorded on a roll dated March, 1776, as serving six days as private in Capt. Job Shattuck's company of Col. John Robinson's regiment. He also enlisted July 7, 1777 for two months in Capt. Nathan Lakin's company of same regiment, 25 days of this time being in Rhode Island. He also served under Capt. John Nutting, Col. Wm. McIntosh's regiment, Gen. Lowell's brigade and he was described as "age 21, 5 ft. 6 in., complexion dark."

229. ABNER^5 b. Mar. 11, 1761; m. Hannah ...., b. ab. 1758. He is recorded in vol. 29, p. 95 of Mass. Revolutionary Archives as enlisting in March, 1779, from Pepperell as a private in the Continental Army for the duration of the war, and he served in Capt. Hartshorn's company of Col. Michael Jackson's regiment. Acc. to vol. 2, p. 184, he previously served in 1777 in the Rhode Island alarm in Capt. Nathaniel Lakin's company, Col. J. Robinson's regiment. Abner's pension claim was granted in 1818 when he was 57 years old and he was residing at Bergen, Genesee Co., N. Y. He claimed to have been in battles of Stony Point, Monmouth and Yorktown. In 1781 he was described as "age 20 yrs., stature 5 ft. 9 in., complexion dark, hair dark, a farmer." His birthplace was given as Andover, his residence as Pepperell.

230. ZURIAH^5 (Or Luriah) b. Nov. 26, 1762.

231. RUTH^5 b. Apr. 5, 1764, prob. at Hollis, N. H.

232. PRESSON^5 (or Preston) b. Aug. 11, 1765, prob. Hollis. He is recorded in Mass. Revolutionary Archives as serving from Andover. He signed a receipt at Boston Apr. 18, 1782 for bounty paid by Daniel Poor for a 3-year term in Capt. Benj. Heywood's company, 6th Mass. regt., having become a private Mar. 18, 1782. He was described as "age 17, 5 ft. 1½ in., dark complexion, yeoman, birthplace Hollis, res. Andover."

+233. JESSE^5 b. July 9, 1767 Pepperell.

234. THEODORE^5 b. June 15, 1769, prob. Hollis.

235. CHLOE^5 (or Lois) b. Mar. 29, 1772 or 1777; m. .... Coombs.

236. STEPHEN^5 (?) Compiler doesn't find this child listed by any correspondent but records of DRL suggest that there may have been a Stephen in this family.

90. ISAAC^{4} son of Christopher (27), b. Andover Apr. 13, 1731; d. Andover Nov. 23, 1811, ae 79; m. Andover Dec. 2, 1756 Mrs. Mary (Pevey) Wardwell, b. Hampton, N. H. 1723 or 24, d. Andover 1803, dau. of Peter and Esther (Barker) Pevey. Mary had prob. m. previously in 1748 Eliakim Wardwell, and had two chdn. by him. It is practically certain that this Isaac Lovejoy served in the Revolution (cf. illustration) and, indeed, several descendants have joined Revolutionary societies. He was referred to as "Mr. Isaac Lovejoy now in the Continental Army" in an inventory covering a member of the Wardwell family in 1780 and although his son, Isaac, also served, the latter would not be referred to as "Mr." Lovejoy in 1780 when only twenty years of age.

Isaac (90) is undoubtedly the Isaac recorded in vol. 41, p. 64, of Mass. Revolutionary Archives as enlisting in the Continental Army from Andover for 3 years in Capt. B. Farnum's company of Col.

Francis' regiment. He was reported "unfit for duty—want of clothes" in 1778. Also, in vol. 48, p. 353 he was described in 1779 as "48 yrs., 5 ft. 6 in., dark complexion" and was sick in hospital, prob. at West Point, from Aug. to Dec., 1781, while serving under Capt. Abbot of Col. B. Tupper's regiment. He also prob. served as private in Capt. Matthew Chambers' company, Lt. Col. Calvin Smith's 6th regt. in 1781. Also Isaac (90) was of same age as the Isaac Lovejoy on rolls of Major Peter Harwood's 6th Mass. Regt. in 1780 as recorded by Commissioner Justin Ely and perhaps also served in Continental Army according to Brig.-Gen. Paterson's return in Lieut. Taylor's company.

(Note—see Isaac (79) for possible Colonial Wars service.)

239. AULANDER^5 (prob. Orlando), also referred to as Allander; b. June 11, 1762. Two Orlando Lovejoys are recorded in Mass. Revolutionary Archives, one as a seaman exchanged in cartel "Swift" from Halifax in 1778, and one as a private in 1778 on duty guarding Burgoyne's troops while serving in Capt. Gage's company of Col. Gerrish's regiment.

240. MERCY^5 (or Mary) b. Aug. 21, 1764; d. Andover Feb. 25, 1851; m. Andover Apr. 25, 1805 James Davis b. 1753, d. Nov. 30, 1829, s. of James and Chloe (Wiley) Davis. Mercy and James had child, Lucy Abbot Davis b. 1806.

95. Captain HEZEKIAH^{4} son of Hezekiah (29) b. Andover Oct. 29, 1729; d. Amherst, N. H. Apr. 6, 1793; m. Apr. 9, 1751 Hannah Phelps, b. Andover Dec. 22, 1728, d. Aug. 25, 1811, dau. Edward and Sarah (Andrews) Phelps. Captain Hezekiah is recorded as a resident taxpayer of Amherst in 1760. He was selectman in 1767 and a captain of militia prior to 1780. He was a member of the council to examine the Constitution of the State of N. H. and to approve and adopt a new one. He served several times on a committee to procure soldiers for the Continental Army, perhaps also in Fayette, Me., and was a member of the Committee on Safety and Correspondence in 1777, 1778, 1779 and 1780. Hezekiah served as a second lieutenant in Captain Josiah Crosby's company, Colonel Moses Nichols' regiment in the brigade of N. H. militia under General William Whipple which was sent to Rhode Island in the Summer of 1778. Acc. to pages 389 and 393 of the History of Amherst, N. H. Captain Hezekiah Lovejoy in Sept. 1779 enrolled for six months' service in the garrison at Portsmouth. The following appears in the records of the Secretary of State:

State of New Hampshire, April 2, 1779.

To Nicholas Gilman, Esq. R.G.

Pursuant to a vote of Council and Assembly, pay Josiah Crosby and Hezekiah Lovejoy 25 pounds 12 shillings for camp utensils for General Stark's Brigade.

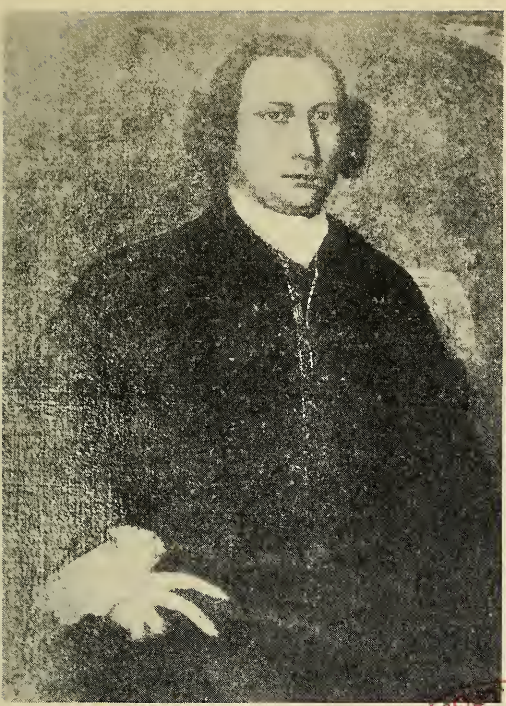
96. Captain ABIEL^{4} son of Hezekiah (29), b. Andover Dec. 16, 1731; prob. d. Sidney, Me. July 4, 1811.

No other Lovejoy in this Genealogy commands more interest than the famous Captain Abiel Lovejoy, Esq. His descendants are numerous and the legends and traditions about him are fascinating, exciting, almost always commendable. More has probably been written about him than any other Lovejoy, not even excepting his grandnephews, Rev. Elijah Parish Lovejoy, (615) the martyr, or the latter's brother, Congressman Owen Lovejoy (616).

As a soldier, as a legislator in the Great and General Court or Assembly of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, as a ship-owner, trader, land-owner, mill proprietor and as the leading citizen in Maine, both before and after it was a separate state, Captain Abiel Lovejoy's long life was crammed full of adventures and achievements.

He married in Charlestown, Mass. Dec. 14, 1758 Mary Brown, the belle of Charlestown, b. Mar. 29, 1734 or July 19, 1741 (prob. the latter) at Charlestown. She d. Jan. 19, 1812 at Sidney. She was the third child of Nathaniel and Abigail (Colesworthy) Brown. Nathaniel and Abigail were m. Dec. 12, 1738 by Rev. Peter Thacher, acc. to page 205, 28th Report of Boston Record Comrs. Boston Marriages. Captain Winthrop Wetherbee of Boston, who has studied the ancestry of Mary Brown for years, regards as likely the belief that Mary descended from Rev. John Lathrop of Barnstable. That story, although not definitely proved, usually describes her as a granddaughter of William Brown and Mary Lathrop, a great granddaughter of Benjamin Lathrop and a great, great granddaughter of Rev. John Lathrop. William Brown was a son of Hugh Brown. Acc. to page 142 of Wyman's Charlestown, Mary's father, Nathaniel Brown, (not Thomas, as sometimes reported), was a Charlestown innkeeper calling his inn "The Three Cranes Tavern." He petitioned for a divorce from his wife, Abigail, on June 7, 1748, his complaint implicating Richard Butler, and perhaps Nathaniel m. (2) Mary Fox of Woburn, acc. to the belief of Captain Wetherbee and of Mrs. Pratt, the genealogist employed by Professor Bell.

Nathaniel Brown, as father-in-law of Captain Abiel Lovejoy, was often identified with the latter. Probably Nathaniel put up some or all of the money to help Captain Abiel get his start in business in Maine, and it is also probable that Nathaniel's Tory sympathies were in part to blame for Captain Abiel's difficulties with a small minority



Captain Abiel Lovejoy (96).

Selectmen of Vaſſalborough

The Perſon choſen as aforeſaid, notified thereof and ſummoned to attend accordingly, by me,

Benjamin Dyer Conſtable of Vaſſalborough of his neighbors in Sidney and Vassalboro late in the Revolution. However, it is also said that Nathaniel Brown's house was the first fired by the British when they burned Charlestown, but, again almost in contradiction, it is said Nathaniel was obliged to move from Charlestown when his public house was boycotted and stoned by the mobs calling themselves patriots.

A great deal about Captain Abiel in the form of tradition has been found erroneous by the Compiler who has devoted a large amount of time to the research. The History of Kennebec County, for example, is wrong in listing Abiel as having been born in England, instead of Andover, Mass., for the records are very clear that he was born in Andover on Dec. 16, 1731 and baptized there three days later. His father died when he was about twenty years old and Abiel and his brothers were left dependent entirely upon their own resources. He had no "head start" in life.

There is a familiar tradition that when a young man Abiel lived with the Indians for two or three years, hunting and trapping. After a time the Indians became suspicious that he was "over-reaching" them in their business transactions. They became jealous because he obtained more furs than they, and resolved to take his life. One old squaw, who had taken a fancy to Abiel, because she had lost a son about his own age, told Abiel they intended killing him when they were hunting together the following day but if no opportunity presented itself while hunting they intended to murder him that night while he was sleeping. Abiel consequently feigned illness the next morning, did not join the hunting party and started with all speed for the nearest white settlement. At nightfall he climbed a high tree concealing himself in the branches. The Indians, returning early from the hunt, started in pursuit, arrived at the foot of the same tree where he was hiding and they danced and yelled about all night, throwing their tomahawks at the tree and telling what they would do to him when they got him, all ignorant of the fact that he was over their heads. Later by another route he reached the white settlement and was safe.

Another tradition is that Abiel went to sea as a sailor on coastwise vessels, became a master of a vessel with an interest in its cargo, and later became part owner in several small trading ships. Then he bought a vessel of his own and, as Captain Lovejoy, sailed her for several years.

Until a few weeks before going to press with this Genealogy, the Compiler assumed, with other descendants, that Abiel's title as captain came from this shipping experience. However, in the never-printed files of Massachusetts Colonial Soldiers, which are in manuscript form at the State House at Boston, the Compiler has learned that Abiel was a captain in the military service in Colonial fighting before the Revolution.

Captain Abiel is listed, as early as 1755, in the records of Massachusetts Colonial Soldiers. He was then a sergeant. In 1756 he was a sentinel (abbreviated to "Cent'l." in the records) but in 1758 and still in 1771 he was listed as "Captain Abiel" and it is therefore evident he obtained his captain's commission before 1758 and held it for at least thirteen years in the Pownalborough company of the regiment assigned to Lincoln County, then in the state of Massachusetts Bay, but now in the state of Maine. This record plainly makes eligible for the Colonial Dames and the Society of Colonial Wars all of Captain Abiel's many descendants.

In Volume 94, page 46, of the Massachusetts Colonial Soldiers he first appears on a muster roll of Captain Goodwin's Company which had been "scouting eastward and guarding stores of Fort Halifax." This roll was dated at Boston Dec. 27, 1755 and sworn to Dec. 31, 1755 in Suffolk County, Boston. On the fourth line appears the item "Abiel Lovejoy, Sergt." (cf. illustration) and his service was from July 7 to Dec. 23, a total of 24 weeks, 2 days. The roll showed his wages due were £10, 6s. 11d. but because he had drawn an advance of ten shillings the balance shown due him was £9 16s. 11d.

In Volume 95, page 80 he again twice appears. This page is captioned "A Muster-roll of the Company in His Majesty's Service Under the Command of Samuel Goodwin, Capt." The twentieth name is "Abiel Lovejoy, Cent'l. (sentinel) for service from March 31 to May 24, a total of 7 weeks, 6 days," for which his wages due were £2, 12s. 5d. Also on the same page, next line to the bottom, appears another period of his service as follows: "Abiel Lovejoy, Cent'l. from July 20 to Sept. 13, 8 weeks, due £2 13s. 4d." This roll is dated Dec. 17, 1756 and sworn to in the "Province of the Massachusetts Bay" on Dec. 29, 1756.

In Volume 96, page 378, which is dated during 1758, Abiel has by now become a captain. This page is a continuation of the muster roll of Colonel Nichols' regiment and the names of the 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th and 17th men listed on this page are shown as belonging to Captain Lovejoy's company, each man, including Lieutenant Joseph Gibbs, the first listed, receiving sixpence.

In Volume 99, page 433, appears a "List of Officers for the first Regiment of Militia in the County of Lincoln, August 1771." The list is headed by the three officers of field grade, i.e., William Lithgow, Esq., colonel; Charles Cushing, Esq., lieutenant-colonel; and Samuel Goodwin, Esq., major. Then follows the names of the three officers of the "2nd Compy. in Pownalboro" and these three are "Abiel Lovejoy, captain; Samuel Goodwin, jr., lieutenant; and Charles Callehan, ensign." (cf. illustration).

Just before his marriage in 1758 Abiel bought a negro slave called "Boston." Abiel's wife, Mary, also received from her father as a wedding present a young negress slave, who afterwards married Boston and who with Boston formed part of the many true stories and legends. Mary probably accompanied her young husband on several cruises while he was still a ship captain, sometimes to Annapolis Royal on the Bay of Fundy and other times down the coast and once or twice even to the West Indies. When in port they lived at Nathaniel Brown's "Three Cranes Tavern" which stood on the spot now a public park in Charlestown Square.

In 1760 Captain Abiel (then termed "mariner of Charlestown") purchased on Sept. 29 of "Ann Spaulding, spinster" thirty-five acres of land in the newly incorporated town of Pownalborough, Me., formerly called "Frankfort Plantation." Pownalborough was made the shire town in the new Lincoln County which before 1760 had been the eastern part of York County. The place was a frontier. Only one settlement Cobbisecontee (now Gardiner, Me.) was above Pownalborough on the Kennebec and that was settled only a year previous. In 1754 the entire country was unbroken wilderness between Fort Richmond, opposite Pownalborough, and Canada. In that year Fort Western, now Augusta, and Fort Halifax, now Winslow, Me., were built and occupied as defences and protection from attacks by the Indians who, spurred on by the French in Canada, were becoming more than usually hostile to the English settlers. The hardships, privations and suffering of these pioneers can never be fully understood by their descendants. Not until 1759 was the outlook encouraging for them. The capture of Quebec that year from the French by the Americans was the culmination of the fighting. There were no luxuries of civilization and very few comforts. Most settlers were extremely poor, lived in miserable huts, had no schools, no religious organizations, no ministers, and no teachers.

It was to Lot #11 on the east side of the Kennebec River on a peninsula between Kennebec and Eastern Rivers and later within the limits of the town of Dresden, Me. that Captain Abiel and Mary moved with their two young children in 1761. He devoted himself to agriculture and mercantile pursuits. He bought more land along the Kennebec and built a large house which was furnished "in a sumptuous manner," richly and tastefully, with the help of gifts from his father-in-law who was prospering with his Charlestown tavern. Mary received from her father two more negro slaves, Salem and Venus, and Mary also had as housekeeper and companion, an English woman, Elizabeth Millner.

Public records of Lincoln County, Me., the Mass. State Library Collections and Varney's Gazeteer of Maine record many of the achievements in public office and land transactions of Captain Abiel.

In March 1762 he was made a selectman of Pownalborough as he continued becoming a leading citizen of the community. He owned Swan Island in the Kennebec, later the town of Perkins, Me., which when first discovered by white men was the home of Sebenoa, the Indian Sachem. In 1763 he was termed "merchant" but more frequently "gentleman." He operated a ferry across the Kennebec and was regarded as the appropriate citizen to entertain those gentleman travelers who desired accommodations. He was made a selectman again in 1764 and, acc. to Lincoln County records, was appointed guardian over several children by the probate judge. On Nov. 12, 1764 Captain Abiel and his father-in-law, Nathaniel Brown, purchased half of a saw mill and adjoining land and a half interest in a dam on a small stream eight miles above Fort Western. More and more Abiel began to buy large tracts of neighborhood land and to take first mortgages on parcels. His interests were many. He built a number of river ships which plied between Pownalborough and along the river and coast to Boston. He marketed his manufactured lumber in Boston. He owned several slaves and employed many other laborers as farmers, millmen and saw-men. His house on Lovejoy Landing, managed by his handsome, cultural wife, Mary, was widely known for its genial hospitality. The river near Lovejoy Landing was termed Lovejoy's Narrows, a term still used. Early church services in the town of Pownalborough were held at the Lovejoy mansion, Rev. Jacob Bailey mentioning the fact in his diaries of 1772.

Captain Abiel Lovejoy was accused in 1781-2 by a handful of Sidney citizens, over whom he had probably triumphed in business and land transactions, of being "inimical" to the government, and his election was unsuccessfully contested. But the true record throughout, shows him beyond question, to be a fiery American patriot. In 1774 the Church of England people and their missionary rector at Pownalborough were abused and annoyed by neighboring inhabitants over the matter of continuing allegiance to the British crown. In a letter in Oct. 1774, Rev. Jacob Bailey wrote of the "furious mobs" of American patriots who at the instigation of Captain Abiel Lovejoy directed their rage at several English loyalists including Parson Bailey because the British sympathizers opposed the colonies.

In Sept. 1775 Benedict Arnold's army passed up the Kennebec River on its perilous and ill-fated expedition to Canada. Many Lovejoys are familiar with the tradition that, when Arnold's soldiers were at Pownalborough, Captain Abiel Lovejoy exchanged sums of "hard money" with a great number of them for the Continental paper money which would be of no value as currency when the soldiers reached Canada. He also changed a large sum of money for Colonel Arnold and other officers and was induced to accommodate these soldiers "first, because his patriotism was at flood tide at this period and, secondly, by the fact that the paper money was variously discounted to him." Two years later it required $30 in these Continental paper money bills to equal one in "hard money" specie. It is, of course, an historical fact that the provincial government was not able to redeem this currency and the possessors were the losers. Captain Abiel Lovejoy lost some $30,000 this way and afterwards papered a room in the Lovejoy homestead with this "worthless money."

The Compiler finds ample other evidence to refute the allegations that Captain Abiel Lovejoy was "inimical." On New Year's Day, 1776, Parson Bailey wrote that men and boys at Pownalborough erected a liberty pole to express their defiance to the King and affront the parson and that Captain Lovejoy tried to insist that Parson Bailey, the British sympathizer, be forced to consecrate the pole by prayer.

The librarian of the Massachusetts State Library, Edward H. Redstone, has supplied to the Compiler a full set of photostat copies of pertinent manuscript pages which have never been printed. They are the folio manuscripts of the journals of the House of Representatives of Massachusetts in 1781-1782, which are filed only in the State House in Boston. These journals give the complete record of the antagonism to Captain Abiel Lovejoy on the part of a small minority of the residents of Vassalboro.

Captain Abiel had been elected year after year to the Great and General Court of the State of Massachusetts Bay but in 1781-1782 these elections were contested by some of his townsmen. The manuscript file of elected members of the Great and General Court, later called the House of Representatives, shows that he was elected for the Sessions of 1781 and 1782 although, according to Librarian Redstone, the fact that these two elections were contested is probably the reason Abiel Lovejoy's name does not appear in the early volumes of "Acts and Resolves of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 178- to date," which are in printed form in a limited number of sets and available at the Massachusetts State House, at the Columbia University Library and probably in some other large libraries. Captain Abiel's election for one of the previous years, 1779, is shown on the precept signed by John Hancock, which is reproduced in this Genealogy. Records of other earlier elections are not available because Librarian Redstone advises the Compiler that the legislative lists for 1777 and 1779 are not contained in the manuscript copy of the "Acts and Resolves of the Province of Massachusetts Bay, 1692-1780."

The Compiler, because of the prominence of Captain Abiel Lovejoy, herewith publishes in full the references to the contested elections. A printed account of the contests is found on pages 4 and 5 of "Reports of Contested Elections in the House of Representatives, 1780-1834, by L. S. Cushing, 1834," which is in small octavo size. Page four reads as follows:

(Probably 1781–1782)

VASSALBOROUGH

Character and Conduct of Member

The election of Abiel Lovejoy, returned a member from the town of Vassalborough, was contested by sundry inhabitants of that town, on the ground that illegal votes were received, and also, that said Lovejoy "was not friendly to the cause of America."

The memorial was accompanied by depositions, tending to prove the facts therein alleged, and, having been read, a time was assigned for hearing the petitioners.

The parties were accordingly admitted upon the floor, and, after hearing them and their witnesses, and the defense of Mr. Lovejoy, it was Voted, that the election of Abiel Lovejoy is not proved to be illegal; and, that the further consideration of the charges against his character, as a person inimical to the government, and the prayer of the petitioners, that he may be excluded from a seat, on that account, be referred to the next session, and that Mr. Lovejoy have leave of absence until that time, to prepare for the trial thereof.

Previous to the next session, it appears, that Lovejoy, instead of preparing for the trial of his case, "settled" the affair, with the principal petitioners, by agreeing that "he would not attempt to sit in the honorable House again;" and, the parties not appearing at that time, no further proceedings took place.

VASSALBOROUGH

Member charged with being "inimical to the Government,"—suspended from his seat.

Abiel Lovejoy being returned a member from the town of Vassalborough, and having been qualified and taken his seat, a petition was received from Denis Getchell, praying that Lovejoy might be excluded from the House, on the ground that he was inimical to the government.

The petition was referred to a committee, who made a verbal statement of facts, whereupon, the Secretary of the Commonwealth was directed to lay before the House, the records of the council and certain papers on file, relating to Lovejoy's character and conduct. One of the members was also called upon, and related a conversation, which had passed between him and Lovejoy, relative to public affairs. The committee were then directed to prepare and report an order, for the hearing of the matter at the next session, which having been attended to by them, it was Ordered, That the said Abiel Lovejoy withdraw from the House; that the said Getchell bring forward his evidence against him, on the second Wednesday of the next session; that said Lovejoy have leave, in like manner, to produce evidence in his favor; and, that said Lovejoy and Getchell be served with a copy of the order.

Lovejoy afterwards petitioned, that his case might be examined and tried by a committee near the place of the residence of the parties concerned, but his request was refused. It does not appear that the subject was brought forward at the next session.

The Compiler obtained from Librarian Redstone photostat copies of the manuscript journal pages in the Massachusetts Archives which the footnotes on pages 4 and 5 of Cushing's Reports refer to. The pertinent reference paragraphs on these handwritten journals are as follows:

(Probably 1781–1782)

Vol. 2, p. 379 and 380:

Vol. 2, p. 389:

Vol. 2, p. 391 and 392:

Vol. 3, p. 251:

Vol. 3, p. 288, 289 and 290:
The Committee on the Petition of Denis Getchell reported verbally that it was opinion that Colo. McCobb should be called upon to relate such conversation as had passed between him & Abiel Lovejoy, Esquire, relative to public affairs which that Gentleman was directed to do in the afternoon.

Then the House adjourned to 3 oClk P.M.

AFTERNOON

Met according to adjournment.

Colo. McCobb related to the House the conversation which had passed between him & Abiel Lovejoy, Esquire, according to the order of the House. Whereupon it was Ordered that the Committee on the Petition last mentioned prepare an Order for assigning a time in the next Session for hearing the said Denis Getchell in support of his Petition and for giving leave of absence to the sd. Lovejoy till that time in order to prepare himself for his defense.

The Committee on the Petition of Denis Getchell reported the following Order agreeable to the direction of the House viz. In the House of Representatives Octo. 21st 1782 Whereas by a Memorial presented the 13 inst. by Denis Getchell of Vassalborough in the County of Lincoln it is represented that Abiel Lovejoy, Esquire, the Representative from said Town who has now a Seat in this House, is supposed to be inimical to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts & the United States; And that said Getchell can obtain full evidence to said purpose, so that his seat ought to be vacated. Therefore it is now Ordered that sd. Abiel Lovejoy, Esquire, withdraw from the House of Representatives And said Getchell is directed to bring forward his evidence against said Lovejoy in support of his Memorial aforesaid on the second Wednesday of the next Sitting of the Genl. Court, And the sd. Lovejoy has leave in like manner to produce evidence to invalidate said Representation and it is further Ordered that sd. Lovejoy and Getchell be served with a copy of this Order.

It will be noted that Captain Abiel Lovejoy was clearly and plainly elected and seated each of these years. The allegations were evidently not regarded in the House as of any great importance and they probably emanated from some business competitors or rival land owners. Moreover, the war had been in progress for more than six years, since 1775, and Captain Abiel, although an ex-soldier, might only have been expressing his hopes for an early peace instead of being outright "inimical."

During 1776 Captain Abiel and Mary moved to Vassalborough, settling on the west side of the river on the farm which, when it passed out of Lovejoy hands some decades later, became owned by the Sherman family. They made this move from Pownalborough up the river to Vassalborough by packing their goods, etc. on flat boats and scows which were towed by row boats. One boat, on which was packed all the Lovejoy "best furniture," was left for the night tied up to the bank but a severe storm of wind and rain before morning sank the boat and the furniture and valuable brocades were irreparably damaged. Captain Abiel sold out all his Pownalborough property to his father-in-law but proceeded to buy new tracts in Vassalborough. In 1781 he was appointed Justice of the Peace for the first time and solemnized a number of marriages thereafter. Henceforth he became known as Esquire or Squire. He assisted in building another saw mill at Vassalborough on the east side of the river and owned about 800 acres of land on both sides. The housekeeper-companion, Elizabeth Millner, died in 1784, leaving her possessions for the most part to Captain Abiel and making him sole heir and executor. To Abiel's childreen she bequeathed 13 £, to Nathaniel Lovejoy, 40 £ for Stephen Lovejoy's education; and to Sarah Lovejoy, she gave "my Green Damask Gown and Petticoat and red quilted Petticoat and one pair of staves. . . ."

Captain Abiel erected a stone over her resting place on the farm that stood for many years. Passers-by probably shuddered at the portent of the inscription which was:

"Stop here my friend, as you pass by
As you are, so was I;
As I am now, so you must be,
Prepare for death and follow me."

That part of Vassalborough on the west side of the Kennebec was incorporated as Sidney in 1792 including his home farm, the saw mill and much of his timber land.

He was always described as a man of strong will with much determination and decision of character except that he used liberally intoxicating liquors as was the custom of the times in which he lived. Once he consulted physicians in Boston about his failing eyesight which rendered him blind about 1796 or 97 and he was admonished by them to abstain from anything more than a "very moderate use" of stimulants. It is related that not long afterward Captain Abiel poured out a glass of brandy one memorable day and holding it out at arm's length and looking at it said "Good-bye, eyes" and drank it all.

On January 20, 1803 his sons, Nathaniel, Abiel, Thomas, Stephen, Jacob, William and his eldest daughter, Fanny Smiley, petitioned the judge of probate for Kennebec County (formed from a part of Lincoln County in 1795) to appoint a guardian for their father, giving as a reason for their request that "he was distracted in his mind or non-compose and incapable of taking care of himself or his property." The selectmen were ordered to examine into his mental condition and, following their report, the judge appointed Abiel's son-in-law, Samuel Dinsmore, as his guardian. In July, 1806, the guardian petitioned the judge to be relieved from the guardianship as he said "Mr. Lovejoy was restored to his reason and capable of taking care of his property." The selectmen of Sidney were of the same opinion and the guardianship was removed.

In Aug. 1806 Captain Abiel deeded shares in two of his saw mills and 100 acres to his sons, Stephen and William, who were to care for Captain Abiel and his wife, Mary, alternatively, which arrangement continued as long as the parents lived. In 1808 Abiel and Mary deeded Lot #40 in Sidney to their son, Francis.

The wife, Mary, is described as "always pleasant and agreeable, apparently in good health very erect in figure with gentle, lady-like manners." A number of descendants probably have photographic copies of portraits of Captain Abiel and Mary which are said to have hung in the State House at Boston for some years and later were taken by a descendant to either New York or New Orleans where they were lost track of or according to one report, lost in a fire. F. T. F. Lovejoy (4212) wrote, July 29, 1905, that Anna Chase (Deppen), a descendant of Abiel, had offered him a chance to buy the original portraits. She was probably a descendant of Fanny (551). The Compiler reproduces photographs of these paintings elsewhere in this Genealogy.

The exact date of Captain Abiel's death is not definitely known but probably was 1811. It is thus described:— "One hot day in July he would sit out in the little entry where the wind blew on him and it was thought he might have taken a sudden cold the next day. All at once he was discovered to be breathing very hard. Some one went immediately to him but he was not conscious and was dead in a short time." Pneumonia? Heart Trouble? Paralysis? He died on July 4th. Mary was stricken with paralysis the following December, it is said, and died Jan. 19, 1812.

Captain Abiel and Mary were buried on a plot on their farm in Sidney on the slope down to the Kennebec River, common field stones first being placed to mark the spot. An infant child, b. and d. 1784, was bur. there and also their negro slaves, Boston and Venus, who d. before them and Salem who d. later. As similar stones marked the burial place of the negroes, it is impossible to know which are the graves of the master and mistress and which are the graves of their servants.

Among the voluminous references to Captain Abiel are manuscripts and reports in the Massachusetts State House and also Williamson's History of Maine, Sewall's Ancient Dom. of Maine, Bartlett's Frontier Missionaries, Varney's Gazeteer of Maine, etc. etc.

Other items of interest about Captain Abiel show that at the time of the Pownalborough census, June 19, 1766, he owned a two-story house with 152 squares of glass, one chimney, three rooms with fire places, supported seven persons under sixteen years, and ten persons above sixteen years and he owned one other house one story high with 44 squares of glass and two fireplaces. He went to Pownalborough about 1761 in which year he was, in May, by his majesty's court of General Session for the County of Lincoln, admitted an inn holder and licensed to sell tea and coffee.

The Vassalborough town records there show that Captain Abiel was on the Committee of Safety and Correspondence in 1776; a highway surveyor in 1776 and again in 1777; a grand juryman; in 1779 on a committee to settle with the women on account of supplies ordered to the soldiers' families by the General Court; in 1780 moderator of town meetings; in 1781 town treasurer; in 1779-80 a selectman; in July 1779 a delegate to the Convention at Concord; in 1781 a delegate to the county convention at Wiscasset; in 1782 town collector, and surveyor of lumber; in 1787 a member of a commission to inspect fish in the river; in 1789 and 1790 a selectman, in 1790 member of committee to divide the town into districts. After Sidney was set off from Vassalborough in 1792, Captain Abiel on May 7, 1792 was on a committee to settle with Vassalborough regarding the township of Sidney; in 1794 field driver, member of fish committee and collecting agent, also on committee to build a pound; in 1798 member of school committee for second district, also member of fish committee; in Sept. 1777 he signed a petition to the Honorable Council and House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts to abate the taxes of the inhabitants of Vassalborough. In 1777 he was one of three petitioners to the Massachusetts Government to extend the postal service to Thomaston and he was one of a committee of three authorized to agree with some suitable person to arrange for the postal service. The records of the Court of Common Pleas show he was plaintiff in a number of suits brought against men who owed him for goods from his Pownalborough store.

At the time of his guardianship in 1803 his "inventory and appraisement" showed the following:

A clipping from an old Sidney newspaper, supplied by Mrs. Conant, relates the story familiar to all members of the Captain Abiel Lovejoy clan which is as follows: though the practice of keeping slaves was not generally prevalent in the early development of the Kennebec Valley, at least one settler, Abiel Lovejoy, owned a number of negroes and it is told that when he received word that Massachusetts had passed an act freeing the slaves he called two of the oldest, Salem and Venus, and offered them their liberty. They refused to leave and Salem's answer to the Squire was "You've had all de meat, now pick de bones."

Another old story familiar to Maine Lovejoys runs like this: one dark night as Captain Abiel was piloting his lumber boat down the river on the way to Boston the devil appeared on the water and demanded Captain Abiel's soul in payment for his sins. The crew was terrified but Abiel took off the round garters which held up his long stockings and tossed them to Satan saying "that is all you are going to get. Now be off with you."

Still another story is that Captain Abiel once went into the fields where his slaves and employees were cutting hay and carried a jug of liquor which was thought in those days to be quite indispensable. Criticizing the work, he demanded "Who mowed this swath?" Anxious to escape any censure some employees replied, "Boston," meaning the old negro slave. Captain Abiel demanded who mowed this and that and each reply was "Boston." "Very well," old Abiel said, "as Boston has done all the work, he shall have all the grog."

Another Lovejoy slave once was attacked by wolves while driving a yoke of oxen and a load of hay. When they found the dead man, they also found the carcasses of seven wolves killed by his pitchfork showing how desperately the poor slave had fought for his life.

Dr. C. Perley Gray of New York City has a number of Captain Abiel Lovejoy mementoes, including the cockade of his son, Colonel Stephen Lovejoy (259), and a receipt signed by Abiel for 10 £ 3 s. 3 d., dated June 8, 1785 at Vassalborough, from Matthew Hastings, administrator of John Rogers' estate. The Hastings family was long neighbors of the Lovejoys. Even as late as 1920 the aged Simon Hastings of Sidney had many recollections of Abiel's sons. During recent months several descendants of Abiel have visited the old farm on the Kennebec and stones from the foundation of Captain Abiel's home are still to be seen. Dr. Gray also possesses an agreement to build a school in Vassalborough which is signed by Captain Abiel and by Abiel Lovejoy, jr. (252). (cf. illustration.)

A number of Captain Abiel's descendants have joined patriotic societies based on his Revolutionary service.

Dec. 26, 1693, d. July 13, 1772 (?). Acc. to page 273, vol. 7, D. A. R. Lineage Book, Francis signed The Association Test in Amherst, N. H., was in Colonel Baldwin's Regiment at the Battle of White Plains, N. Y. and on Mar. 5, 1781 again enlisted to fill a quota at Amherst of three-year men. From another source it is learned that Francis Lovejoy enlisted in Sept. 1776 in Captain Philip Putnam's Company in Colonel Nathan Baldwin's Regiment. Francis moved first to Amherst, N. H. about the time of his marriage and then about 1790 moved to Albion, Lincoln County later part of Kennebec County, Me. where he trapped, fished on a lake and cleared a farm in what was little more than a wilderness. The settlement grew slowly but in 1802 the General Court approved the application that the place be organized as a plantation and named Freetown Plantation. In 1804 it was incorporated as a town called Fairfax. Later its name was changed to Lygonia and in 1824 it achieved its present name of Albion. Francis Lovejoy located near a large pond which still bears his name, Lovejoy Pond, about fifteen miles from Captain Abiel Lovejoy's farm on the Kennebec where Francis left his family for several weeks while he cleared a wilderness. This is prob. the Francis Lovejoy who is listed in vol. 96, p. 454 of Mass. Colonial Soldiers as serving in the Canada Expedition in 1759 and in the Andover "train band" in 1757.

(108) has been confused by many previous investigators because of the long repeated but erroneous statement that he was b. "about 1725," but the Compiler believes he has adequately straightened out the tangle, and, with some correction of dates, has borrowed data from Stearns' History of the Town of Rindge, N. H.

John Lovejoy moved early in life from Andover to Lunenburg where he married. He moved to Rindge in 1762, being chosen there proprietor's clerk, which office he held until the town was incorporated in 1768. In 1767 he was chosen one of the two first deacons of the Rindge Church and was always held in high esteem by his townsmen and was prominent in municipal affairs. He settled on a farm later owned by Addison Todd, and with his son, John, (287), signed on Apr. 12, 1766 a paper, the original of which is now in the office of the Secretary of State of Concord declaring, "We do hereby solemnly engage and promise that we will to the utmost of our power at the risque of our lives and fortunes, with arms oppose the Hostile proceedings of the British Fleets and Armies against the United American Colonies." One hundred and forty-eight signed this "declaration to the Selectmen of Rindge, Colony of New Hampshire, in Committee of Safety, Apr. 12, 1776." John made guns, farming tools and furniture and, acc. to Bertram E. Lovejoy, he wanted to go into service during the Revolution but by vote of the town was compelled to stay home to make and repair guns.

Deacon John Lovejoy was devoutly religious and always intently concerned about "laying out the gospill." In 1763 he was head of a committee to carry "calls" to nearby ministers and on July 13, 1763 it was voted at Rindge to give "John Lovejoy ten pounds Massachusetts old tenor for going to Penicook (now Concord) for to carry there call to Mr. Walker." Incidentally, Mr. Walker did not accept but another minister did and the church was formed in 1765 with John Lovejoy and Josiah Ingalls elected the first deacons.

After his death a new meeting house was built and it was agreed to put it north of the spot where the graves were located around the previous church "without interrupting" these graves. Stearns' History says, "Deacon John Lovejoy, an early settler, an influential man and for many years a deacon of the church had been buried only for a few months. His new made grave fell within the boundaries marked out for the location; yet, in disobedince of the town's vote, the meeting house covered his remains, a proud monument to the memory of one who gave the years of his life to the cause of Him for whose worship the house was reared."

Jonathan was one of fifty-four men who volunteered Apr. 20, 1775 after hearing of the battles of Lexington and Concord, and was hastened to Cambridge, arriving Apr. 21. He returned home after four days and was paid six shillings and sixpence for service under Captain Nathan Hale. He re-enlisted May 20 in Captain Thomas' company in Col. Similar difficulty was encountered by the Compiler in tracing Joseph Lovejoy (113) as was the case with John Lovejoy (108). But prob. Joseph m. July 9, 1761 Patience Bradford and lived in Amherst, N. H. Patience was b. Souhegan West about 1740, d. Amherst Mar. 3, 1826, dau. William and Mary (Lambert) Bradford. This may be the Joseph Lovejoy recorded in Mass. Colonial Soldiers as serving in 1757 in the Andover "train band." A Joseph Lovejoy (1734-1814) is used as the qualifying ancestor for the Society of Colonial Wars by Frederick A. Haskell and Henry P. Stewart and he is reported to have served at Crown Point in 1758 in Col. John Hart's regiment. Also, a Joseph Lovejoy served at Lexington 1½ days in Capt. Henry Abbot's company.

Andover Nov. 19, 1788, dau. of Benjamin and Elizabeth (——) Brandon. General Nathaniel m. (3) Dec. 1, 1803 Samatine (or Benjamina) Woodbridge, prob. of a Salem family which was formerly of Newbury and which prob. descended from Rev. John Woodbridge, and related also to Governor Thomas Dudley.

General Nathaniel Lovejoy was one of Andover's leading citizens and military figures and was one of the thirty-four Andover men who, before Phillips Academy was established in 1778, had received a college education, having been graduated from Harvard University in 1766. He got his A.B. in 1766, and his A.M. 1770. He was one of the first business men who received a college education, previous graduates usually entering the ministry. His father had been an ensign and prob. the Andover schoolmaster. General Nathaniel Lovejoy prob. read law and he served as a magistrate besides being a trader, acc. to Miss Bailey. He was a brigadier-general of the Mass. militia at the time of his death but during the Revolution he ranked as a captain although did not see active service. Miss Charlotte L. Abbott, the Andover genealogist and historian, explains this by saying that General Nathaniel was a trainer of troops and a financial manager in the early days of the Revolution. He prob. superintended the erection of earthworks described as at Dorchester Heights before the evacuation of Boston and she thinks his home affairs, including sorrow over the death of several children decided him to give up active service although he retained the title of captain until the war was over, then dropping it for plain "esquire" or "mister." Originally he was a captain of militia in 1775 when Lieut. John Adams led his (Lovejoy's) company to Lexington. Nathaniel was commissioned captain again Mar. 26, 1776 in the 9th company of Colonel Johnson's 4th Essex regiment. It was ordered in council Apr. 3, 1776 that he be one of the officers commended. Miss Abbott also explains that Samuel Osgood, the first postmaster general, was patriotic but constitutionally adverse to bloodshed and resigned as an officer on General Ward's staff to serve as a civilian, committeeman and legislator. She thinks Osgood's wife, Martha Brandon, grand-daughter of Madame Foxcroft of Cambridge whose dau. m. Samuel Phillips' only son, Judge Phillips, the lieutenant governor, was a relative, perhaps sister, of General Nathaniel Lovejoy's second wife. Nathaniel prob. m. his second wife, Elizabeth Brandon, soon after the death of his first wife, on Apr. 26, 1775, possibly within a month, so as to provide a mother for his third child, Nathaniel. Miss Abbott thought Nathaniel met his second wife while on military service in Cambridge or at the headquarters of the American army. The naming of a dau. by his second wife, as Elizabeth Foster, shows his love for his first wife. A forceful letter complaining about the severity of militia service in Rhode Island and elsewhere in 1777 was written by Nathaniel and is in vol. CL. XXV Mass. Archives.

353. LYDIA⁵ b. 1788.
354. MARTHA⁵ b. 1791.
355. LUCY⁵ b. 1792.
356. BETSY⁵ b. 1794.
357. DIADEMIA⁵ b. 1797.

150. JEREMIAH⁴ son of Ebenezer (46), b. Andover Mar. 15, 1738/9 (Joseph Lovejoy of Cambridge gives it as Sept. 21, 1739); d. Andover Oct. 1, 1806; m. Andover Dec. 11, 1760 Dorothy Ballard, b. Andover June 24, 1741, d. Andover Oct. 19, 1813, dau. of Josiah and Mary (Chandler) Ballard. Jeremiah's grave in the West Cemetery, Andover, was marked by a Revolutionary War insignia when visited by the Compiler in November, 1929. Jeremiah was a private in Captain Joshua Holt's fourth Andover company which marched to Cambridge on the alarm of Apr. 19, 1775 and had one and one half days' service acc. to Mass. Soldiers and Sailors in War of the Revolution. Later, in 1778, he evidently served six months on the fortifications of Boston, acc. to vol. 12, p. 136 of Mass. Revolutionary Archives. He was described as "18 yrs. (?), 5 ft. 6 in. ruddy complexion." This age of 18 indicates possible confusion with #359.

Jeremiah Lovejoy was a farmer. He and his sister, Rebecca, were the only remaining chdn. of his father. When the call came to serve in the French and Indian War Jeremiah's father kept him home to do the work and sent a substitute, paying the substitute eight pounds. The receipt for this payment is a very valuable document now in the hands of S. Arthur Lovejoy, (2502), the present head of the Lovejoy family in Andover. Doubtless the Lovejoy line of Andover would have been swept away but for this prudent affection of the father. Miss Abbott, the Andover genealogist, once wrote: "The Lovejoys were no cowards and I have no doubt Jeremiah rebelled and old Ebenezer had a heartache, but he had buried all those chdn. in the epidemic (diphtheria) and he was wise." Jeremiah may have had a brief service nevertheless because he is recorded in vol. 95, p. 504 of Mass. Colonial Soldiers as serving 10 days in 1756 at Crown Point and Canada Expedition and also on the "train band" at Andover in 1757.

An abridgment of the will of Jeremiah Lovejoy (150) in Vol. 374, p. 392, Essex County Court records, shows that he gave his wife, Dorothy, "west end of house, front door and entry, barn and one third of land, not to cut timber save for fence or fuel." The son, John, received twenty-five acres of land and one half a wood lot. The son, Ebenezer, received the rest of the land and was bidden to provide the usual horse and attendant for his mother, and the other chdn.

received various parts of the furniture and twenty dollars in money each.

+373. BENJAMIN[6] b. and d. Canaan.
374. ANNA[6] m. Martin Benjamin and had five chdn. by him; Daniel Lovejoy Benjamin, Ruth, Almira, Sophia and Lucretia.
375. PRUDENCE[6] m. at age of 13 Daniel Burges; reported to have had two sons.
376. SARAH[6]
377. DANIEL[6] (?) This child not mentioned in the father's will but Stiles' Ancient Windsor says this son was killed in the Revolution by an Indian. From another source a Daniel who d. y. is mentioned.

378. ELEAZER^6 (?) This child similarly is not mentioned in the father's will but a wife of an Eleazer Lovejoy d. Mar. 25, 1867, ae. 92 and was bur. in New Concord, N. Y. cemetery. Assuming that her husband was the same age, it would put such an Eleazer Lovejoy in the same period as the chdn. of this family.

158. WILLIAM^{5} son of Richard (52), b. Plainfield, Conn. prob. 1736; d. Royalton, Vt. Aug. 29, 1832. There is confusion of records and contradictory reports about this family as for example, the birth and death of this child which would indicate he was 96 years old. The Compiler wonders, as he suggested in the case of John Lovejoy (159), if perhaps William was a grandson of Richard (52). William Lovejoy m. (1) Betsy Boyd; m. (2) Elinor Havens b. Killingly, Conn. 1744, prob. d. Royalton Nov. 24, 1832, dau. Robert and Hannah (Welch) Havens. Elinor and William Lovejoy are bur. in the Sharon, Vt. Broad Brook Cemetery. William and his father (?), Richard, were original grantees of Sharon and moved there from Conn. bet. 1771 and 1776, along with William's son, Daniel. William served in the Revolutionary War. Acc. to the History of Royalton his generous character is demonstrated by the fact that, although the eldest son and by law entitled to all his father's lands, he quit claim a part of them "out of love and good will" to John Lovejoy, prob. his brother.

159. JOHN^{5} son (?) of Richard (52), b., acc. to Wm. J. Lovejoy of Fulton, N. Y., May 7, 1760 but the Compiler suggests that John may be a grandson and not a son of Richard (52) because of the wide gap bet. 1760 and the birth in 1736 of the older brother, William (158). Evidence of this seems indicated in a letter, Jan. 25, 1929, to Wm. J. Lovejoy from Rawson C. Myrick, secretary of state of Vermont, that in "Record of death of John Lovejoy of Sharon, his father is given as John," (not Richard). John d. Sharon, Vt., acc. to tombstone record, Oct. 7, 1830; m. Coventry, Conn. Jan 27, 1778 or 1784 Anna L. Day (or Anna Ladd), b. Nov. 17, 1762, d. Perrinton, N. Y. July 11, 1851. W. J. Lovejoy has deed of old farm in Sharon which indicates John had brother or uncle named Nehemiah Lovejoy and also other brothers. The Compiler accordingly, numbers Nehemiah as 159A and inserts him after this family. The town clerk once wrote W. J. Lovejoy that John Lovejoy of Sharon and Anna Ladd of Coventry were m. by Ephraim West, justice of the peace, and suggested this may have been a previous marriage in Conn.

John Lovejoy fought in the Revolution, was at Valley Forge and, acc. to W. L. Lovejoy, had some of his toes frozen. A Revolutionary pension claim made by the widow in 1848 was rejected by the government because no proof of service was furnished. The widow said John Lovejoy had served nine months early in the Revolution and then three other terms of one year each and that she had heard him mention as serving under Colonels Tyler, Sherman and Sheldon. This may be the John Lovejoy who served from Jan. to March, 1781, as a private in either Capt. Leonard Bleecker's or Capt. James Gregg's company of Col. Goose Van Schaik's 1st N. Y. regiment. One is reported in the Mass. Revolutionary Archives.

159A. NEHEMIAH^5, son (?) of Richard (52) or uncle of John (159). Acc. to notes of Mrs. E. M. Lovejoy, writer of History of Royalton, Vt. Nehemiah Lovejoy's estate is listed in Sharon, Vt. in 1836. His wife, Thankful Hunter, dau. of Wm. Hunter, was b. 1759, d. Sharon Oct. 18, 1806. Nehemiah was in Sharon in 1776, but not married then.

162. ABIEL^5, son of Henry (64), b. Andover July 25, 1737; d. Conway, N. H. May 27, 1817. This has been one of the hardest branches for the Compiler to straighten out, despite the prominence of Abiel Lovejoy in Conway. Until just before going to press with this Genealogy, the Compiler was forced, however reluctantly, to believe records of several descendants that children were being born to Abiel and his wife even after he was seventy-five years of age. The Compiler suspected this list of children was probably his grandchildren but he could not prove this suspicion until he encountered unexpectedly a letter from the late Ezra S. Stearns, formerly of Fitchburg, Mass., a noted early genealogist and editor. Stearns' letter solved the mystery and divulged the entire missing generation of Abiel's children.

Abiel Lovejoy m. Anna Stickney, b. Concord, N. H. Sept. 3, 1741 and the dau. of Jeremiah and Elizabeth (Carleton) Stickney of Concord and prob. of the family of Colonel Tom Stickney also of Concord. Abiel settled in Conway perhaps about 1771 where his father, Henry, had had a grant of land. Abiel was prominent in Conway. He served as Selectman in 1768, 1773, 1774 and 1778, acc. to Mr. Stearns, and was a deacon in the church and one of the foundation members of the Congregational church on Oct. 28, 1778. Acc. to DRL, Anna Stickney may have been his second wife for DRL suggests Abiel m. (1) .... Holt and prob. m. (3) at Lancaster, N. H. Betsy White, b. Lancaster July 23, 1777; d. Lancaster Feb. 1836, dau.

of Nathaniel and Betsy (Martin) White. A number of Abiel's descendants have joined the D. A. R. in right of his service in the Revolution and it is probable that this Abiel was the Abiel Lovejoy recorded as follows in Mass. Revolutionary Archives: Vol. 13, p. 42, as serving seven days in 1775 from Andover in the Lexington Alarm; and Vol. 19, p. 1221, for two months' service as a corporal in 1778 under Captain Gage of Colonel Gerrish's Regt. Conceivably this record might be of Abiel (215) or Abiel (281) but the Compiler is inclined to associate it with Abiel (162). Included among those who have joined the D. A. R. in right of Abiel (162) or of Henry (64) are the following: Vol. 22, p. 32 of D. A. R. Lineage Book, Elizabeth (Abbot) Hilton; Vol. 15, p. 78 Katharine S. Osgood; Vol. 63, p. 98, Mrs. Mary A. (Ricker) Kinney; Vol. 67, p. 271, Anna Charlotte Ricker; Vol. 15, p. 77, Mary Elizabeth Eastman; Carrie C. Grover. It is reported also that D. A. R. numbers 13533 and 14207 claim descent from Abiel. The D. A. R. Lineage Book records the fact that Abiel was a member of the Committee on Safety and Correspondence in Conway in 1775 and a signer of the Association Test, in which case it is possible, of course, that the actual military service referred to above may be that of another Abiel.

Children (those b. before 1777 prob. in Conway, later in Lancaster.)

+387. ABIEL^6

+388. WILLIAM^6 b. Mar. 10, 1771; d. 1830.

+389. JEREMIAH^6

390. BETSY^6 b. 1777; d. 1859; m. 1800 William Randall, b. 1772; d. 1822. This marriage of Betsy is confirmed by several D. A. R. lineage records but Mr. Stearns also thought Betsy m. a Thomas Abbot. Betsy and William Randall had chdn: Eliza Randall, b. 1812 and perhaps others.

391. PHEBE^6 m. Deacon Jonathan Eastman, b. July 18, 1770, brother of wife of (387) and grandson of Mary Lovejoy (67). There is a conflicting report about Phebe (391). Although Mr. Stearns' letter recorded her as a dau. of Abiel, Mary Elizabeth Eastman's lineage in the D. A. R. recorded Phebe as a dau. of Jeremiah Lovejoy (389).

392. NANCY^6 There is similar confusion here, Mr. Stearns' letter indicating that Nancy m. both a Nathaniel S. Abbot and a William Eastman and that she lived in Jackson, N. H. This, too, may be another case of a confusion between a Nancy Lovejoy, dau. of Abiel (162), and another Nancy, dau. of Jeremiah (389).

Possibly Abiel had other than these above six children. Nos. 393 to 397, inclusive, not used in revising this family line.

164. CHANDLER^{5} son of Henry (64), b. Andover Jan. 23, 1742; d. Concord, N. H. Nov. 30, 1827; m. (1) Concord to Miriam Virgin, b. May 23, 1744, d. Concord 1807, dau. Ebenezer and Hannah (——) Virgin. Chandler m. (2) Sept. 28, 1813 Azubah Graham who outlived him and d. Concord July 29, 1829, ae 91. Azubah was dau. of Asa and Sarah (West) Graham of Concord. Chandler signed the Association Test in 1776 with his father. Chandler Lovejoy was in Captain Joshua Abbott's company that "marched from Concord to reinforce the Northern Army in September, 1777 at Saratoga," acc. to page 406, Vol. XV, N. H. State Papers. In 1797 he belonged to the company of "Minute Men of Concord," organized on account of a threatened war with France. As a venerable old man, Chandler Lovejoy, acc. to Bouton's History, sat in the "Old Men's Seat" in the old meeting house.

This seat was at the base of the pulpit and the men wore white linen caps in Summer and red woolen or flannel ones in Winter.

Apr. 29, 1853, son of Quartermaster John Thorne, who enrolled Sept. 30, 1762 in Captain Marston's Exeter Company for the Crown Point expedition, acc. to page 24, Vol. 1, N. H. Rev. Rolls. Phineas Thorne was regarded as a noted schoolmaster and is said to have taught Daniel Webster at Salisbury, N. H. Miriam and Phineas had five chdn: Sarah Thorne b. 1797, (m. Henry Lovejoy, 854); Chandler b. 1800; Harriet b. 1801; Myra (Miriam) b. 1807 and Calvin b. 1811. One of the descendants of Harriet Thorne is Mrs. Annie Givin Jackson, now of Pittsburgh, Pa. who in 1917 wrote a 28-page illustrated record of her line traced back to John Lovejoy.

185. Lieut. OBADIAH⁵, son of Caleb (66), b. about 1756; m. Tryphena Waugh, b. about 1761. Obadiah was prob. a drummer at the Battle of Bunker Hill in the same company as Joshua (68). There is some confusion with Obadiah (115) and Obadiah (218).

But it is prob. this Obadiah (185) who is recorded in Mass. Revolutionary Archives as serving from Andover as a private in Captain Farnum's Company of Colonel Francis' Regt. at Lexington in 1775; also as a sergeant at West Point from Feb. 19, 1777; as an Ensign from Mar. 28, 1779; also serving as a Second Lieutenant from Mar. 18,1780 and as a First Lieutenant from July 13, 1780 prob. in the Continental Army at Bennington. He is recorded in Heitman's Register. His pension claim was allowed in 1818 when he was residing Williamstown, N. Y. His pension record showed he enlisted for three years in 1777 as a private in Captain Abbot's Company of Colonel Benjamin Tupper's Mass. Regt. and also that he was a lieutenant in Col. Tupper's Regt. from July 13, 1780 to the end of 1783. He reported he had been engaged in the Battle of Monmouth. Obadiah prob. lived in Litchfield, Conn. and later settled in Williamstown, Oswego Co., N. Y.

188. Lieut. JOSHUA^{5} son of Joshua (68), b. Andover Jan. 8, 1743/4; d. Sanbornton, N. H. Jan. 28, 1832; m. Andover Apr. 30, 1769 Sarah Perkins of Middletown, b. 1744; d. Sanbornton May 3, 1828. Joshua was known also as "Esquire" and had an eventful and influential life. He lived in Andover as late as 1778 but then moved to Amherst, N. H. and later to Sanbornton. It was said of him (but in error) acc. to Runnell's History of Sanbornton that he was of Scotch extraction and was descended from a "sister of Lord Sterling, one of the early governors of Virginia." When only sixteen or seventeen years old Joshua was a soldier serving near the close of the old French War, and he is recorded in vol. 98, p. 241 of Mass. Colonial Soldiers as serving 37 weeks, 3 days in 1761. Later he served as a sergeant in the Continental Army in Captain Benjamin Ames' Company of Colonel James Frey's Regiment of Mass. Militia. He is said to have been an officer standing close by General Warren when the latter fell on Bunker Hill and Joshua named one of his sons Warren. This Joshua, however, may have been his father, #68. Acc. to Heitman's Historical Register of Officers of the Continental Army, Joshua Lovejoy of New Hampshire was Second Lieutenant of the Eighth Continental Infantry Jan. 1, 1776. Descendants, including Miss Mary Lovejoy of Topeka, Kansas, joined the D. A. R. in right of Lieut. Joshua. He was a First Lieutenant in Capt. Samuel King's company of Col. Josiah Whitney's regiment when he was commended by an order in council Sept. 7, 1776.

Joshua had been a deacon in the Congregational Church at Amherst and transferred officially to the Sanbornton Church Oct. 9, 1808 although he prob. moved to Sanbornton in 1794. He settled west of Sanbornton Square, later occupied by Noah Eastman, Esq. Lieut. Joshua Lovejoy on Sept. 21, 1814 was one of 72 leading men of Sanbornton who signed a petition for a "military association." He served as town clerk in 1811, treasurer, 1810, school treasurer, 1810 and on several town committees.

Sept. 26, 1826, dau. of Joseph and Anna (Peabody) Abbott. Samuel was known as Major Lovejoy of Wilton because of a militia rank he held about the time he was selectman. During the Revolution he served in Captain Benjamin Taylor's Company at Winter Hill and also in Captain Philip Putnam's Company, Colonel Moses Nichols' Regiment that marched to Saratoga Sept. 29, 1777. An old document owned by Edward Lovejoy (756B) also indicates Samuel's Revolutionary service. The Abbot Genealogy appears wrong in giving his birthplace as Wilton.

199. HENRY⁵ son of William (71), b. Andover Nov. 23, 1753; m. Elizabeth Cummings. Henry Lovejoy served in Revolution in General Stark's Brigade in the Bennington, Vt. campaign and in Captain Benjamin Mann's Company in the R. I. campaign, acc. to Livermore's History of Wilton. Acc. to Mass. Revolutionary Archives, vol. 173, p. 464, a Henry Lovejoy was at Valley Forge and died in service Aug. 15, 1777. There is evident confusion with #143, one of the two dying at Valley Forge and the other living at least until 1832. The Bureau of Pensions at Washington reported Henry's claim was granted in 1832 when he res. Wilton, N. H. He claimed to have enlisted from Wilton, to have served in the Battle of Bennington and to have been born in Andover in Nov., 1753. His service, acc. to his claim, was as follows, all enlistments being as a private soldier in New Hampshire regiments: 8 months from May, 1775, under Capt. Wm. Walker of Col. Reed's regt.; 1 mo. from May, 1777, under Capt. Boardman; 2 mos. from July 1777 under Capt. Goss; and 25 days from Aug. 1778 under Capt. Mann of Col. Nichols' regt.

440. AMOS⁶ b. Nov. 27, 1796; d. Oct. 3, 1799.
441. POLLY⁶ b. Mar. 27, 1800.
442. SALLY⁶ b. 1801.

History of Wilton also lists a child, David, but it is plainly David Lovejoy (426) and not a member of this family.

205. SAMUEL⁵ son of Isaac (79), b. Andover Sept. 11, 1753; d. Sept. 13, 1822 near Greensburg, Decatur County, Ind., m. Methuen,

Mass. Nov. 27, 1788 or Mar. 1, 1788 Esther Morse, b. Methuen Oct. or Dec. 8, 1766, d. Greensburg, Ind. after 1853, dau. of William and Phebe (Bodwell) Morse, and said to be related to Samuel F. B. Morse, inventor of the telegraph. This is prob. the Samuel Lovejoy who is recorded on page 997 Vol. IX Mass. Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolution who served as follows: Private, Captain Joshua Holt's Fourth Andover Company which marched on the alarm of Apr. 19, 1775 to Cambridge, service 1½ days; also Captain Samuel Johnson's Company, Colonel Wigglesworth's Regiment, acc. to a pay abstract for travel from Albany to Andover Mar. 7, 1777 for 210 miles of travel. The same reference also lists Samuel Lovejoy, "now of Pepperell," as a private in Captain Asa Lawrence's Company, Colonel William Prescott's Regiment; also private Captain Nathaniel Larkin's Company, Colonel John Robertson's Regiment in Rhode Island and later at North Kingston, 1777. This service was authenticated by Secretary of State E. M. Wright of Massachusetts June 27, 1853. This authentication is now in the hands of Thaddeus Lovejoy of Washington, D. C. Samuel's service at the "northward" and his travel from Albany and his participation at Lexington and Bunker Hill are recorded in Mass Revolutionary Archives.

450. BENJAMIN[6] b. Farmington Apr. 21, 1797.

208. ISAAC[5], son of Isaac (79), b. Andover Mar. 16, 1757; d. Andover Dec. 8, 1832. George W. Lovejoy of Portland gives Isaac's birth as 1780 but the Compiler thinks this is a confusion with the son, Isaac. Isaac m. Nov. 12, 1778 Mary Morse, b. Feb. 14, 1757; d. Dec. 5, 1832, dau. of William and Phebe (Bodwell) Morse, and sister of wife of Samuel (205). Acc. to C. F. Burge, the Hollis genealogist, this Isaac Lovejoy and not his father, Isaac (79), was the Revolutionary soldier (cf. illustration) and he bases his claim because the father would have been too old. Burge thought the D. A. R. in Andover put the Revolutionary marker on the wrong grave. Isaac (208) is bur. in South Cemetery, Andover, and Isaac (79) in West Yard Cemetery. Isaac (208) probably served in Continental Army from Andover beginning 1777 in Col. Ebenezer Francis and Col. Tupper's regiments at Bennington, West Point and elsewhere and perhaps, instead of #90, was the Isaac who was sick in a hospital. He may also have served in Major Gage's regiment and in Col. John Nixon's regt. Also an Isaac Lovejoy was a prisoner in the cartel "Swift" from Halifax to Boston, Sept. 30, 1778.

209. WILLIAM^{5} son of Isaac (79), b. Andover July 6, 1759; d. Lyons, N. Y. Sept. 24, 1830. Israel D. Lovejoy of Stockton, Calif. gives William's birthdate as 1752. William m. (1) at Andover 1790 Mary O. Dane b. Andover Aug. 14, 1761; d. Andover Mar. 15, 1799. She was dau. of William and Mary (Osgood) Dane. One report says William m. (2) at Andover Jan. 15, 1800 Mary (or Polly) Barker b. Aug. 10, 1781; d. Lyons Sept. 26, 1826 or 1828, dau. of William Barker. William Lovejoy served in several regiments during the Revolution, prob. enlisting frequently for short periods. Acc. to the records of the Adjutant General of Mass. which were once obtained by David H. Lovejoy, a grandson of William, the latter's officially recorded service was as follows:

> Private Capt. Benjamin Ames' Co. of Minute Men, Col. James Fry's regiment, which marched on the alarm of April 19, 1775; service 7 days. Also in Capt. Benjamin Ames' company, Col. James Fry's regiment (as shown by the) return of men in camp at Cambridge, dated May 17, 1775. Also (on) company return dated October 6, 1775. Also (in) order for bounty cost or its equivalent in money, dated Cambridge Nov. 14, 1775. Also corporal (in) order dated Hull (Plymouth Co.), Mass., June 20, 1776, signed by said Lovejoy and other for advance pay etc., payable to Capt. Samuel King. Also (on) petition dated at camp at Hull Sept. 17, 1776, signed by Lovejoy and others belonging to battalion stationed at Hull, asking for increases and payment of wages. Also Corporal (in) Capt. Samuel King's Co., Col. Josiah Whittlesey's regiment; service from June 2, 1776, 4 days preceding (the) march to Nov. 1, 1776—four months, 29 days; rolls dated camp at Hull. Also same company and regiment from Nov. 1, 1776, to Dec. 1, 1776, 1 month, 3 days. Also private Capt. Samuel Johnson's Co. Col. Wiggleyworth's regiment, (shown by) pay abstract for travel allowance from Albany home, sworn to March 7, 1777; 210 miles allowed said Lovejoy. Also (in) Capt. Samuel Johnson's company, Col. Titcomb's regiment; arrived at place of rendezvous April 27, 1777; discharged June 27, 1777; service 2 months nine days, including travel, 157 miles, to place of rendezvous and from place of discharge home; company raised to serve for 2 months from time of arrival at Providence, R. I.; roll dated (at) Bristol. Also (in) Capt. Samuel Johnson's company, Col. Johnson's regiment, enlisted Aug. 14, 1777, discharged Nov. 30, 1777; service 4 months with Northern army, including 13 days, 265 miles travel home. Also Capt. Stephen Wehster's company, Col. Jacob Gerrish's regiment, enlisted Oct. 14, 1779, discharged Nov. 22, 1779; service 1 month, 19 days at Claverack (Columbia Co.), N. Y., including travel, 220 miles, home; regiment raised in Suffolk and Essex Counties to reinforce army under Gen. Washington. Also (in) Capt. John Abbot's company Col. Nathaniel Wade's regiment; enlisted July 10, 1780; discharged Oct. 10, 1780, service 3 months 11 days at West Point, including travel, 220 miles home; regiment raised for 3 months.

William (209) is the William recorded in Mass. Revolutionary Archives as serving in 1780 as a corporal from Andover in Col. Wade's regiment at West Point. William Lovejoy was a persistent soldier and despite his long Revolutionary service he actually served as an old man in the War of 1812, serving for two or three days as a voluntary militiaman while living at Addison, Vt. He prob. was in or near Plattsburgh, N. Y. and perhaps in the Battle of Plattsburgh.

Sidney Mar. 29, 1845, dau. of John and Abigail (Thacher) Gray and a cousin of Abiel's first wife. Abiel Lovejoy was a farmer and held office of tax collector in Sidney in 1799. He is bur. in a tomb erected by his sons, Loyal and Harry Lovejoy, on the old Lovejoy farm. Abiel signed the Vassalborough school house agreement which is shown as an illustration in this book.

The Grays have clear Mayflower lineage. John Gray, b. Barnstable July 2, 1740, d. Nov. 24, 1763, was a son of Elisha Gray, b. Harwich Nov. 29, 1711, d. Aug. 12, 1739, and of his wife, Mrs. Susannah (Sturgis) Davis, b. Barnstable May 10, 1709, d. Dec. 19, 1768. Elisha was son of John Gray, b. June 1671, d. Mar. 31, 1732, a constable in Andover and in 1720 a Deputy, and his wife, Susannah Clark, b. Boston Mar. 12, 1674, d. Sept. 10, 1731. This last named John Gray was son of John Gray of Yarmouth, (who was in turn the son of another John Gray and wife, Hannah Lumpkin) and his wife Hannah Sturgis, dau. of Edward Sturgis. Hannah d. Harwich Oct. 17, 1736. Susannah Clark's father was Andrew Clark, b. Plymouth 1639, d. Harwich 1706, an assistant counsellor and Deputy to the General Court in 1651 and 1655 and her grandfather was Thomas Clark, the so-called "Mate of the Mayflower," b. ab. 1605, d. Mar. 24, 1697. Thomas was a carpenter, a freeman in 1633, served in Pequot War in 1637 and is buried in the old Cemetery on Plymouth Hill. Thomas m. before 1631 Susannah Ring, dau. of William Ring, who d. 1619 in the Pilgrim Colony at Leyden. Andrew Clark's wife was Mehitable Scott, bap. Boston Feb. 11, 1649, dau. of Thomas, b. 1612, and Joan (Sanford) Scott. Mrs. Susannah (Sturgis) Davis's first husband was Thomas Davis and her father was Edward Sturgis, b. Dec. 10, 1684, d. June 5, 1748. Edward was son of Thomas Sturgis, b. Dec.

1659, d. 1708, who married in 1680 Abigail Lothrop, dau. of Barnabas and Susannah (Clark) Lothrop. Susannah was sister of Andrew Clark, mentioned above, and Barnabas, who was a judge and Deputy to the General Court, traces his line to John Lowthroppe. Thomas Sturgis was a judge and a Deputy to the General Court.

Abigail Thacher's line is similarly noteworthy. She was b. Barnstable Mar. 20, 1738, the dau. of John Thacher, b. Barnstable June 25, 1703 who was married at Chilmark Nov. 28, 1734 by Rev. Wm. Holmes to Content Norton, who d. Barnstable Mar. 20, 1773. John Thacher was son of Col. John Thacher, b. Jan. 28, 1674/5, d. Mar. 26, 1764, who was married Nov. 10, 1698 to Mrs. Desire (Sturgis) Dimmock, b. 1666, d. Mar. 29, 1747. Col. John Thacher was son of John Thacher, b. Marblehead Mar. 17, 1638, d. Yarmouth, May 8, 1713 who married at Marshfield Nov. 6, 1661 Rebecca Winslow, dau. of Josiah and Margaret (Bourne) Winslow. The last named John Thacher was in 1681 member of the Council of War, a justice of the peace, an assistant to the governor, and a member of the Provincial Council. Josiah W. Winslow came to America in the "White Angel" in 1631 and was a brother of Governor Winslow. The father of Desire (Sturgis) Dimmock was Edward Sturgis, who married Temperance Gorham, dau. of John and Desire (Howland) Gorham. Desire Howland was dau. of John and Elizabeth (Tilley) Howland, both Mayflower passengers.

Content Norton's parents were Samuel Norton, b. ab. 1673, d. Feb. 16, 1760, and his wife, Content Coggeshall, b. Newport, R. I. May 10, 1676, d. Aug. 1, 1739. Samuel Norton's father was Isaac Norton, b. Weymouth May 3, 1641, d. 1723, who married Ruth Bayes, b. Dedham July 2, 1643, dau. of Thomas and Ann (Baker) Bayes. Isaac was son of Nicholas and Elizabeth (———) Norton. Content Coggeshall's father was Major John Coggeshall, b. England ab. 1618, d. Newport Oct. 1, 1708, and her paternal grandparents were John and Mary (———) Coggeshall. Major John Coggeshall married Patience Throgmorton, b. 1640, d. Newport Sept. 7, 1676, dau. of John Throgmorton who came with Roger Williams in the "Lion" in 1631. (Ref. R. I. Hist. Mag. vol. 5, p. 175). Major John Coggeshall was treasurer of the Rhode Island Colony and Deputy Governor for several terms.

Mar. 31, certificate granted Apr. 13) Betsy Smith, b. about 1778, d. Augusta Jan. 16, 1860, dau. of Eliab and Abigail (Lewis) Smith of Waterville, Me. Francis Lovejoy (254) was the first of a few deaf mutes in the Lovejoy family, an affliction that made its appearance in this Francis but apparently did not show itself after two succeeding generations. Professor Alexander Graham Bell who devoted years and spent a large amount of money tracing the Lovejoy Genealogy was concerned in the work mainly because of his research into hereditary deafness and he wrote voluminously about the medical record of Francis Lovejoy.

The parents of Francis did not comprehend until their son was several years old that he was deaf and dumb. They thought he was "backward" about talking but in 1771 first took him to a Boston physician. He developed signs and symbols and imitative powers and enjoyed perfect health. A deaf and dumb person was a curiosity in those times and Betsy Smith, who was staying at the home of Francis' sister, Abigail (255), at Waterville, was attracted to him and fell in love with him. The family objected to the match because of his abnormality and because they considered "the Smith family as inferior to the Lovejoys." But Francis and Betsy m. despite objections and, after living with Captain Abiel Lovejoy in Sidney, the latter built them a house on a farm he deeded to them two or three miles back of the Kennebec River. Francis prospered and was an industrious farmer and stock raiser, using his second dau. Abigail Lovejoy (585) as interpreter. Francis became devoutly religious and a Baptist clergyman, Rev. Elias Taylor, of the adjoining town of Belgrade, Me., learned to converse with him in the sign language.

Perley Gray of New York City now owns the red and gray plume that Stephen wore on his cockade hat. A number of descendants reported the "strutting" by Stephen Lovejoy when he wore his cockade and drilled his company in the village square. Acc. to the records of the Maine militia (page 262), Captain Stephen Lovjoy's Company, raised at Sidney for service in Augusta, served in the War of 1812 from Sept 13, to Sept. 24, 1814 in Lieutenant-Colonel Elnathan Sherwin's regiment under Brigadier General Jacob Bliss. On page 267 is a record of service at Wiscasset (Fort Edgecomb) from Sept. 24 to Nov. 10, 1814, the company composed as follows: "Stephen Lovejoy, captain; Joseph Warren, lieut; Ebenezer Lawrence, ensign; four sergeants, two corporals, one musician and sixty privates.

Col. Stephen Lovejoy undertook to carry on the trading and saw mill business of his father but experienced financial ruin due partly to the war and partly to his easy-going sociable nature, and after the War of 1812 he moved first to Gardiner, Me. and later to Oldtown where he was a government official in the Indian Agency there of the Penobscot Tribe. Later he moved to Milford.

Charleston, Feb. 22, 1879, dau. of Dodivah and Sarah (Hastings) Townsend. Jacob Lovejoy was violinist and dancing master in the Winter and prob. farmer and shoemaker in the Summer. He prob. was a fifer during the War of 1812, serving in Captain William Morrison's Company of Mass. Militia in 1814 from Sept. 14 to 24 and from Sept. 25 to Nov. 5. Also, acc. to Canadian Archives at Ottawa, he prob. was the Jacob Lovejoy who as a private and musician, was taken prisoner from the Mass. forces June 3, 1813 at Lake Champlain, being brought to Quebec June 9. His descriptive record was: "b. Amherst (error?), ae. 33, five foot six three-quarter inches, middle, visage oval dark, hair dark, eyes blue, scar on nose." He was discharged Oct 31, at Malabar.

Jacob took his family on an ox cart through the woods to the young settlement of Charleston. One of the stories told of him is that he was in demand at all parties as fiddler and entertainer. A neighbor, planning a party, sent a daughter with invitations to all the houses. When asked what was to be provided for the guests, she replied, "There won't be anything very good or nourishing but Jacob Lovejoy will be there." Evidently, that was sufficient.

July 16, 1761, d. Hollis, May 24, 1831, dau. of William and Mary (Hastings) Nevins. Asa served in Revolution, prob. at Brandywine and Yorktown battles. One report is that he also was drummer from 1777 for five years in Captain House's company, Colonel Ciley's Regiment. The widow, Lydia, applied for pension Aug. 3, 1838. This is probably the Asa Lovejoy whose pension claim was allowed in 1833, although there are some contradictions and he may be Asa (121). The pension claim said he enlisted from Winter Hill, Mass. and that he had the following tours of service as a private in Mass. regiments: 8 months from April 1775 under Capt. David More in Col. John Nixon's regt.; 6 mos. from summer of 1778 under Capt. Weeks of Col. Webb's regt.; 6 mos. from April, 1779, under Capt. Bowker of Col. Webb's regt.; and 6 mos. from June, 1780, under Capt. Cutting of Col. McIntosh's regt.

The Compiler is not satisfied with this record of such a prominent man as Andover's Deacon Ballard Lovejoy. Strangely enough, however, no other data about Deacon Ballard was received. Possibly James Ballard Lovejoy (367) was not the deacon himself but, instead, the deacon's father. This supposition would give Martha (783) the deacon for a brother and perhaps also another brother, William B. Lovejoy. Perhaps some one with more data on this branch can solve what is a mystery to the Compiler, especially in view of the following extract from the fourth of the series of four articles in the Andover Townsman, written by Charlotte Helen Abbot and appearing Sept. 24, 1897. The involved phraseology and punctuation are typically Miss Abbot's, for the stories were copied for the Compiler by one of the editors of the Townsman.

> Dea. Ballard with his daughter Angeline, widow of Edwin Barnard, Harriet Clark with whom he resides, Mary Gilchrist of Woburn, Albert of Lowell and George W. of Lawrence are well known to us.
> His brother William B. and Mary Ann Clement sent two boys Newton to die for us at Vicksburg and William W. with a son Fred living, others in Mexico and Dakota, with two best known daughters Martha, wife of Daniel Kendall, and Josephine, now among the still unforgotten dead, late wife of John Alfred Bailey of Lowell, with J. C. Ayer and originator of the Bailey Association. Says his son, Alfred Lovejoy Bailey, is proud of his descent.

Mar. 4, 1835 Celia Ann French, b. Aug. 1813, d. California July 10, 1870. Rev. Elijah Parish is certainly the most famous of all members of the family and no history of the antebellum days before 1861 omits paragraphs and chapters about this young editor whose death on the night of November 7, 1837 was one of the most tragic and moving events of the slavery days. Preachers everywhere, orators and great divines rushed to pulpits and forums; writers fed the printing presses with pamphlet literature and books; debaters throughout the United States discussed the Lovejoy killing with fiery, passionate speeches. Wendell Phillips, a young, obscure man of Boston, made his reputation overnight by the speech he delivered about Elijah Parish Lovejoy in historic Faneuil Hall, Boston, on December 8, 1837. The Boston Recorder declared it "a burst of indignation which has not had its parallel in this country since the battle of Lexington in 1775." John Quincy Adams wrote, "Incidents which preceded and accompanied and followed the catastrophe of Mr. Lovejoy's death points it out as an epoch in the annals of human liberty. They have given a shock as of an earthquake throughout this continent."

Lovejoy's death was the first blood shed over slavery in the United States. It is certainly true that Lovejoy's death profoundly affected the entire nation and kindled into seething flames the heretofore smoldering controversy. According to one writer, this was the darkest period of American history. The South was ruling the land. She claimed the negro by divine right and the North yielded to her claim. The northern press had been muzzled and the northern voice well nigh silenced. John Quincy Adams had been hissed in the halls of Congress, William Lloyd Garrison had been dragged with a rope around his neck through the streets of Boston. Such were the times that few dared oppose slavery. There were, however, a heroic few. One of the bravest was Lovejoy.

Elijah Parish Lovejoy would have been thirty-five years old the day after he was killed by a pro-slavery mob (cf. illustration) in a little southern Illinois town. He had spent his first eighteen years in Albion, Me., attending the district school a few months each Winter. He studied at Monmouth Academy and later at intervals in China (Me.) Academy. He entered Waterville College (later Colby) in September 1823 as a sophomore, Rev. Dr. Tappan of Augusta paying part of his expenses. He was graduated September 1826, receiving first honors, and then taught in a near-by Maine academy until May, 1827, when he left Maine, reaching St. Louis several months later. There he taught school and became editor of a Whig political paper, The St. Louis Times, advocating Henry Clay for the presidency.

Always a devout churchman because of his parents' influence, he decided to study for the ministry and in 1832 he entered Princeton Theological Seminary in New Jersey and was licensed to preach in April, 1833, from the Second Presbytery of Philadelphia. He spent the Summer in 1833 preaching in Newport, R. I. and in Spring Street Church, New York City. In the Fall he returned to St. Louis and was put in charge of The St. Louis Observer, beginning November 11, 1833, when the first number was issued.

Much has appeared in encyclopaedias, biographical dictionaries and pamphlets about Elijah Parish Lovejoy. He was of medium height, broadly built, muscular, of dark complexion and black eyes. He wrote articles on trans-substantiation and condemning Roman Catholic nunneries. Also he wrote frequently against slavery but, because of the intense feeling in St. Louis, the owners of his paper asked him to desist. On October 24, 1837 he wrote, "I did not yield to the wishes here expressed and in consequence have been persecuted ever since, but I have kept a good conscience in the matter and that repays me for all I have suffered or can suffer. I have sworn opposition to slavery and by the blessing of God I will never go back." Later he was asked by the owners of the paper to resign and he did but a Mr. Moore became the new proprietor and insisted on Lovejoy's continuance as editor and arranged that the paper be moved from St. Louis across the river to Alton, Ill.

Four of Lovejoy's presses were destroyed by mobs, the first when the paper was moved to Alton and the second after the neighboring St. Louis Republican had urged the suppression of Lovejoy's paper. This press was destroyed August 21, 1837 when eight or ten citizens of Alton, calling themselves of highest respectability, determined to tar and feather him and set him adrift in a canoe on the Mississippi River. Lovejoy lived in Hunterstown near the road leading to upper Alton and on that night his wife, whom he idolized, was seriously ill. Between 10:00 and 11:00, enroute to the drug store in Alton three quarters of a mile away, he was stopped by disguised men. With perfect composure, he said, "Gentlemen, I have but a single request to make of you. My wife is dangerously ill and it is necessary she should have this prescription immediately which I was on the way to town to procure. Will one of you take it and see that it is delivered at the house but without intimating what is about to befall me. I am in the hands of God and ready to go with you." One of the men in the party, a physician and a southerner as well, said, "Boys, I cannot lay my hand upon one as brave as this," and the mob dispersed.

A new press was made possible by friends' money but on September 11, 1837 Elijah Parish Lovejoy offered to resign the editorship. A meeting was held but his backers thought The Alton Observer should be maintained and he continued as editor. The night the third press arrived, September 21, 1837, Mayor John M. Krum left a considerable guard around it but ten rioters broke into the Alton Warehouse of Gerry & Weller, rolled out the press, broke it up and cast it into the Mississippi.

Feeling of the pro-slavery men against Lovejoy knew no bounds. Ten days later in St. Charles, Mo., while with his wife and infant child, visiting his mother-in-law, a mob broke into her home, beat Lovejoy but stopped only after Mrs. Lovejoy helped to resist them. She was taken ill over the shock of the affair and put to bed. Later in the night the mob again broke into the house three or four times, then going to the home of Major Sibley a mile distant and returning to Alton the next day.

The Anti-slavery Society of Illinois was formed and it decided to buy a fourth press for Lovejoy and to continue The Observer. A company of fifty was formed to protect it in the warehouse of Godfrey & Gilman. Feeling ran high in Alton and at a public meeting November 2, 1837 all except W. S. Gilman counselled against the resumption of The Observer. A press shipped from Cincinnati arrived in Alton the night of November 6 and was received by friends of Elijah Parish Lovejoy in the presence of Mayor Krum. Sixty friends, well armed and drilled, were on guard on every floor of the warehouse. The next night, November 7, 1837, some of the men returned to their homes, nineteen volunteering to stay on guard.

A mob formed during the evening and a few shots were exchanged. Attempts were made to set fire to the building but the captain asked for volunteers for a sortie and Elijah Parish Lovejoy, Amos R. Roff and Royal Weller volunteered. As they marched from the building, five of the mob's bullets spit out and were lodged in Lovejoy's body. Roff and Weller were wounded. Lovejoy ran back and up the warehouse stairs, crying out, "I am shot, I am shot, I am dead." He reached the office and died there.

The next day the body was removed and received by his brother, Owen Lovejoy (616). Burial service was held in the rain by the Rev. Thomas Lippincott and so great was the partisanship that there were no remarks, no inquest and no flowers. According to an unconfirmed report, Weller, one of the guardians, later married Elijah Parish Lovejoy's widow. Henry Tanner in his The Martyrdom of Lovejoy wrote that later two of the mobsmen, Dr. Thomas M. Hope, afterward Democratic candidate for Congress, and Dr. Beall, were ready Monument in Alton, Ill., to Elijah Parish Lovejoy (615), dedicated in 1897.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

Murder of Elijah Parish Lovejoy (615). This pen and ink sketch depicts the Alton mob on night of Nov. 7, 1837.

to boast that they fired the shots killing Lovejoy, while it was believed by many that James M. Rock, drayman, later sentenced to Ohio State Penitentiary for a violent crime, fired the bullet.

Alton, with a population of nearly 4,000, the size of Chicago then, had been prosperous and a strong rival of St. Louis but quickly deteriorated and its citizens were subjected to the most bitter kind of criticism throughout the world. Sixty years later, on November 8, 1897, a $30,000 shaft monument (cf. illustration) was erected in Alton in Lovejoy's memory. It is a granite column, ninety-three feet high, surmounted by a bronze statue of Victory seventeen feet high, weighing 8,700 pounds, subscribed for by citizens of Alton and near-by communities. At the dedication several descendants of Rev. Elijah Parish Lovejoy were present including his niece, Mrs. John A. Andrews (1331) of Boston, two nephews, E. P. (1318) and C. P. (1319) Lovejoy, of Princeton, Ill. and Hon. W. O. Lovejoy (1552) of Galesburg, Ill.

Lovejoy's martyrdom has always been linked with the freedom of the press and in October, 1930, the Illinois Press Association will formally open its Editors' Hall of Fame at the University of Illinois and has selected Elijah Parish Lovejoy as the first editor to be honored. A bronze bust of Lovejoy was made by Oscar J. W. Hansen, sculptor of Chicago, and the event has been widely reported in newspapers and magazines.

According to Blanche Sherwin Lovejoy (2426), special blue china plates made in England were sold in the United States immediately after Lovejoy's death to help the abolition cause. On these plates were "Lovejoy, first martyr to American freedom" and a clause from the Constitution. This plate is described in books on old china as being very rare and "worth its weight in gold." Colby College in Maine has a book case made from wood of Lovejoy's house in Alton which was probably on Cherry Street, between Second and Third Streets.

Many things have been written about Wendell Phillips' speech in Faneuil Hall. George W. Curtis said, "In the annals of American speech there has been no such scene since Patrick Henry's electrical warning to George III. It was that greatest of oratorical triumphs when a supreme emotion, a sentiment, which is to mould a people anew, lifted the orator to adequate expression. Three such scenes are illustrious in our history: that of the speech of Patrick Henry at Williamsburg, of Wendell Phillips in Faneuil Hall, of Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg—three, and there is no fourth."

The Faneuil Hall meeting was held December 8, 1837. William Ellery Channing headed a petition to the mayor and aldermen of Boston asking the use of Faneuil Hall for a public meeting. The request was denied but then a larger number of names was obtained for petition and the request granted. Hon. Jonathan Philips was chairman. Dr. Channing made a brief address and resolutions drawn by him were read and offered by Mr. Hallett and seconded by George S. Hillyard. Then Attorney-General James T. Austin of Massachusetts followed in a speech of the utmost bitterness, comparing slaves to wild beasts and the rioters at Alton, Ill. to the "orderly mob which threw the tea party in 1773," and declared that Lovejoy "was presumptuous and imprudent," and "died as the fool dieth."

Wendell Phillips, who had not expected to take part in the meeting, rose to reply but had difficulty getting the attention of the audience because of Attorney-General Austin's sympathizers. But this youth, Phillips, amid hisses, soon gained the attention of all. "When," said he, "I heard the gentleman lay down principles which place the murderers of Alton side by side with Otis and Hancock, with Quincy and Adams, I thought those pictured lips (pointing to the portraits in Faneuil Hall) would have broken into voice to rebuke the recreant American—the slanderer of the dead."

The idea of the monument association, which in 1897 erected the Lovejoy monument in Alton, Ill. was to let Lovejoy speak for himself in the three-fold capacity of editor, minister of the gospel and opponent of slavery, and a quotation from his writings was placed under each of these heads. The fourth inscription is in honor of the men who stood by him in defense of his rights, and risked their lives and property for the same cause. The inscriptions and historical data are:

(Medallion of Lovejoy)

ELIJAH P. LOVEJOY,

Editor, Alton Observer,
Albion, Maine, Nov. 8, 1802,
Alton, Ill., Nov. 7, 1837.

A Martyr to Liberty.

"I have sworn eternal opposition to slavery, and by the blessing of God, I will never go back."

(North front)

CHAMPION OF FREE SPEECH

(Cut of Lovejoy Press)

"But, gentlemen, as long as I am an American citizen, and as long as American blood runs in these veins, I shall hold myself at liberty to speak, to write, to publish whatever I please on any subject being amenable to the laws of my country for the same."

(East panel)

MINISTER OF THE GOSPEL
MODERATOR OF ALTON PRESBYTERY

"If the laws of my country fail to protect me I appeal to God, and with him I cheerfully rest my cause. I can die at my post but I cannot desert it."

(West panel)

SALVE, VICTORES!

This monument commemorates the valor, devotion and sacrifice of the noble Defenders of the Press, who, in this city on Nov. 7, 1837, made the first armed resistance to the aggressions of the slave power in America.

In addition to these epitaphs in bronze the following explanatory inscriptions are placed on the granite bases below the urns:

Erected,
by the State of Illinois and citizens of Alton
1896-97

Dedicated,
In gratitude to God,
and in the love of Liberty,
November 8th, 1897.

Children

+1316. EDWARD PARISH[7] b. St. Louis, Mo. Mar. 1836.

1317. a child[7] (?) One pamphleteer, soon after Rev. Elijah Parish Lovejoy's murder, reported that Mrs. Lovejoy was pregnant when her husband was killed. Another bit of evidence that there was a second child in this family is that William W. Lovejoy (834) wrote in 1897 "about a maiden lady, dau. of Elijah Parish Lovejoy, who was keeping a boarding house on State Street, Chicago." The Compiler thinks, however, this may be confused with the case of Mrs. Elijah Parish Lovejoy, who also conducted boarding houses.

616. Hon. OWEN[6], (cf. illustration) son of Rev. Daniel (270), b. Albion, Me. Jan. 6, 1811, d. Brooklyn, N. Y. Mar. 25, 1864; bur. Princeton, Ill.; member of Congress from Illinois 1856 to 1864. Hon. Owen Lovejoy m. Princeton, Ill. Jan. 1843 Mrs. Eunice Conant (Storrs) Denham, b. Trenton, N. Y. Sept. 21, 1809, d. Princeton Jan. 11, 1899, dau. of Joshua and Mary (Perkins) Storrs and widow of Butler Denham of Conway, Mass. by whom she had had three chdn. before marrying Owen Lovejoy. These chdn. were: Lucy Storrs Denham b. 1837; Mary B. b. 1840 and Elizabeth Sherman b. 1842.

Hon. Owen Lovejoy attended Bowdoin College, Me. from 1830 to 1833 but did not graduate. He was a pastor in Princeton, Ill. from 1838 to 1854 and before going to Congress was a member of the Illinois Legislature from 1854 to 1856. He was known as a famous anti-slavery man and also as one of President Abraham Lincoln's closest friends.

Owen was eight years younger than his brother, Elijah Parish Lovejoy, and was with the latter at Alton, Ill. and studied theology under him. In 1838, following his brother's death at the hands of the Alton mob, Rev. Owen Lovejoy moved to Princeton and became pastor of a small Congregationalist Church, being the earliest of that denomination in Illinois. He was always outspoken against liquor traffic and American slavery and entered Congress in 1856. In a speech in the House of Representatives in 1860 he said "It is as preposterous to think of taking slavery down through the civilization of the ages as to think of floating an iceberg through the tropics." During the first Lincoln campaign in 1860, Congressman Owen went to Alton where the pro-slavery feeling was still bitterly strong and made a political speech in the City Hall, a courageous thing to do. After Owen Lovejoy's death Lincoln wrote of him "It would scarcely wrong any other to say he was my most generous friend." And Lincoln said that their friendship continued "with increasing respect and esteem no less than affection."

When Lincoln was meditating on the issuance of his Emancipation Proclamation, Representative John J. Crittenden of Kentucky urged against it, declaring that if Lincoln could save the country without disturbing slavery, he would have a niche in heaven. Representative Owen Lovejoy answered in Congress as follows: "But, I, too, have a niche for Abraham Lincoln. It is Freedom's holy fame; not surrounded by slave fetters and chains, but with the symbols of freedom; not dark with bondage but radiant with the light of liberty. The gentleman from Kentucky says he has a niche for Abraham Lincoln. Where is it?" Crittenden pointed toward heaven. Then said Lovejoy: "He points upward. But, sir, if the President follows the counsel of that gentleman and becomes the perpetuator of slavery, he should point downward to some dungeon in the temple of Molloch, whe feeds on human blood and where are forged chains for human limbs; in the recesses of whose temple woman is scourged and man tortured. . . ."

Mr. Jennings Oct. 28, 1833 Rebecca Ann Rhoads, b. Roxbury, Mass. Oct. 2, 1817, d. Wilton, N. H. Oct. 5, 1886, dau. of Willard and Lucy (Butterfield) Rhoads. In letter Abbott L. Lovejoy wrote from Baltimore Mar. 15, 1852, now owned by Oregon Historical Society of Portland, he described his residence as 43 East Lombard Street, Baltimore, and wrote that the Lovejoy store was at 123 Baltimore Street. The fact that this letter referred to his brother in Oregon as "Asa" Lovejoy was valuable information because Oregon's famous General Lovejoy was always known in that state only as "A. L." Lovejoy.

899. General ASA LAWRENCE[7], (cf. illustration) son of Dr. Samuel (424), b. Groton or Townsend, Mass. Mar. 14, 1808; d. Portland, Ore., Sept. 11, 1882; m. 1845 Elizabeth McGary of Oregon City, who d. after 1900. Asa Lawrence Lovejoy became Attorney General and Chief Justice of Oregon and was one of two men who selected the name of Portland, Ore. His influence is still noted today in the great Northwest, but there has been considerable confusion about his baptismal name. Most Oregon records refer to him as "A. L." Lovejoy and apparently his contemporaries assumed "A" stood for Amos because George H. Himes, curator of the Oregon Historical Society, so reported it some years ago. Just before going to press with this genealogy, however, the Compiler learned from the librarian of the Oregon Historical Society of a newly discovered letter written by General Lovejoy's brother, Abbott Lawrence Lovejoy of Baltimore, in 1852, in which the name of the prominent Oregonian was definitely given as Asa.

According to Curator Himes, who wrote in 1912 that he had known General Lovejoy personally, Asa Lawrence Lovejoy was a pupil in Townsend of Rev. David Palmer until sixteen years old. Later he clerked in his brother's Boston store and became a student in Cambridge College (Harvard?) but finished his studies at Amherst College. He then read law with Judge Seth May of Maine and was admitted to the Maine Bar.

In 1840 Asa went to Missouri and hung out his attorney's shingle in Sparta but on May 12, 1842 he joined an immigrant party of 125 persons, headed by Dr. Elijah White, a physician, missionary and agent for Indian affairs, enroute for Oregon. During the adventurous trip Lovejoy was captured by Indians at Independence Rock on the old Oregon Trail. Upon arriving at Wai-il-at-pu, six miles west of what is now Walla Walla, Wash., a station of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, being operated by the Congregational Churches, Asa was besought by Dr. Marcus Whitman in charge of the mission to draw up some legal papers and return East to Washington with him. Both men started on the perilous trip October 3, 1842 on horseback. After much suffering they reached Bent's Fort, on the upper waters of the Arkansas River, where they separated, Whitman going on to St. Louis with a party of men and Asa Lovejoy remaining at the fort until Spring. Then he went with a party of trappers to Fort Lorraine, hoping to intercept a west bound company of immigrants. Being short of funds he served as a courier and express messenger for Father P. J. de Smet, carrying messages and money to the Catholic priests among the Flathead, Coeur d'Alene and Pend d'Oreille Indians, having as guide, an old Indian named Enos. Those trips were hazardous ones because Asa had to pass through hostile Indian country, traveling by night and hiding by day. Once again he started for Fort Laramie but on the way was captured by a party of Black Feet Indians and kept a prisoner for nine days. There was little to eat but on the ninth day a young buffalo was killed and the feasts and war dances followed. Next day he found all the Indians had left and he and Enos were free. Then they struck out for Fort Boise, reaching there in time to intercept and join the incoming immigration party of about 1000 souls which started from Sedalia, Mo., and reached Fort Vancouver and later Oregon City in November, 1843. Lovejoy probably met at Vancouver William P. Overton, who was regarded as having staked the first claim of what is now the city of Portland, Ore., and who later gave some of the claim to Lovejoy who became his partner.

At Oregon City Asa Lovejoy at once began the practice of law and was thus the first lawyer in Oregon and, in fact, the first west of the Rocky Mountains. He became the agent of Dr. John McLoughlin, governor of the Hudson's Bay Company which traded with Indians. In 1844 Asa was elected member of the Legislature of the Oregon Provisional Government and also Attorney General. In 1845 he was elected mayor of Oregon City, the first incorporated town in American territory on the Pacific Coast. In the Summer of 1845 General Asa L. Lovejoy and Francis W. Pettygrove laid out the city of Portland, and named it, Lovejoy having moved from Oregon City. One report is that Lovejoy and Overton went to their claim (now Portland) in a canoe. Lovejoy wanted to call it Boston after the principal city of his native state of Massachusetts. Pettygrove wanted to call it

Portland after the city of his native Maine. Failing to agree, Pettygrove drew an old fashioned copper cent of the year 1835 out of his pocket and offered to toss the coin with Lovejoy for the best two out of three throws. In this contest Pettygrove won and the new city was hence named Portland instead of Boston.

Curator Himes writes "This is no fairy tale as many suppose. I knew both men personally and have heard them relate the story many times."

Lovejoy was once for several months sole owner of the Portland claim, according to the Portland Oregonian. Overton gave it to him when he started for Texas but Overton returned to Portland, demanded at least one-half interest and then became Lovejoy's partner. Again the restless Overton prepared to leave Portland but when Lovejoy declined to pay him more than $100 for his share, Overton sold his half interest to Pettygrove for $200 and Lovejoy and Pettygrove began to build roads and lay out the city blocks. The city of Portland preserves Lovejoy's memory to this day in Lovejoy Street.

In 1848 General Lovejoy was appointed Chief Justice of the Oregon Provisional Government during the Cayuse Indian War of 1848 caused by the murder of Dr. Whitman and others. General Lovejoy was one of three loan commissioners appointed by the governor to obtain funds for needed munitions of war. General Lovejoy was a charter member of the first Masonic Lodge on the Pacific Coast, Multnomah, No. 84, then under the jurisdiction of the nearest grand lodge, that of Missouri, and now known as Multnomah, No. 1.

General Lovejoy was absent for several months in 1848 to the gold mines in California. After Oregon became an organized territory, March 3, 1849, General Lovejoy served several terms in the legislature and in 1857 was a member of the Constitutional Convention. By universal accord few men have attained higher place in the annals of the Pacific Northwest than General Lovejoy. According to the Portland Sunday Oregonian of February 2, 1930, General Lovejoy gave a narrative of the founding of Portland on June 18, 1878 when he was 67 years old. Present were Mrs. Lovejoy, Hubert Howe Bancroft, a historian, Mrs. Bancroft and a secretary who designated himself as "A. B." This narrative is in the Bancroft Collection in the University of California library.

Lovejoy was one of the first members of the family to collect genealogical data on the Lovejoys, working for many years alone, and also in cooperation with Professor Alexander Graham Bell who visited him in Sidney during the 80's at his home, Highland Farm, now occupied by his daughter, Susie Lovejoy. Charles H. Lovejoy was an energetic, prosperous farmer and held many public offices. He served as Selectman of Sidney for seventeen years, on three occasions receiving every vote cast. He was also road commissioner. For more than forty years he was the famous messenger of the Maine Senate. He was elected assistant messenger in 1878 under Governor Selden Connor and the following year was elected messenger and each year until his death, usually unanimously. He was affectionately called "Uncle Charles" by every one.

It was Charles H. Lovejoy who in 1880 discovered the so-called "Democratic Plot" to take by force the state house and who helped Governor Daniel F. Davis during those exciting days. Charles H. Lovejoy found 56 guns, all loaded, in the "hub of hell," the reporters' room of the State House, and later he found 5000 rounds of ammunition in the State Library which indicated to the Republicans that bloodshed may have been at least contemplated. Charles H. Lovejoy was a prominent Mason, a Baptist, always a staunch Republican and an intimate friend of James G. Blaine.

In a letter he wrote to his aunt (623) in 1890 from Wabuska, Edward P. Lovejoy spoke devotedly of his mother who "single-handed battled with poverty to rear and educate her boy," and that "she lived to see me emerge from poverty and obscurity and able to surround her with everything she desired." He related that with his mother he lived in Cincinnati in 1839, Oberlin in 1840 and in Canada, 1841-3. Thence they moved to Fowlerville, N. Y., Rochester, Buffalo, Chicago and various Illinois and Iowa cities. Edward P. Lovejoy attended Shurtleff College, upper Alton, Ill. in 1851 and later they kept hotels and boarding houses near Keokuk. In 1857 Edward P. Lovejoy was sent by an Iowa farmer to find the latter's run-away daughter in California but when he arrived there, she had already started home and he stayed there, engaging in mining and in 1859 his mother, Mrs. Elijah Parish Lovejoy, was the first woman to come overland to California by stage. In 1863 Edward P. Lovejoy, wholly by chance, was asked to defend an alleged murderer in a mining town and after the man was acquitted, E. P. Lovejoy read law, was admitted to the bar in 1865, later becoming justice of the peace. In 1867 he was elected district attorney, re-elected in 1869 and elected county judge for four years in 1871. In 1868 he bought the only newspaper in the community and conducted it for seven years. His mother d. in 1870 and then Edward P. Lovejoy became, acc. to this letter, "discontented and wanted to be rich in a hurry." He lost money in a mining venture, tried hotel keeping and in 1880 was obliged to go to work as a common laborer on the C. & C. Railroad. He attracted the attention of the president and superintendent of the road and in a week became overseer and later was appointed agent at Wabuska where he also acquired 1500 acres of land and some cattle and horses.

2878. Major CLARENCE EARLE^{9}, (cf. illustration), (Compiler of The Lovejoy Genealogy); son of Arthur Evans (2215); b. Waterville, Me. June 26, 1894; lives (1930) New York City, mail address, c/o Alumni Federation of Columbia University, Inc., New York; m. Dec. 10, 1919 St. George's Episcopal Church, New York City, by Rev. William H. Gibbons, to Ethel Clifford Hill, b. Brooklyn, N. Y. Sept. 2, 1894, dau. of Spencer and Catharine (Snyder) Hill; div. Reno, Nev., Jan. 4, 1928. Clarence E. resided in Lowell, Lenox and Pittsfield, Mass., attending schools in the last named city. He is a graduate of Columbia University, obtaining his A. B. degree in 1917, and later studied at the Sorbonne in Paris, obtaining a certificate. Before attending college, he worked as a newspaper man on the Pittsfield, (Mass.) Journal and Berkshire Evening Eagle of Pittsfield, and later was newspaper reporter or editor on the Meriden, (Conn.) Morning Record, New Brunswick, (N. J.) Sunday Times and elsewhere. While at college he joined the editorial staff of The New York Times in 1915 and remained with the Times until 1920 except for leave of absence for World War service. At Columbia University he was manager of the varsity baseball team, member of Phi Kappa Sigma and of the Senior Society of Nacoms. He abandoned his studies when the United States entered the World War and partly because of a year's service previously in Co. F, 2nd Regt., Mass. National Guard, he was commissioned a Second Lieutenant, Infantry Officers Reserve Corps, on May 2, 1917 and assigned to the First Officers Training Camp at Plattsburgh Barracks, N. Y. later that month. He passed the examinations there for a commission in the Regular Army and was assigned to the 38th U. S. Infantry, 3rd (Regular) Division. He was promoted to First Lieutenant and spent sixteen months overseas in the A. E. F. in France and in the Army of Occupation in Germany, participating in six major engagements and winning a silver star citation, signed by General Pershing, for gallantry at Moulins, on the Marne River, near Mezy in the Chateau Thierry sector on July 19, 1918. While serving with his regiment in Germany, he was named official historian of the 38th U. S. Infantry and wrote The Story of the Thirty-Eighth, a 216-page book which was printed and published in Coblenz, Germany, and which since has been described as the first history of an American regiment written after the World War. On his return to the United States he resigned his Army commission to rejoin The New York Times staff as a departmental editor but resigned from the Times in November, 1920 to re-enter the Regular Army as a captain of infantry, serving in the 16th and 26th Infantry regiments and also being assigned for three and one-half years at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., as an Associate Professor of Military Science and Tactics. For several Summers he was assigned as Director of Publicity at the Plattsburg training camps. He resigned the second time from the Regular Army in March, 1925, to re-enter civil life. He started the Bronxville (N. Y.) Press which, as a weekly and later a semi-weekly, became the best known community newspaper in Westchester County. Later he became editor and publisher of a second paper, the Eastchester Citizen-Bulletin of Tuckahoe, N. Y., and of a third, The Crestwood Citizen of Crestwood, N. Y. He sold out his interests in 1927 when he accepted the offer to be alumni secretary of Columbia University, including the managing editorship of the Columbia Alumni News. He is a Blue Lodge and Royal Arch Chapter Mason and is a member of the Society of Colonial Wars (in right of John Lovejoy 1), Sons of the Revolution (in right of Captain Abiel Lovejoy 96), Sojourners, Military Order of Foreign Wars of the U. S., Society of American Wars, New York State Historical Association, New England Historic Genealogical Society, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and is a member of the Columbia University Club of New York. He is an Episcopalian and a Democrat. Since 1925 he has held a commission as major in the Military Intelligence Reserve, U. S. Army. He is recorded in the 1929 edition of Who's Who in New York.

THE SOUTHERN BRANCH

THE so-called "Southern Branch" of the Lovejoy family, although by no means as numerous as the New Englanders, is nevertheless represented by descendants in a number of southern and northern states today. Unfortunately, the origins of the southern branch have never been defined clearly. Four members of the family devoted their main attention to tracing the southern branches but discrepancies and variations continually rendered their results somewhat uncertain.

John Naylor Lovejoy (4023) and his grandson, Dr. James William Hamilton Lovejoy (4140) of Washington, were the earliest to prepare genealogical outlines of the southern branch. The third to study the problem was D. Ross Lovejoy (4242) who put an immense amount of labor on the Lovejoy researches especially among the southern families, because he was plainly of the southern branch. But he found data about the New England Lovejoys much easier to obtain and he followed the path of least resistance. His task was certainly discouraging for he never definitely traced his own branch further back than his grandfather. The fourth man to study the southern Lovejoys was Francis Thomas Fletcher Lovejoy (4212), wealthy and famous three decades ago as a steel magnate of Pittsburgh and prominent mining operator of the west. He employed several professional genealogists including William M. Mervine, Harry Beverly Deas and Ivan Lavretsky, and also used English firms to study the Lovejoy origins. In substance, the researches of these four men developed unmistakably that there was a Maryland branch of the Lovejoys some decades after John of Andover started the New England line. This Maryland branch, begun just before 1700 by Joseph or John Lovejoy, is probably the origin of most southern members of the family today. However, a third American immigrant, William Lovejoy, (5000) represented what has been described as the New Jersey branch and he may have been connected to the Maryland line.

The Maryland branch has been studied carefully and, according to the firm belief of John Naylor Lovejoy, the Maryland immigrant bore the name of John Lovejoy although he was not related to John of Andover, unless the relationship was distant two or three generations before in England. F. T. F. Lovejoy, however, believed the Maryland immigrant was named Joseph and has developed some rather definite dates and facts about him.

John or Joseph appears to have come to America probably just before 1700 although John Naylor Lovejoy gave him the date of 1660 which in the Compiler's belief is far too early. The emigrant was accompanied by William Miles, George Naylor and John Lawson and the families of all intermarried. Lovejoy, Miles and Naylor were Englishmen and Lawson was a Scotsman. In fact, Lawson may have arrived slightly later than the other three. They settled near the Patuxent River in Prince George County, Maryland, when that was wilderness and isolated country. All four, as well as their descendants, were planters and slave holders and, despite the destruction of many Maryland church and municipal records during the fighting of the Civil War, there is, nevertheless, some original source records about the early southern Lovejoys. Probably they received their grants of land in Prince George County from the crown. It is said that lineal descendants of all four of these families still live in Maryland although apparently most of the Lovejoy descendants moved into Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, into western Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Tennessee and Texas.

In presenting the southern branches in the following pages, the Compiler has sifted the most definite of the indefinite information and believes that his studies will be welcomed by a considerable number of southern Lovejoys who will find their family herewith outlined in print for the first time.

4000. JOSEPH¹ (or John) prob. b. England and perhaps distantly related to John Lovejoy of Andover. There is some indication that whereas John of Andover was the sixth generation from the original Johannes Lovejoy of Little Marlow, Joseph, head of the southern branch, may have been of the seventh or eighth generation. Although one account indicates Joseph came to America about 1660, later researches by F. T. F. Lovejoy and others placed his birth at about 1684 and he prob. did not arrive in America until about 1700. He settled in Prince George County, Maryland, west of the Patuxent River. According to parish records he was a pewholder in St. Paul's Church, Prince Geo. Co., as early as 1735. Joseph m. 1705 or slightly earlier Ann (Lyon?) and he d. in 1748 inasmuch as his will, made 1743, was proved in 1748. On June 22, 1715 Joseph bought of John Brooke 150 acres of "ranchers adventure" in Prince George County and on Oct. 14, 1715 he paid six shillings "for alienation of said lands for use of Lord Baltimore". The deed of the land and the "alienation" are recorded in Liber E, Folio 481, Upper Marlboro, Prince George County, Md. and his will, which was proved May 6, 1748, is recorded in Liber

DD, No. 4, Folio 264, Annapolis, Md. His inventory is recorded in Liber 40 of Inventories, Folio 52, Annapolis.

The Compiler reprints this deed, will and inventory from the records of F. T. F. Lovejoy as follows:

("John Welsh Admr. of Joseph Lovejoy with Will Annext" made oath to the above inventory, May 24, 1749. Recorded in Liber 40 of Inventories, folio 52. Annapolis, Maryland.)

Children

4001 SAMUEL² m. widow, Jane or Jeane Lyon; no issue. Samuel was b. prob. 1706. Prince George County, Md. and bought land in 1727; he m. about 1727 and d. 1762. Samuel apparently had no chdn. and the Edward Lovejoy and John Lovejoy mentioned in his will are prob. his nephews, sons of John (4002). On July 26, 1727 Samuel Lovejoy "took bond from William and James Watson for delivery of deed for life interest to wife, Jane, in one third part of 140 acres called Poplar Hills and one third part of 87 acres called Tennent in Prince George County." His will is recorded in Liber DD, No. 1, Folio 805, Annapolis, and in it he bequeaths several slaves. His inventory, taken May 19, 1766, totals £215, 3s, 6 3/4 d. and is recorded in Liber 89, Folio 310 of Inventories, Annapolis.

+4002 JOHN²

+4003 JOSEPH² b. 1721, d. 1773.

4004 ANN² b. 1723 or earlier Prince George County; m. about 1743 Humphrey Berry and had four chdn: Joseph Berry, Hezekiah, Benjamin and a daughter, who m. .... Smallwood, and became the mother of Captain Samuel N. Smallwood, mayor of Washington City.

THIRD GENERATION

4002. JOHN², son of Joseph (4000), b. Prince George County, about 1708; d. about 1760; m. about 1729 Margaret Miles. After John's death Margaret m. (2) Richard Nevitt and had son, William Miles Nevitt, who moved to South Carolina and settled near his half brother, Edward Lovejoy (4006).

Children

+4005 ALEXANDER³

+4006 EDWARD³

+4007 JOHN³

4008 PRECIOUS³ m. John Halsey, had five sons and three daughters and moved to Kentucky.

4003. JOSEPH², son of Joseph (4000), b. Prince George County about 1721; d. about 1773; m. about 1745 or 1752 Elinor Davis. Joseph's son, Joseph Lovejoy (4009), moved to Redstone Settlement in Pennsylvania and thence to Kentucky and perhaps Joseph (4003) also moved to Redstone.

Children

+4009 JOSEPH³ b. 1753.

4010 ELINOR³ b. ab. 1755; m. Feb. 24, 1786 William Fowler.

4011 CATHARINE³

FOURTH GENERATION

4005. ALEXANDER³, son of John (4002), b. Prince George County about 1730; d. about 1793; m. May 10, 1779 Mrs. Mary Sullivan. Alexander also prob. m. 1761 or earlier Margaret Nevitt by whom he had son, John Nevitt Lovejoy. It is also said that Alexander had six sons and four daughters, prob. all by Mary Sullivan. There are several records of Alexander Lovejoy as follows: Liber CC No. 2, Folio 13, Prince George County, Nov. 3, 1774 when he "took up" a stray sorrel mare; in Liber FF No. 2, Folio 428, Prince George County, Aug. 24, 1785 when for 5000 pounds of crop tobacco he received 50 acres from Nicholas Davis.

Children

4012 JOHN NEVITT[4] On Mar. 16, 1793 John Lovejoy (4007) is recorded in Liber JRM, No. 1, Folio 518, Prince George County, as recording his right to a tract of land known as Gautts Levels, containing fifty acres to John Nevitt. The indenture reads in part, "Between John Lovejoy. . . . and John Lovejoy, son of Alexander Lovejoy, alias John Nevitt or whatsoever name he is called, designated or known by . . . that, whereas the said Alexander Lovejoy d. intestate and the said John Lovejoy as one of his brothers became heir at law to a part of his, the said Alexander's real property, and being willing and desirous that the said John Lovejoy, alias John Nevitt, should be possessed of said land . . . hath granted unto the said John Lovejoy, alias John Nevitt, all his right to a tract of land. . . ."

The Compiler was not able to obtain the names or further details about the six sons and four daughters, prob. in addition to the son, John Nevitt Lovejoy.

4006. EDWARD[3], son of John (4002), b. Prince George County about 1738; m. Jemima Morey, prob. at Fairfield County, S. C., near Broad River, whence he had moved after 1765. Edward was named in the will of his uncle, Samuel Lovejoy (4001), and is recorded on Mar. 12, 1765 as having sold cattle to Benjamin N. Mitchell. D. Ross Lovejoy, because his father and grandfather were from South Carolina, regarded himself as descended from Edward Lovejoy (4006), but was never able completely to link up his descent. Edward (4006) served in the Revolutionary War, acc. to Ruth L. Harwell (4185) who joined the D. A. R. in right of his service.

Rebecca was b. about 1747 and d. Apr. 28, 1808. Her sister, Ann Naylor, was grandmother of Thomas Swan, once governor and later U. S. Senator of Maryland. A considerable number of records of John Lovejoy are in existence. He was named in the will of his uncle, Samuel Lovejoy, (4001), and is recorded Mar. 12, 1765 as selling cattle to Benjamin N. Mitchell. On Sept. 7, 1769 he sold slaves to James Brown, the transaction being recorded in Liber AA of Deeds #2, Folio 22, Upper Marlboro, Prince George County. On Oct. 14, 1775 he bought from Edward Swann for £10, 46 acres called "Priss May Mouth," this transaction being recorded in Liber CC, #2, Folio 260, Prince George County. On Mar. 7, 1776, acc. to Liber CC, #2, Folio 259, Prince George County, he bought from George Naylor, Jr. for £57, 16s, 3d., 54 3/4 acres of a tract called "Good Luck." In Liber FF, #2, Folio 441, Marlboro, George Naylor, Sr., deeded a slave girl to Rebecca Lovejoy, John's wife. John Lovejoy made his will in Nov. 1804 which was proved July 9, 1808, and which is recorded in Liber TT of Wills, #1, Folio 3, Upper Marlboro.

Susannah E. was b. Fairfax County, Va., June, 1769 and d. Washington, Feb. 22, 1815. There are a number of court records about John Naylor Lovejoy. On Aug. 3, 1792, he sold a slave to Henry and John Francis Hardey, acc. to Liber JRM, No. 1, Folio 274, Prince George County. On July 6, 1808, he declined to serve as administrator for the estate of his father and asked the appointment of William Nevitt. Acc. to his descendants, John Naylor and his brothers were large men, several of them over six feet. When about 18 years old, he changed his religion from the Church of England to the Methodist Church and was one of the founders of the first Methodist Church in Washington called "The Foundry." He gave the slaves he had inherited from his father their freedom and they always affectionately called him "Marse Jackey." He became a contractor in Georgetown, D. C. and also owned some boats which navigated the Potomac River and which carried stone for the first U. S. Capitol. He later accepted a position in the Treasury Dept. and during his many years the building was twice burned, first by the British and later in President Van Buren's administration.

Dr. James W. H. Lovejoy was graduated from Columbian University, Washington, receiving his A. B. degree in 1844 and his A. M. in 1877. He taught school but later studied medicine, graduating from the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia in March, 1851. He became professor of chemistry in the medical department of Georgetown University and delivered the first course of lectures beginning May, 1851. Later he was appointed professor of materia medica in Georgetown in 1880 and became professor of theory and practice of medicine in 1883. He resigned in 1898 but was made emeritus professor. He was a member of the American Medical Association, was twice elected president of the Medical Association of the District of Columbia, in 1870 and 1871, was consulting physician of the Children's Hospital from 1881 until death and of the Garfield Memorial Hospital. He was also a director of the Arlington Fire Insurance Company of Washington.

June 22, 1892 Jane Clyde Fleming, dau. of Robert James Fleming. Francis T. F. Lovejoy was internationally famous a few years ago as a steel magnate and mining operator. He started as a telegrapher with the Carnegie Steel Company, rising to become secretary and manager. According to Vol. 11, Who's Who in America, he "resigned 1900, refusing to take part in attack by majority stockholders on Frick" and he later wrote a new agreement. According to The Pittsburgh Leader of June 24, 1906, F. T. F. Lovejoy "was one of the adjudicators of the famous legal fight whose settlement foreshadowed the organization of the U. S. Steel Corporation. He retired from the Carnegie Company when Mr. Frick parted from Andrew Carnegie." He interested himself in gold mining in 1902 and 1903 and with J. C. Russell and other Pittsburghers exploited the Thunder Mountain district of Idaho known as the Sunnyside properties. Also, according to Who's Who in America F. T. F. Lovejoy "was first American who owned and rode a bicycle, Nov. 1876." F. T. F. Lovejoy was greatly interested in genealogy and at considerable cost engaged several professional research genealogists who traced out his line and that of the principal southern branches of the family by examining court and parish records in Maryland.

Ross Lovejoy always believed him to be descended from Edward Lovejoy (4006) who moved from Prince George County, Md., after 1765, to South Carolina but the names of Edward's sons do not include a James (George?) Lovejoy. There was also a report that either this branch of the Lovejoys or the Satterwhites was connected with the Calhoun family.

Ross Lovejoy between 1900 and 1908 collected a vast amount of Lovejoy genealogical material but several changes of business and later his failing health prevented him from publishing any of his material, all of which later became available to the Compiler. D. Ross Lovejoy was one of two American inventors, the other being Charles S. Bradley, who at Niagara Falls, succeeded in creating the first industrial apparatus for converting the nitrogen of the air into nitric acid by means of electric sparks. A descriptive article about D. Ross Lovejoy appeared in Scribner's Magazine Nov., 1916. As early as 1902 Lovejoy and Bradley published their results and the details of their apparatus. To them belongs the credit of first demonstrating publicly that nitric acid could be produced from the air in practically unlimited quantities. Only enough capital and cheap electric power were necessary. Electric current as sold in Niagara Falls at $18 an H. P. proved the first bar to the commercial utilization of their process. About 1906 when their financial backers, frightened by the need of huge further investments, withdrew their support, D. Ross Lovejoy moved from Niagara, first to Bradford, Pa., then to Irvington, N. Y. and later to New York City where he became connected with Cooper Institute as an administrative officer. He, as a youth, studied at Cooper Institute and also took courses in Columbia University. The Lovejoy-Bradley apparatus showed yields of conversion of 2 1/2% which was superior to the yields of some of their successors in this field of experiment. D. R. Lovejoy held the degrees of B. S. and E. E.

4258 JOHN LOVEJOY deeded land on Jan. 30, 1779 in County of Youghyaugany, state of Virginia, which was later incorporated within the boundary of Pennsylvania. This is recorded in Washington Co. deeds. Another record in the same county office shows that Joseph Lovejoy (4259) of Cross Creek, deeded land on Apr. 7, 1794.

4260 BENJAMIN LOVEJOY and his wife deeded land on Aug. 12, 1819 in Mifflin Twp. acc. to Alleghany, Pa. records. This may be the "Captain Benjamin Lovejoy" who served eight days from June 17 to June 24, 1792 in a "volunteer corps of scouts on the frontier of Alleghany County, State of Pennsylvania," according to the original payroll for this service, now in the possession of Dr. Edward D. Lovejoy (2525.)

AN EARLY LOVEJOY IN NEW JERSEY

THERE is a clear record of one seventeenth-century Lovejoy in New Jersey, but only one. No record is found of his marriage or of any children, and whether he moved north or south to become merged in the New England or Maryland lines of the family is not known. In only one book that the Compiler has found is this New Jersey Lovejoy mentioned.

John Clement wrote in 1877 Sketches of the First Emigrant Settlers in Newton Township, Old Gloucester County, West New Jersey, and this volume includes several interesting references to one William Lovejoy. He was an important and useful pioneer in these settlements along the Delaware River. The Compiler indexes him as No. 5000.

It is related that in 1683 Richard Mathews, a "factor" living in England who perhaps himself did not come to America, obtained on a survey 500 acres in Newton township. In 1691, through Elias Farr, his attorney, Mathews conveyed 100 acres to William Lovejoy, it being that part of the survey lying east of what is now the main street of Haddonfield, N. J. but which then was only a bridle path or Indian trail.

William Lovejoy was the town's all-round tinker. What was undoubtedly his shop is marked on a map made in 1700. This chart is labeled "This Drafft by Thomas Sharp, 1700, In Order for Information to & Concerning those of his Lands" and the chart was entered in the clerks office of the U. S. District Court for the District of New Jersey according to the Act of Congress of 1870. The shop was probably erected by William Lovejoy whose business is described by Clement as "the duties of a tinker, a gunsmith and a clock maker also, and that he looked after all the hardware of the housekeepers near his place; kept all the fowling-pieces and muskets in good order; and regulated the clocks thereabouts when the sun shone and his dial was properly adjusted." Clement refers, for authority, to Lib. B, 129, probably in the Secretary of State's files at Trenton.

In 1696, Thomas Gardiner, as administrator, conveyed to Lovejoy fifty acres of land "for services rendered." These services were those of a blacksmith; but William Lovejoy abandoned this calling after a few years.

William, in 1697, deeded land to Thomas Kendall at Uxbridge "lying on the south branch of Cooper's Creek on the road leading from Salem to Burlington." William probably gave the name of Uxbridge to this community and it is suggested that he may have emigrated to America from Uxbridge, Middlesex County, England. The name of Uxbridge rarely appears in New Jersey records and this town is now Haddonfield.

In 1710 John Kay purchased the "Lovejoy Survey," partly covered now by the town of Haddonfield, and he died there. Proud's History of Pennsylvania says that "John Kay was the first child born of English parents in Philadelphia, and that William Penn gave him a square of ground. He was born in a cave, long afterward known by the name of Penny Pot, near Sassafras Street."

The Compiler wonders if William Lovejoy died unmarried and without issue. Clement's book lists a considerable number of early marriages in Newton and nearby towns but no Lovejoy marriages are recorded. The weddings in the following New Jersey communities are listed:—in Burlington of Newton Meeting families; Salem; Newton Friends; Haddonfield Meeting; Chester Meeting (Moorestown); Evesham Meeting; Woodbury Creek Meeting; and the Secretary of State's files for Burlington and Gloucester counties.

There is the remote possibility, of course, that this William Lovejoy of New Jersey was in some way connected with the line of F. T. F. Lovejoy^7 (4212) which was as follows: William Alexander^6 (4150); Samuel^5 (4090); Samuel^4 (4033); Joseph^3 (4009); Joseph^2 (4003); Joseph^1 (4000). During the early months of F. T. F. Lovejoy's researches into his branch of the family he felt strongly that his line was started by a Lovejoy from "up north," as his forebears had believed. The Maryland Lovejoys are certainly not an offshoot of the New Englanders; but possibly they are linked to this New Jersey man.

UNCONNECTED BRANCHES

The branches and names in this chapter are numbered from 6000 and are those which the Compiler has not been able to identify with known branches. In some cases there have been many indications of certain connections, but unless the connection was unmistakably clear the Compiler has preferred to list such cases in this special chapter. Probably the data here will enable descendants and others interested and concerned to complete the research. In most cases probably only one link is lacking or only one intervening generation or one intervening single name to connect these untraced Lovejoys with the known lines.

The largest group of unconnected Lovejoys embraces those who are descended from a Palmer Lovejoy. Sometimes this name has been spelled Parmer Lovejoy, but this seems an error. The Compiler finds many indications that this branch is an off-shoot of the so-called Connecticut Lovejoys. He believes they are descended from John Lovejoy (15). But neither the Compiler nor a number of others who have tried to link up this large branch of unconnected Lovejoys has succeeded. In Roe's Rose Neighborhood Sketches concerning Rose, Wayne County, N. Y. many of these Lovejoy descendants have been traced in part. Mr. Roe places the birth of Palmer Lovejoy in Sheffield, Mass., a town in the southernmost part of Berkshire County, and in the neighborhood of Canaan, Conn., and not far from such New York towns as New Concord and Canaan, which were the homes of some of the Connecticut Lovejoys as they started to move westward. Mr. Roe describes Palmer as the son of Timothy Lovejoy. The Compiler has been unable to find any Timothy Lovejoy of the Connecticut branch except Timothy (55) who died in infancy in 1716. Possibly this Timothy had a brother of the same name or a nephew who may have been the son of Benjamin (51), or perhaps Richard Lovejoy (52) had a son, Timothy. Conceivably also Captain Daniel Lovejoy (157) may have had a son, Timothy. Still one more supposition is that Palmer Lovejoy's father was Justus Lovejoy (370) and not Timothy at all, in which case Palmer is number 785 in this Genealogy.

However, in the absence of definite facts the Compiler has grouped these descendants of Palmer Lovejoy in this chapter.

6000. TIMOTHY (Generation unknown) prob. one of the Connecticut Lovejoys who descended from John (15). Timothy is said to have had nine sisters. A Timothy Lovejoy paid taxes in Sheffield in 1783 and for several years after. A Mary Lovejoy (6000A) who m. Zebadiah Huggins (pub. Mar. 8, 1800), prob. in Sheffield, may have been a sister of Timothy.

Palmer moved from Sheffield to Rose, Wayne County, N. Y. in 1812 with his oldest son, Silas (6002). He had previously bought, without having seen it, a farm of 400 acres from a Mr. Chapman of Connecticut who had married a Sheffield girl but his wife had been "afraid to go west." The Sheffield town clerk reported in 1901 that Palmer paid his first poll tax there in 1784.

There is another unconnected branch, traceable back to a William Lovejoy who married Hepsey Farley. Mrs. Leonora Boynton of Ontario, N. Y., who studied the ancestry some years ago, believed William Lovejoy was a son of the hard-to-identify Peter Lovejoy who married Silence Bartlett. If this is so, this line is connected with No. 286 in this genealogy. But because of his precautions against "guess-work" the Compiler lists this branch as "unconnected." The Compiler consequently will trace this line according to Mrs. Boynton's suggestions although Howard Bela Palmer who now (1929) lives at 4114 Iroquois Avenue, Erie, Pa., and who has made considerable studies has not, so far, connected William with Peter.

6078. PETER, son of ...., m. Brookfield, Mass. Dec. 25, 1771 Silence Bartlett, who was b. Feb. 17, 1744. They res. Palmer, Mass. The Compiler has encountered this Peter Lovejoy-Silence Bartlett couple before and believes this Peter is prob. Peter (286). Still another possibility is that Peter was son of a Samuel and Hannah (Stephens) Lovejoy (?).

Another unconnected branch appears to be traceable back to a Benjamin Lovejoy who belonged to a New England branch but whose descendants settled in Madison County, N. Y. Perhaps this Benjamin whom the Compiler numbers 6099 is the Benjamin referred to in the biography of John Lovejoy (15); or it may be the Benjamin (285) who may have lived at Westminster, Vt. The History of Chenango and Madison Counties is in error in a number of places about this branch. A great grandson, Charles E. Lovejoy, who now (1929) lives in Madison, N. Y., regarded Benjamin as having been born in Augusta Center, N. Y., the son of Elijah Lovejoy (6100) who lived near Bennington, Vt.

From data supplied thirty years ago by Mrs. Abigail Amelia Baldwin (dau. of 6101) of South Egremont, Mass., and Emma Adelaide Lovejoy (6114) the following is the probable outline of this branch.

6099. BENJAMIN, son of ...., b. about 1770; d. Madison, N. Y. Nov. 1860; m. (1) ....; m. (2) Lois Risley, who was b. about 1773 and who d. 1869 at Madison.

6127. PETER CORNEILLE, son of .... There is a possibility that Peter Corneille, who has been reported by several correspondents as the ancestor of their branch, is the same man as Peter (?) 115A. But, because this son of Benjamin (35) is in doubt, the Compiler refrains from linking Peter Corneille with this branch definitely, preferring to record him in the Unconnected Chapter until proof is more certain. One report is that Peter Corneille's father was b. in the south of France. Ellen J. Hunter, who lived in 1908 at 43 Jenness Street, Lowell, Mass., wrote to DRL that Peter Corneille may possibly have been a son of Abijah (115) or conceivably a son of Benjamin (107). Peter m. Anne Averill who may previously have married Asa Averill. According to the Town Records of Westminster, Vt. she was b. in the Autumn of 1751 and was the first white female child b. in the town, which was chartered Nov. 9, 1752. Indeed, the Westminster records show that a Peter Lovejoy d. Nov. 29, 1793, ae. 39 yrs. which would have made Peter's birth about 1754. The deaths of three of his chdn. who died young are also recorded: Peter (6128) died Oct. 1, 1777, ae. 7 months; Jerusha (6129) died July 26, 1786, ae. 6 months and Thankful Lovejoy (6130) b. July 26, 1790 "died September 28, 1793 in the second year of his age". Peter Lovejoy was in the Revolution and may have been a major as was Abijah (115).

6181. JABEZ, son of .... Jabez Lovejoy was the ancestor of most of the Lovejoys of Cherry Valley, N. Y. But, so far as the Compiler knows, no research worker has definitely found the correct ancestry of Jabez. Possibly he was connected with Nathan Lovejoy (223) who prob. moved from Andover to Cherry Valley. But it is more likely that Jabez was from a Connecticut branch. The Compiler thinks he was connected in some way to the family of Phineas Lovejoy (333). Phineas had a son named Jabez but it does not appear to be the same man as the father of the Cherry Valley Lovejoys, who m. Sarah Trumbull of Stonington, Conn. After Jabez died about 1804, Sarah m. (2) Joseph Camp and had six chdn. by him. One of the descendants of Jabez (6181) was Mrs. Anna (Lovejoy) Hawks (6187) who worked zealously on this branch but without discovering the forebears of Jabez.

6207. LAWRENCE C. LOVEJOY, whose address (1929) was 218 Kenilworth Drive, Akron, Ohio, may be a member of the Cherry Valley branch of the Lovejoy family inasmuch as he advised the Compiler he had read of the preparation of the Lovejoy Genealogy in the Cherry Valley (N. Y.) Gazette. He did not respond, however, with additional information to the two questionnaires sent him.

6208. NATHAN, son of ...., possibly connected to the Cherry Valley Lovejoys. This is another branch of the family reported to be descended from a Nathan Lovejoy. Apparently both these branches had descendants residing in South Valley, Otsego Co., N. Y. Similar to the Cherry Valley descendants of Jabez Lovejoy, it is likely that the Nathan Lovejoy branch traces its origin to the Connecticut Lovejoys. According to E. Upton Lovejoy (6266) of South Valley, in a letter written in 1900, Nathan Lovejoy res. in Connecticut and was a Continental soldier in the Revolutionary War. In fact, E. Upton Lovejoy reported that George W. Lovejoy (2565) had once declared that his grandfather, John Lovejoy (815), had brothers named David and Nathan and that the last named was the progenitor of the South Valley branch. The Compiler doubts this, however, because John Lovejoy (815) had neither a brother, Nathan, nor a brother, David. All these families were, however, from the Connecticut branches and no doubt there is some inter-relation that has not been discovered. Acc. to E. Upton Lovejoy, Nathan Lovejoy (6208) went from Connecticut to South Valley in 1820, dying there. This is believed to be an error, however, because on Apr. 1, 1818, a

Nathan Lovejoy, residing then in Cherry Valley, N. Y., filed an application with the Bureau of Pensions in Washington for a Revolutionary War pension. He described himself as 59 yrs. old and certified that he had enlisted as a private for one year in Apr. 1776 in Capt. Dickerson's Co., of Colonel Samuel Elmore's Regt. and that in Apr. 1778 he enlisted for nine months as a private in Capt. Wright's Co., of Colonel Van Cortland's Regt. Both these were N. Y. regts. and it is unlikely that Nathan could have been a resident of Connecticut at the time. At least one of Nathan's descendants, acc. to E. Upton Lovejoy, joined the Sons of the Revolution but, whereas the descent of Nathan is well known, we are still unfamiliar with his ancestry. Nathan is reported to have married Louise Davis Dec. 9, 1780.

6475. JOHN LOVEJOY, son of —— ——; possibly connected to families of 287 or 35, because of his residence in Westminster, Vt. John Lovejoy's widow applied to the Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C. for a Revolutionary War pension on June 1, 1843. She averred that John Lovejoy enlisted at Westminster, Vt., and served as a private for one month and twenty days in 1778 in Captain Bush's Co. of a Vermont Regiment. Later he served, in 1781, as a private for five months, seventeen days, under Capt. Abner Seeley, in a Vermont Regiment. The widow certified that her maiden name was Asenath Petty and that she married John Lovejoy at Westminster May 29, 1789. He died Nov. 14, 1817 and she m. (2) Asahel Goodell on June 25, 1830. Goodell d. 1831 and she received the pension as the former widow of John Lovejoy.

6476. ANDREW LOVEJOY, son of —— ——. He applied for Revolutionary War pension on July 17, 1832 while res. Hudson, N. Y. He certified he was born Noblestown, N. Y. 1760. He served several enlistments during the Revolutionary War and witnessed the execution of Major Andre. Andrew Lovejoy also engaged in a skirmish with Indians in Schoharie County, N. Y. and reported that he had enlisted from Hillsdale, N. Y. His pension application listed the following service: enlisted spring of 1777 for five months as a private under Capt. James Spencer of Colonel Ten Eyck's Regt.; in 1778 as a private for ten months in Capt. Ezekiel Cooper's Company; enlisted Sept. 1779 as private for three months under Capt. Joshua Whitney of Colonel Waterman's Regt.; later enlisted as private for one month in Capt. Daniel Salisbury's Company of Colonel Oldham's Regt.; later enlisted as private for two months in Capt. Aaron Hall's Company; and in Spring of 1780 enlisted as private for nine months under Capt. Thomas Brown of Colonel Harper's Regt.

6477. ANDREW LOVEJOY, son of —— ——; he is described by Mary Lucy Lovejoy (6486) as being a Revolutionary soldier and may possibly be Andrew Lovejoy (6476). It is also possible but remote that he is the Andrew Lovejoy mentioned under 160.

Child

+6478. JAMES
Another son, prob. named Andrew, is also suggested by Eva C. Reifsnider (6492), who thought Andrew and James m. twin sisters and that Andrew's descendants live at Pen Yan, N. Y. She also believed that there was another Andrew Lovejoy and a Peter Lovejoy living at Benton Center, N. Y.

6585. HOWARD BENTLEY LOVEJOY, son of —— ——. He is reported by his descendants in Seattle, Wash. to have been born in Maine, to have run away to sea, and to have settled in San Francisco. He m. Calista Kinney, later settling in the state of Washington. The Compiler thinks that this Howard Bentley is Bentley Lovejoy (1116), who is reported, earlier in this Genealogy, to have "left home for California" but also it was reported that he was drowned and, because of this latter unconfirmed report, the Compiler places this branch in the unconnected Chapter. There is a possibility, of course, that Howard Bentley could be the Howard B. Lovejoy (2019) but again there is confusion because of the report that 2019 died young.

Children

6586. LAURIN BENTLEY b. Coupeville, Island Co., Wash., May 19, 1872; m. Sept. 19, 1897 or 98 Winifred McEwing, b. Apr. 24, 1877. Laurin B. Lovejoy is known in Seattle, Wash. where he res. (1929) as Captain Ben Lovejoy and operates a fleet of boats. He adopted a child Hazel ...., b. 1914.

Child

+6605. CHARLES ORLANDO

6605. CHARLES ORLANDO, son of William (6603), reported to have been born about 1854 in Bangor or Portland, Me. The Compiler would suspect this Charles Orlando might be Orlando Lovejoy (2170) except for the difference in the reported names of their fathers. Charles Orlando m. Rochester, Minn., about 1879, Effie C. Henderson.

Children

+6606. WILLIAM ARTHUR
6607. JESSIE HELENA d. 1921, ae. about 37 yrs.

6615. WARREN LOVEJOY, son of —— ——. He is reported by his grandson, George W. Lovejoy (6617), to have served in the Civil War and to have been "one of four brothers who came from England." The Compiler questions this last. Warren may possibly be Henry Warren Lovejoy (1003A).

Child

+6616. DARIUS LAWRENCE

6616. DARIUS LAWRENCE, son of Warren Lovejoy (6615), b. Feb. 21, 1859.

Numbers after names refer to the individual numbers assigned to Lovejoys and not to page numbers.

Superior numbers after first names of Lovejoys refer to the generation from the emigrant John[1] Lovejoy of Andover.

In using index, it is sometimes necessary to look for variants in names, i. e., Abbott and Abbot; Abiel and Abial; Abigail, Abbie and Nabby; Elizabeth, Bessie, Betsy and Lizzie; Johnson and Johnston; Mary, Molly and Polly; Pearce and Pierce; Phebe and Phoebe; Sarah, Sally and Sadie; Thompson and Thomson, etc., etc.
